

THE STRAND WILL OPEN ON TUESDAY

Remodeled Theater at Eighteenth and Douglas Made a Real Bower of Beauty.

SCREEN AT BACK OF THE STAGE

Completely remodeled, renovated and made beautiful as a summer garden in the moonlight, the Strand theater will open its doors to Omaha this evening. The Strand is at the northeast corner of Eighteenth and Douglas streets. What is it, that's the American? Sure, it is used to be the American, but since it has been remodeled and rejuvenated it has changed its name. It's the Strand, high class moving pictures, a two-hour show with an eight piece orchestra and when the orchestra lent on the job there's a $7,500 pipe organ to dispense melody.

The company that is opening the Strand controls the Garden theater in Des Moines, the Casino in Davenport and is building a new $100,000 theater in Davenport.

The main motif of the interior decorative scheme of the new house is red. Many of the lights are hidden in wicker baskets of flowers, hanging from the ceilings in the boxes and corners and under the balcony, giving a charming effect when the lights are turned on. In fact there are boxes and baskets of flowers everywhere and vines trail out of boxes in the lobby and palms and ferns make green the corners, and birds sing in their cages.

A big rug on the lobby floor with a great urn of flowers standing in the center makes the photoplay anteroom a homelike place and superlatively inviting.

The screen stands at the back of the stage, thus giving the best range of vision for easy viewing of the pictures. The pipe organ stands on the left side of the stage and the keyboard is in the orchestra pit, while the electric bellows is under the stage. The organ is a Hope-Jones unit of the same make as the $50,000 organ in the Cort theater, Chicago. This one cost $7,000 and is of fine tone. During the principal hours of the show music will be furnished by the organ and the eight-piece orchestra under direction of Carl Lamp.

The first show will begin at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening. Shows will be given every day at 1, 3, 5, 7 and 9 o'clock. The program will be changed Sunday, Tuesday and Friday. The opening feature will be George B. Van in "An Alien" in addition to the feature, a comedy and the Pathé Weekly will be shown. "The Island of Regeneration," by Cyrus Townsend Brady, will be the bill, beginning Friday.

W. M. Thomas of Chicago is manager of the theater and A. N. Blank of Des Moines is president of the company and J. C. Greenbaum vice president.

Female Labor Law to Be Discussed at Federation Session

The female labor law as amended by the last legislature will be one of the subjects to be discussed by the Nebraska State Federation of Labor which convenes in the Pioneers' room at the court house this morning. The amended law excludes towns of 5,000 or less population.

Secretary Coffey of Lincoln is here to get things started. Headquarters will be at the Wellington Inn. Governor Morehead and Mayor Dahman will speak at the opening meeting, which will be at 10 a. m. It is expected the session will last until Friday. The attendance will be about 100.

C. A. Sorenson of Grand Island, member of the constitutional convention, is expected. J. L. Wines of St. Joseph, Mo., national organizer of the garment workers, has arrived. Another arrival is Joseph Proebstle of Cincinnati, national secretary of the United Brewery Workers of America.

The compensation law will be another matter of interest to be considered by the delegates.

The local committee is arranging for social features. T. P. Reynolds of this city is president of the federation.

ASKS CITY TO APPROVE CITY LIGHT AUDITORS

J. A. Sunderland, chairman of the Commercial club's special committee on electric light and power rates, requests the city council to say whether the selection of Haskins & Sells of New York City as auditors of the light company's books is approved.

The special committee intends to supervise this audit and the light company will bear the expense, the expectation being that the findings of the auditors will have weight with the officials.

The city commissioners declined to pay half of this expense, the feeling being that if the city make an examination it should be an independent one.

Self-Reliant Home Doctors is what women are called who all over this broad land make their annual collections of roots and herbs, and rely upon recipes which our pioneer mothers found dependable for different family ailments.

In one of these recipes Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had its origin, and so successful has it proved that there is hardly a city, town or hamlet in America where some woman who has been restored to health by its use does not reside.

His Rest Was Broken. O. D. Wright, Rosemont, Neb., writes: "For about six months I was bothered with shooting and continual pains in the region of my kidneys. My rest was broken nearly every night by frequent actions of my kidneys. I was advised by my doctor to try Foley Kidney Pills and one 50-cent bottle made a well man of me. I can always recommend Foley Kidney Pills for I know they are good."

This splendid remedy for backache, rheumatism, sore muscles and swollen joints contains no habit forming drugs. Sold everywhere.—Advertisement.

Society

THERE has always been a sentiment in fashions and connoisseurs tell you that the art of dress expresses in varying ways the sentiment of the race.

Our coming fashions are reminiscent of a romantic period. The styles of Dolly Varden days and the Queen Louise scarfs were sentimental, and the models of the colonial days picturesque and romantic. It is a noticeable fact that now-a-days the word "quaint" frequently appears in the description of new styles. If quaint means anything in this connection, it means that the new styles are going back and picking up romantic suggestions out of the past. Not so much fantastic and ornate suggestions, as much as those having story book associations. For instance, the story book has told of funny things in the days "When Knighthood Was in Flower," and these have been translated at times into bazar revivals. They have resulted even in efforts now and again to have men wear for evening dress satin knee breeches and big shoe buckles—but this never happened in Omaha except at the Ak-Sar-Ben ball.

Men would not stand for taking a permanent place in fashiondom, although keenly interested in the styles of the feminine world.

MAN WITH CIRCUIT SHOULDER CAUGHT

Has Made a Practice of Letting Street Cars Hit Him and Then Collecting Damages.

IS NOW IN DAVENPORT JAIL

Frank H. Young, alias James Robinson, known to street railway officials all over the country as the man with the "circuit shoulder," has been arrested in Davenport, Ia., charged with defrauding the street railway company of that city.

Young, alias Robinson, is known to the street railway officials of the Omaha system, for back in 1904 he depleted their treasury to the extent of $125. He got that sum out of them by using his "circuit shoulder." Since then he has worked street railway companies in St. Paul, Minneapolis, Chicago, Cedar Rapids and scores of other places for greater or lesser sums. He had a shoulder that he could dislocate at will and then impregnate a man suffering the most excruciating agonies.

In the fall of 1904, in front of the Murray hotel on Fourteenth street, a South Omaha car bumped into Young. He fell to the ground and seemed to be suffering great pain. In an ambulance he was taken to a hospital, where the attending surgeon found a badly dislocated shoulder. The bones were slipped back into place, and soon the claim agent appeared upon the scene. After some persistent arguments Young accepted $25 and waived all claims for further damages.

Street railway officials felt that they were getting out of a big damage suit cheaply and congratulated the claim agent upon his work.

Worked in Other Places. In new developments that Young, under the name of Robinson and several other aliases, has appeared in many cities in the United States, and in nearly every place he has managed to be bumped by street cars, sustaining what has appeared to be a dislocated shoulder. Each time

Tom McCarthy Lends Sunday Suit to His Pal and Fight is On

Some time ago a waiter at the Fontenelle hotel presented his friend, Tom McCarthy, a little red-headed Irishman, with a black suit of the swiftest variety. The suit soon became the envy of every person of McCarthy's acquaintance, and one, "Big" Sweeney, a big, burly switchman, especially admired the suit.

One day Sweeney asked McCarthy for the loan of the suit so that he might attend a wake. McCarthy loaned him the suit.

Presumably Sweeney attended the wake. But returning he attended several other more or less well known places of conviviality. It displeased McCarthy that his suit should be subjected to exposure in such places, especially while on the person of "Big" Sweeney. McCarthy demanded the return of the suit. It was not returned. And officers brought McCarthy before the judge and took Sweeney home for repairs.

"Did you get your suit back, McCarthy?" queried the judge. "Not yet, but when Sweeney recovers I expect to enter into negotiations with him again," responded McCarthy.

"Discharged," said the judge, "but don't start any more fights or it will be something else."

HANDS AND ARMS ITCH AND BURN

Wanted to Scratch All the Time. Kept Awake. Clothes Aggravated. In One Week

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"I had a breaking out on my hands at first and it began to spread to my arms, just like blue or purple spots which would burn and itch and kept me awake at night. The itching and burning were so bad I wanted to scratch all the time; it was worse when I got warm. The breaking out was ugly and unsightly. My clothes aggravated the eruption on my arms."

"I saw an advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for some, and began using them with good results. After I had used Cuticura Soap and Ointment for one week, the breaking out was healed." (Signed) Leo O. Eastman, R. F. D. No. 3, Coatesville, Ind., March 22, 1915.

he has successfully settled his claim for damages.

Young met his Waterloo at Davenport last week. He let a street car bump him and roll him along the track. Then he was carried to a hospital and a surgeon called. The surgeon made an examination, pulled the dislocated shoulder back in place, ordering quiet and rest.

The next day when he called he failed to find any swelling or inflammation about the shoulder. He thought this strange, but kept the bandages on, ordering quiet treatment for the patient. When he called the next day there was no swelling, nor was there any information. The nurse who had charge of the case and who had been told to carefully watch the patient, gave the information that in her judgment Young had not suffered any pain.

Caught On to Fake. The surgeon was satisfied that there was nothing in the injuries of Young, so approaching his bed he took off the bandages and dislocated the "circuit" shoulder. He pulled it back in place and dislocated it again. This he did half a dozen times and then went to the telephone and called the street railway officials. A couple of them appeared upon the scene and after a consultation with the surgeon in a private room went to Young, where for $100 they settled with him, taking a receipt in full, he waiving claim for additional damages. Then they called the police and Young was taken to jail, where at once a charge of defrauding the company was placed against him. Being unable to give bail he was locked in a cell.

FOUR ARE SENTENCED FOR BEGGING ON THE STREETS

Ed Dalley, Frank Smith, George Jir-tine and Frank Zitterly, all arrested for begging on the street, were given short jail sentences by Judge Foster. The four are lousy specimens of manhood, but despite their physical capacity were taken from lower Douglas street by officers who received several complaints of their abusive retorts to a refusal of alms.

How to Break One of Your Habits Profitably

Most people dislike to break a habit, no matter how bad or unprofitable it may be. Many people are prejudiced in favor of certain goods because they have used them for a long time and are not familiar with other kinds. Those goods may be made out of town and they may be goods of high merit and value. But some other town benefits from the profit on them. The habit of buying Omaha-Made goods will reveal the fact that they are the equal or better than those made elsewhere and in most cases can be purchased for less. If Omaha-Made products would not make that statement good, we would not be using so many columns of newspaper space to introduce them to you. The way to make prosperity a vital reality in Omaha is to make trade better by cultivating the habit of buying and using Omaha-Made products.
