

"BILLY" MAKES HIT WITH THE MAIL MEN

After Short Talk by Sunday and "Ma" Letter Carriers Rush to Platform to Shake Hands.

MANY RESOLUTIONS PASSED

"I saw you when you were playing ball in the east." "The last time I saw you you were with Jimmy Ryan." "Billy, you're a wonder!"

A roaring wave of exclamations like this flooded "Billy" Sunday and "Ma" Sunday at the Auditorium yesterday morning, when 1,000 letter carriers from all over the United States crowded upon the platform to shake hands with the pair, just after Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Sunday had addressed the letter carriers' convention.

A shirt salesman slipped into the throng and tried to gain "Billy's" attention long enough to sell him a shirt. When "Billy" didn't buy, the salesman told "Ma" on whom he handed her his card, and was washed away by the wave of humanity.

"We ought to let the dance this evening go to the dickens," said Vice President Johnson, "and all go down to the 'Billy' Sunday meeting. He'll do our cause more good than the dance. I dance myself, but I realize that having 'Billy' Sunday with us in this pension fight is worth a lot to us. Besides, he could do some good morally."

Still the crowd massed upon the platform and shook the hands of the evangelist pair.

"Attention," right out of a clear sky the chairman announced to the noisy house that the reservation of 200 seats at the tabernacle for the letter carriers for the evening revival had been raised to 500.

Take Up Pension Fight. "Billy" Sunday told the letter carriers that he was familiar with their fight for a retirement pension, and that he was going to take up the fight. "I am familiar with it and am going to preach it," said the evangelist. A great roar of applause followed this announcement.

Sunday told of his base ball experience, of the catch he made in the field when the pennant depended on it, of how he appealed to God, "Oh, Lord, if you ever helped mortal man, help me to catch this fly, and you ain't got much time to make up your mind."

And in his own inimitable words, "There was a big crowd of spectators in my way. I yelled, 'Get out o' h' way,' and the crowd opened like the Red sea for the wand of Moses. I reached out my hand, the ball hit it and stuck."

"Ma" Makes a Talk. "Ma" Sunday told the letter carriers of the carrier she remembers best. She said his name was Stevens. He was the man who carried "Billy's" love letters to her many years ago. "That man told me not to marry 'Billy' Sunday," she said. "I asked him why and he said 'Billy' was such a fast runner he would run away from me. I told him he was simply mad about it because 'Billy' was writing so many letters that he had to carry. Some of them were actually forty-eight pages long, and they never said a thing except how lonesome he was."

It was when Mrs. Sunday had finished that the crowd rushed up on the stage just like a crowd of converts "hitting the trail."

Part of the resolutions were considered at the morning session. According to the resolutions each branch of the national association is to secure all possible data regarding the new system of reduction of salaries for carriers in the collection service and have this ready to be presented in brief to the department with a request for the reinstatement of these men to their former salaries.

Too Much Power. It was also resolved that too much power rests in the hands of superiors in the various offices, and that the association is to use its influence to obtain a ruling that will make a man's job good during good behavior instead of being dependent upon the whims of a superior.

The resolutions endorsed the Hamill bill, which is the federal bill by Congressman Hamill seeking to pension superannuated employes after thirty years of service.

The department will be asked by one resolution to be more considerate of the health and welfare of employes in some of the rested postoffices in the country which are said to be unsanitary and poorly lighted.

The carriers asked by resolution that carriers in second class offices be put on the same salary as those in first class offices, since the work is largely the same.

PREPARE TO RUSH THE DARDANELLES

British Transport Sunk. BERLIN, Sept. 9.—(By wireless to Tuckerton, N. J.)—A statement given out by the Overseas News Agency today quotes the Weser Zeitung of Bremen as saying that the British steamship Southland, serving as a transport, was torpedoed recently in Turkish waters.

The Weser Zeitung of Bremen points out that the transport Southland was torpedoed in Turkish waters. The Southland formerly was the Red Star liner Verdenland. These steamers flew the Belgian flag up to the time of the occupation of Belgium and then sailed under the American flag. Now the Southland, which lately was flying the American flag, suddenly was changed into a British transport.

No previous report has been made concerning the torpedoing of the Southland. The British government has made no announcement of the sinking of another transport in that section following the loss of the Royal Edward on August 14. Shipping records show, however, that the Red Star liner Verdenland was renamed the Southland being placed under the British flag and was commandeered by the British government for war purposes last March.

Broken Homes and Broken Lives Go Hand in Hand, Says Sunday

"Billy" Preaches One of His Most Famous Sermons on Beauties of Real Home Life.

TRAIN CHILDREN AT HOME

"Billy" Sunday at the tabernacle last evening preached his famous sermon on "The Home," speaking in part as follows: "The spot around which clusters more sweet associations and precious memories than any other place in all the world—the home."

The longer I live and the more I visit up and down this land and see the joys and sorrows, the successes and failures of men and women, the more thoroughly I become impressed with the fact that the greatest institution of the American people today is the home, and every home should be the center of all that is elevating, inspiring and uplifting, and every home should be dead to anything that disgraces and pollutes.

Not only peace and happiness center about the home, but all that is moral and religious as well. I believe the downfall of most men and women can be traced to some defect in the home.

The genesis of villainy, it is a big question to answer in one sermon, but I am going to say something about that later.

One-third of them have lost their parents; one-half have lost either father or mother, and 65 per cent are from homes where the parents have been divorced.

Broken homes and broken lives seem to go hand in hand; they are inseparably connected. Modesty to the Winds.

The women are silly, frivolous, extravagant; they have thrown to the winds all modesty, prudence, religion and the virtues that are so attractive in women, and have allowed themselves to be flattered, caajoled and bamboozled by a lot of jilted jays with cracked characters, and they turn their homes into a third-rate gambling den and booze joint.

They have vaudeville in their homes, they indulge in gambling, and the average society woman today is more familiar with the names of fancy wines and champagnes than she is with classic literature or the word of God.

The prettiest picture that God has ever painted or the world ever looked at is a father and a mother that love Jesus Christ, and they take hold of the hand of their eldest child and the next oldest child, and the next child, down the line to the youngest, and the whole family go shouting and singing into glory.

The blackest picture the world may see is to see a father and mother without Christ, a mother without Christ, and, locking arms, taking hold of the hands of the oldest child and the next, and the next, and on down to the youngest, and see that whole family going to hell.

Home Makes the Boy. The boy who has a wholesome home and surroundings and a judicious control included does not often find his way into the reformatory.

And that parent who is afraid to correct his child may be compelled to see the state correct him in some state institution. You may see him yanked from your arms because you are derelict in your duty.

Anarchy is not born in the anarchistic riots of the Haymarket; it is kindled in the home.

What the child is in the home, he will be in the streets and in public. Hear me! Forty-six million farmers in this country are being taught how to take care of the hog, what slop to feed him, how to feed him, to add a few extra pounds to his flesh and an extra curl to his tail.

Many a woman never darns a stocking, never a piece of hemstitching on a handkerchief, never puts any lace or insertion on a shirt; they manage to drag their carcasses around, and if they ever go out, it is to some entertainment, lynch, or out to some opera, and out to some fashionable milliner; that eternal routine of "bride what, dressmaker, milliners; they beat that little path."

They never go out to help the poor; they never try to do anything in the homes of squallor or want; they never try to bridge the chasm, and meet the fellow with the dinner bucket.

If he goes to church, he thinks they are too stuck up, great big stiff, and he tells them to go plumb to—

And if you die and they keep it out of the newspapers, no one will ever miss you. Not even your husband, only when he gets your millinery bill shoved under his nose.

Lots of Women Neglect Homes. This is the God's truth and you know it. There are lots of women who are absolutely homesick. The most good-for-nothing woman in God's world is some so-called woman who craves nothing for anything but society, fizzes and fine clothes.

I tell you what is the matter with you mothers. You are neglecting your home for the lodge, for your clubs, for your literary and your society.

You ought to be in the house instead of letting the saloons get them. You should spend more time with your children.

The learning of the school and college will soon fade out of the minds of a girl and boy, but what they learn at your knee will stick when all else is gone.

Conversation is Important. There are few things I think more important than conversation. Think of the good we can do in our home or the pain we can give with our tongues.

Loving conversation is a great panacea many a time. In many a home there is none. There is no regretful good-bye when the children go to school, no affectionate greeting when they come home, no friendly chat—more an eaten in silence. The old man never speaks except when he grows and wants some one to pass him more grub; for all practical purposes it might as well be a deaf and dumb apoplexy.

devil-inspired sentences, this is the limit. "A child should be seen and not heard." Were you seen and heard when you were a kid? I always felt sorry for the boy that wears long curls. When he goes down the street they'll say, "Pipe his nits."

I will give you some don'ts. Don't tell the children what you don't mean. Don't wait on them too much. Don't make them wait too much on you. Don't break your promises to them.

Don't hurt their self-respect by punishing them when company is present; wait until the company goes home and then give them what is coming to them.

Don't break your promises to them. Don't break your promises to them. Don't break your promises to them.

Don't break your promises to them. Don't break your promises to them. Don't break your promises to them.

MECHANICS WILL DECIDE THE WAR

Lloyd George Tells Trade Unionists They Have in Their Hands Fate of Europe.

NO TURNING OF OTHER CHEEK

BRISTOL, England, Sept. 9.—Amid uproarious applause and some confusion, caused by an insistent delegate demanding the right to question him, the British minister of munitions addressed a packed hall of trade unionists here this afternoon, striking the keynote of his speech with the declaration that the war had resolved itself into a conflict between the mechanics in the contending nations.

"With you," said the minister, "victory is assured. Without you our cause is lost."

"It came here as the greatest employer of labor in this country. You passed resolutions yesterday pledging yourselves to assist the government in a successful prosecution of the war, and I am here in behalf of the government to take you at your word."

As between British and German workmen the minister said he believed the British were the better. You passed resolutions yesterday pledging yourselves to assist the government in a successful prosecution of the war, and I am here in behalf of the government to take you at your word."

The trades union congress adopted virtually without opposition at today's session a resolution presented by the Railway Clerks' union on the subject of recruiting. The congress resolved:

"That this congress, being convinced that the issues involved in the present European war are of transcendent importance to the democracies of this and other countries hereby records its entire approval of the action of parliamentary labor party in co-operating with the other political parties in the national recruiting campaign."

Consensus of opinion as revealed in speeches in support of the resolution that it was no part of the teaching of trades unionism that it is the duty of man to turn the other cheek to the man who smites him. One speaker said that if, when "dear Brother Fritz" invaded Belgium the British government had not decided to resist this move, the men and women of Britain would have forced it to do so.

RUSSIANS WIN NEAR TARNOPOL

Continued from Page One. situation remains unchanged. The German attempts to advance Tuesday in the region of the railway station at Gross Ekau (south of Riga) and Neuhut were repulsed. In the direction of Dvinsk there were only unimportant advance posts.

The fight for the river Laute continues. In order to occupy a more covered position, our troops removed a little to the right of the Laute.

From Grodno stubborn German attacks continue in the region of the railway station at Drusenki and toward Skidel. In the latter direction, repulsing the enemy, we inflicted on him great losses and took some scores of prisoners.

Many Prisoners Taken. In Galicia, near Tarnopol, yesterday we achieved a great success against the Germans. The German Third guards division and the Forty-eighth reserve division, reinforced by an Austrian brigade, with great quantities of heavy and light artillery, according to statements made by prisoners, had been preparing for several days a decisive attack. This was fixed for the night of Tuesday-Wednesday. Foretelling the enemy, our troops took the offensive and after a stubborn fight on the River Dolinka the Germans were completely defeated Tuesday evening.

"At the end of the engagement the enemy developed an artillery fire of most extraordinary intensity. Only the impossibility of replying with the same weight of metal prevented us from further developing the success we had obtained. The Germans, besides suffering enormous losses in killed and wounded, left prisoners in our hands more than 300 officers and 8,000 men. We captured thirty guns, fourteen of which were of heavy caliber, many machine guns, gun limbers and other booty."

Several Villages Captured. Further south, in the region of Trembowla, on the Tisza, we repulsed the enemy from a series of villages, making prisoners over forty officers and nearly 150 soldiers, together with three guns and a dozen machine guns.

"Between the Dniester and the left bank of the Sereth the Austrians passed to the offensive in the course of the 7th in the region of the village of Voriatynze. By flank attacks one of our battalions answered with the same vigor and took prisoners eleven officers and over 1,000 Austrians with machine guns.

The fortunate withdrawal of our armies from the difficult position before the Vistula, where they were surrounded by the enemy, is beginning to make itself felt now by partial successes."

Mexican Sasy He Voted Dem Ticket For Two Dollars

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 8.—The United Fruit company advertised today that it would pay the ransom demanded by an anonymous letter written for Captain McLaren, two members of the crew and two passengers of the lost liner Marowine, whom the writer says, are held prisoners on an island in the Gulf of Mexico.

The advertisement was signed by C. H. Ellis, vice president of the company, who explained it was called forth by the receipt of a second anonymous letter from the person who wrote the company August 23 that five men from the Marowine were held for ransom and that the ship's papers and the captain's watch had been taken to the company's New York office as proof. The writer was invited to communicate with Mr. Ellis.

"We have received none of the proofs you refer to at our New York office," the advertisement read. "If you have any proofs present them; we are willing to pay the ransom demanded."

Mr. Ellis said he placed no faith in the truth of the anonymous writer's claims, but said he wished, if possible, to clear up the mystery.

Recent search of the Gulf islands by naval and United Fruit vessels revealed no trace of any of the Marowine survivors.

Coal Operators Held for Death of Nineteen Miners

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 9.—Announcement was made today that the attorney general of British Columbia had laid indictments for manslaughter against Thomas Graham and J. H. Tonkin, two of the most prominent mining men in Canada. They are charged with carelessness in connection with the disaster that caused the loss of nineteen lives in the Reserve mine near Nanaimo on February 15 last.

Graham is chief inspector of mines for the provincial government. Tonkin is manager of the Western Fuel company, which has large collieries at Nanaimo and large selling depots in San Francisco and other coast cities.

A wall of 60 feet thick was supposed to separate the Reserve from the old workings of South Wellington mine, which had been flooded for years. A blast in the Reserve broke the wall into the South Wellington mine and nineteen miners were drowned in the flood which poured through the opening.

It was asserted, that Tonkin had been directing operations, having measurements on copies of maps of the old Wellington workings. The copies had been drawn to a different scale from the originals, and the wall of 60 feet, which was supposed to exist, was mined up, it was said, as a result of the difference between the maps. Tonkin, it is alleged, could easily have obtained the originals. Graham, it is said, laid everything to Tonkin.

Bandits Fire Many Shots at Prominent Brownsville Man

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Sept. 8.—Bandits waylaid Sam Robertson, a prominent citizen of San Benito, eight miles from town last night and fired about twenty shots at him as he passed along the road in his automobile. One bullet passed through his hat, another through the seat of the machine and a third through the radiator, putting the machine out of commission.

Robertson, who was alone in the car, jumped into the brush and escaped. In a search at Jacal, near where the fight with the Mexicans occurred on the Fresno tract last Thursday, officers found the names of all persons implicated in the murder of J. T. Smith and R. E. Donaldson. Rangers and peace officers are now rounding up those living on the American side.

It was found from the list that the majority in the band were soldiers from Matamoros who had crossed at Las Ruelas, seven miles above Brownsville. Mexicans being held by peace officials gave information as to the location of a part of the band on this side.

Seven Middies Are Slated for Dismissal

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Seven midshipmen have been recommended for dismissal from the naval academy by the acting superintendent for having or for falsehoods in connection with the recent hazing investigation. Secretary Daniels today notified the accused midshipmen, offering them opportunities to make explanations. Their names were not made public. In addition to those recommended for dismissal a large number were recommended for disciplinary action for other objectionable conduct not amounting to hazing.

ROBBERS ENTER THREE PLACES AT BLUE SPRINGS

BEATRICE, Neb., Sept. 8.—(Special Telegram.)—Robbers last night entered Jesse Gessel's meat market, the office of the Farmers' Lumber company and a photograph gallery at the town of Blue Springs, Neb., south of here. They secured $5 at the meat market and blew the safe at the lumber company's office, but secured little for their trouble at that place and the photograph gallery.

BIGAMIST ASKS DIVORCE FROM HIS NEBRASKA WIFE

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 8.—(Special Telegram.)—Kurt Mueller, erstwhile clergyman, convicted of bigamy four years ago, has taken steps to unseverable part of his matrimonial affairs. He has started action in circuit court to divorce Mrs. Kate Maser Mueller, first of four wives, whom he married sixteen years ago at Sutton, Neb. The bill charges voluntary admission to polygamy, however, when he was arrested on charges brought by wife No. 3, four years ago differed com-siderably from charges of desertion made in the bill. At that time he said he married wife No. 1 because seasons of his church told him it was not good for young clerymen to be unmarried.
