HAPPENINGS IN THE MAGIC CITY

Near Riot at Twenty-sixth and N Streets Nipped in Bud by Officers.

BOWLERS GETTING ORGANIZED

What was fast proving to be a near riot was timely nipped in the bud by the police last evening at Twenty-sixth and N streets. Three hundred men, colored and white, had engaged in a free-for-all fight, when a call came to the South Side station. The fight is said to have started over a dog fight staged between owners of two different pool halls on opposite sides of N street a few minutes before the hurry call came in. As the police patrol rounded the corner of Twenty-sixth and N streets at a high rate of speed, several revolver shots rang out and the wagonload of cops broke through the crowd with frenzied haste.

Mike Henderson, keeper at the pool hall at Twenty-sixth and N streets was arrested on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. He had thrown his gun away before the police arrested him. A colored man, said to be the owner of a small dog that was getting the worst of a rough fight with a larger canine owned by a white man, was arrested on a charge of carrying a revolver. The latter lives at 2615 R street.

Sergeant Sheehan headed the detail of officers, who broke up the disturbance. Improvement Club Debate.

South Side Improvement club staged a real debate at the regular meeting Friday evening. The question, "Resolved, That American Cities Should Adopt the Commission Form of Government," proved to be a five topic for discussion. John Schmidt and Adolph Hutchinson had the affirmative, while Edward Krause and T. E. Jensen undertook the negative. The negative won the decision. The club intends to hold a series of debates during the winter and have already made preparations for the next one, which is to be held September 17, the subject, "Woman Suffrage." Mayor Krause and Frank Belding are to be the principals.

Arrests Follow Family Quarrel

On complaint of Truant Officer Paul Macaulay, Joe Russ, baker, living at 422 South Twenty-fifth street, and John Vattva, 414 South Twenty-second street, were arrested last evening at the home of the former at 9 o'clock. It is alleged that the wife of Russ, who is a hard-working man working as a baker in an Omaha bakery, had temporarily left her husband, choosing Vattva, who is said to be godfather of the four children.

The story dates back to the life and marriage of the couple in Europe, according to the neighbors. While his wife was living with the godfather, Russ was working in this country, buying a home for his family. When his wife came here to live she brought Vattva with her and he has lived with the family as a boarder ever since. The arrest followed last evening after a public quarrel following which neighbors called Macaulay.

Peepers Is Arrested

Dr. Charles E. Wakeman, former well known physician of New York City, and graduate of several medical colleges of the country and Germany, was brought into the station last evening by Motor-officer Bert Hlatt on a charge of peeping into windows at Twenty-third and Jackson streets, Maple avenue district. A small bottle partly filled with coke along with a needle was found on the man's person. He was in a hopeless condition mentally and physically and was able to tell little of himself.

Complaints Over Garbage Disposal

Complaints are being made by prominent citizens of N street, among whom are G. F. Beavers and A. A. Wright, heavy taxpayers, over the alleged dumping of garbage in a manhole at the intersection of Twenty-first and M streets by the garbage master of the South Side, Chris Huges. Wright, who will call on the city legal department for an investigation, says that Huges has a permit from the sanitary department of Omaha to dump garbage in the manhole until further notified. The complaint will be made during the coming week.

Laramie Sheepman Here

Charlie Hart of Laramie, Wyo., who has been visiting at the home of B. Jetter, left last evening for his home. Mr. Hart, who conducts a sheep ranch near Laramie, had several consignments of his product on the local market last week. He also brought in a very favorable report in regard to the range conditions in that part of the state, saying that grass has never been better and that stockmen are predicting an unusual heavy year in sheep.

Ure Is Treasurer Everywhere—But Not in Own Home

When City Treasurer Miles of Des Moines was over here for Sunday committee dinner at the Commercial club, he was introduced to W. G. Ure as city treasurer of Omaha.

"Yes," chimed in one of the group, "and Mr. Ure is treasurer for the county and for the school board and for the Water board, too."

"And he is treasurer for the 'Bully' Sunday campaign as well," declared another.

"The only place," replied Ure, modestly acknowledging all these honors, "where I find I can't be treasurer is in my own home!"

MYRON LEARNED'S PEPPERS PROVE HIM "SOME FARMER"

When Blackstone palls, and Chitty no longer thralls, when Somebody on "Torta" grows wearisome, and the "N.-W. Rep." loses its taste, then Myron Learned knows where to turn for certain success and succor from his care.

In the good brown earth he delves, and those who know him well say he gets more real pleasure out of watching things grow in response to his cultural coaxing than he can extract even from a well drawn brief or a sweetly reassembled decision.

Not many folks know this side of his life, but some of his friends have lately had most indubitable proof of his success, such as green peppers that grew at Walden, and would make a king's gardener swell with pride. They have voted him "some farmer."

OMAHA WOMEN MEET D. A. R. TRAVELERS

Mrs. William Cumming Story and Delegation Stop Here Enroute to Exposition.

BOOSTING NATIONAL DEFENSE

Mrs. William Cumming Story of New York, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and a delegation of daughters, who are en route to the San Francisco fair, where they will conduct special patriotic exercises, spent a half-hour in Omaha, Saturday afternoon.

Local daughters, among whom were Mrs. V. R. Straight, regent of Omaha chapter; Mrs. William Archibald Smith, regent of Major Isaac Sadler chapter, and Mrs. J. J. Stubbs, president of the United States Daughters of 1812, met the visiting women at the station to extend greetings.

A huge bouquet of Mrs. Ward roses was presented to Mrs. Story by Mrs. W. L. Selby.

"The daughters are boosting the cause of national defense," said Mrs. Story. "We are pushing our department of international peace and arbitration. One of the daughters, Mrs. McMullen of Chicago, accompanied Miss Jane Addams to Europe for the woman's peace conference."

While all of the visiting Daughters wore their Daughters of the American Revolution pins, Mrs. Story's being a particularly attractive one studded with thirteen diamonds to represent the colonies, most of the local women had forgotten to wear their insignia and were bewailing the fact when they reached the station.

Mrs. Straight had some and Mrs. Selby, vice regent of Omaha chapter, said she had never owned one.

Mrs. John Dinwiddie of Indiana, vice president general and Miss Florence Finch of New York, chairman of the national magazine committee were also members of the party.

The Daughters of the American Revolution, special left for the west at 4:10 p. m., and is scheduled to arrive in San Francisco, September 15.

Omaha University Increases Space

Advance interest by prospective students points to the largest student body enrollment in the history of the University of Omaha when it opens September 15.

Extensive improvements and repairs are under way in both Redick and John Jacob Memorial halls which are expected to relieve the overcrowding of class rooms.

The installation of desks and new equipment in the laboratories will allow a 50 per cent increase of working space. The biology department has also been enlarged by the occupation of the arts room.

The admitting of Dundee students to the Omaha High school will tend to lessen the enrollment in the academic department to such an extent that Dean Halsey has so increased as to warrant its enlargement.

Pedagogical subjects are to be made one of the big features of the school this season. Since the university has been allowed to give its graduates a first-class state teachers' certificate this department has so increased as to warrant its enlargement.

A pre-medical course will also be one of the features. The course has been so arranged that it meets the requirements of the surrounding medical colleges.

To take the place of F. P. Ramsay of the sacred literature department, Henry Reibert, Ph. D., has been secured. He will also help in the German department. Miss Mantor of the University of Nebraska will have charge of the biology department, while Miss E. Gordon of the same university has been secured for the English department. Miss Kate McHugh

Gayety's New Bill Shows Good Solo And Choral Numbers

The solo and chorus numbers of Harry Hastings show at the Gayety are unusually worthy. Dan Coleman's clever make-up and whistled tunes are much in evidence. The show opened a week's engagement last evening. The curtain went up at 9:10 and the performers romped through the program with considerable spirit.

This production came clean from the east to open the season here and they came "clean," too, because there was little or nothing of suggestive stuff heard of or nothing of suggestive stuff heard of.

Assisting Mr. Coleman in the principal parts are Palmer Hines, Jenn Leonard, William Bovis, Arthur Henry, Phil Peters, Florence Darley, Alma Bauer, Anna Corners and Hazel Lorraine.

Miss Bauer departs her sumptuous personality in a series of attractive gowns. She wears an ankle watch and shows how a woman acts when she has dabbled long over wine for which some one else is paying.

The audience is given a glimpse into the interior of a submarine and is shown how divers neglect their work when they meet a coterie of mermaids beneath the sea. A novel offering is talking moving pictures.
