GOMPERS WRITES LABOR DAY HISTORY

President of American Federation Originated Movement at Meeting in New York in 1882.

NOW HOLIDAY IN ALL STATES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4-Samuel Gompers, founder and president of the American Federation of Labor, gave out for publication today some interesting historical matter on the observance of

"Undoubtedly the first suggestion of setting apart a day in each year to be observed as Labor day," said Mr. Gompers. "was conceived by the late P. J. McGuire, who was at that time secretary of the United Brotherhood of Car-The suggestion occurred during the period when the Knights of Labor was in existence, P. J. McGuire being a nember of that organization.

Writing for the American Federation ist in 1902, P. J. McGuire had this to say: Pagan feasts and Christian observances have come down to us through the long ages. But it was reserved for this country, and for the American people, to give birth to Labor day. In this they or the tollers of the earth and pay nomage to those who from rude nature have delved and carved all the comfort and grandour we behold. More than all, the thought, the coneption, yes, the very inspiration of this holiday came from men in the ranks of the working people, men active in uplifting their fellows and leading them to better conditions. It came from a little group in New York City, the Central Labor union, which had just been formed, and which in later years attained widespread influence

Compers Originates Idea. 'On May 8, 1882, the writer made the proposition. He urged the propriety of setting aside one day in the year to be ignated as Labor day, and to be established as a general holiday for the laboring classes. He advised the day should first be celebrated by a street parade, which would publicly show the strength and esprit du corps of the trade and labor organizations. Next the parade should be followed by a pionic or a fes-tival in some grove, the proceeds of the same to be divided on the semi-co-operative plan. "It was further argued Labor day should be observed as one festal day in the year for public tribute to the gentus of American industry. There were other worthy holidays, representative of the religious, civil and military spirit. But none representative of the industrial spirit, the great vital force of every nation. He suggested the first Monday in stamber of every year for such a holiday, as it would come at the most pleasant season of the year, nearly midway between the Fourth of July and Thanksgiving, and would fill a wide gap in the chronology of logal holidays. Many were the cogent reasons he advanced, and at once the idea was enthusiastically em-

From that day on it became a fixed institution in the United States, observed today in every city of the land. The plan was next enorsed by the annual convention of the made it a legal holiday, until finally, June 35, 1854, it became a national holiday by act of congress.

The initial action taken setting apart day in the year on which to review the activities and beneficial influence organised labor occurred at the after-neon meeting of the third day of the fourth annual session of the Federation. otober 9, 1884, the convention being held in Schloesser's hall, Chicago, III. esolution creating Labor day was intround Labor assembly, and was as fol-

"The federation held its annual convention at Columbus, O., December 8-12, 1886. At this session the officers reported the following:

"At the fourth session of the federation a resolution was adopted making the first Monday in September of each year labor's national holiday, and recommending its observance by wage workers generally throughout the country. This met with response that exceeded the most sanguine expectations. In our great manufacturing and distributing centere thousands of workingmen marched saion and participated in the festivities of the pionic grounds, where the most skilled mechanics and workers in desions and laborers united in a comon colebration, exchanging friendly mal greetings while they listened to the champions of labor discussing the economic and political questions of the

The invitation to speak there was extended to him over a year ago, and one of the objet reasons that determined him to accept that invitation was that Marion is in a mining center and afforded him an opportunity to speak to a large number of miners, an opportunity that President Gompers has had only once before in several years. About half a dozen of the neighboring cities will join with Marion in the Labor day celebration and will also participate in the parade. The addresses by labor speakers other than Mr. Gompars will be made by Miss Agnes Nestor, hational president of the Glove Workers; Miss Agnes Burns, representative of the Women's Union Label League of New Work, and Frank Parrington, state president of the United Mine Workers of fill out the afternoon and evening.

Presbyterian Medical Hospital

AND FIRMS WHO HELPED TO BUILD IT

HOSPITAL IS OPENED

Has Home in Turner Residence Improved.

The new Presbyterian Medical hospital at Thirty-fourth and Farnam was formally opened Wednesday, September 1. when a reception was held by Mr. and Mrs. Robert McClelland, the proprietors. More than 1.000 invitations were sent out. and from 3 to 6 in the afternoon and again from 8 until 11 in the evening the visitors were welcomed and piloted through the newly remodeled structure by the corps of nurses. The house was beautifully decorated with palms and flowers and an orchestra was almost hidden by a bank of palms at the end of the eception hall.

The hospital is beautifully furnished in mahogany, and oriental rugs set off the attractive rooms to the best advantage. The whole place has the atmosphere of s home rather than that of a hospital.

Former Home Remodeled. The house, which was formerly the Turner home, has been remodeled and big additions have been made without changing the appearance of the structure as it is seen from the Farnam street side, except where the walk has been taken up and the entrance changed. Instead of entering on the Farnam street side as the visitor once did, he enters from Thirty-fourth street. The rooms are large and attractively furnished, many of them retaining the appearance they had when the house was built, having big mantels and private baths.

The barn has been remodeled and is now a dormitory for the nurses, and has the heating plant and incinerator in the basement. Eleven rooms are reserved for the nurses, of whom there are twenty-five. Thirty-six rooms are reserved for the use of patients, and there is no operating room, all surgical cases being done at the other Presbyterian hospital.

Large Sum Expended. Mr. McClelland acquired the Turner property last spring and has spent about $75,000 on it. It is now one of the meet attractive hospitals in the city, and Mr. McClelland's idea of making it appear homelike rather than hospital-like has succeeded remarkably. The residence was built about twenty-five years ago by Mr. Turner and was at that time one of the finest homes in the west. It has always been a show spot in the city and its ment location on the Farnam car ine has made it a very well-known place.
