"Find Your Niche" is Sunday's Advice to Noonday Club

"When one man is running for office, declaring he will clamp the lid down tight, and another on a wide open platform," said "Billy" Sunday in a lightning-like speech to the Noonday club at noon at the Commercial club, "it is an insult to American manhood's decency to ask a man who he is going to vote for." The speaker dwelt on the subject of decency, saying, "I don't care a rap whether I ever hold an office or not, but I do care whether the fire of decency is extinguished in me or not. If some men can break some laws, then all men should be allowed to break the same laws, and if some men can break all laws, it is better to have a poor law enforced than a good law not enforced. It should be part of your religion to see that good laws and decent government prevail as much as it is your religion to go to church, shut your eyes, and duck your head when the preacher prays." "Find out the niche you can best occupy and then fill it. There are surgeons, and there are butchers out in hospitals trying to operate for appendicitis. Grant failed in a dozen lines of business before he became commander of the Union forces, yet at Appomattox one of the greatest generals in the world handed his sword to him. Greeley was a failure as a farmer, yet he made a good editor of the New York Tribune. "Find your niche and then occupy it with all your might."

Bryan Men Meet and Oppose Bryan

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 7.—(Special Telegram)—A score or more of democrats, all of them ardent Bryan men, met here tonight and in the name of the Wilson and Marshall club of 1912 proceeded to endorse a postmaster candidate different than the one endorsed by their former leader. There was no acrimony in the proceeding, but one and all the speakers let it be known that all democrats were enjoined to do their own thinking and that Mr. Bryan's opinion was after all not necessarily their opinion. No anti-Bryan men took part. They stayed discreetly out of the affair, out of some of them stood on the sidelines and enjoyed the spectacle of former admirers of the Commoner quietly doing things in his name which they knew he wouldn't appreciate at all. Fred Shepherd, the acting postmaster, was the one put forward by this club. Sam Hudson is Mr. Bryan's candidate. W. B. Hester, the only Bryan spokesman present, urged that no action be taken, but Chairman Jake North of the county committee gave up a secret when he said that the January, 1913, endorsement of Charles W. Bryan for a portfolio in President Wilson's cabinet was gained at Prince Charles' own suggestion. George W. Berge let it be known that the meeting was called in disrespect to Mr. Bryan, but that all he had taught them in regard to freedom and expression of thought they were now following out, and that Bryan "would certainly not condemn them for it."

INVESTIGATES UNRULY FURNACE FACE BURNED

A singed mustache, a blistered nose and a badly burned right hand was the price Superintendent Frank D. Johnston of the railway mail service had to pay for finding out why his furnace wouldn't heat his home Tuesday night. His residence at 125 Georgia avenue was chilly, so Mr. Johnston investigated. A pocket of gas, due to the fuse being clogged up, exploded when he opened the furnace door. His mustache was almost singed off, his nose was reddened deeply by the flash, and his right hand burned. In explaining his appearance to friends, Superintendent Johnston consoles himself with the thought that "it might have been worse, and, anyway, the furnace works fine now."

I never tire of recommending this remedy to my friends," writes Mrs. William Bright, Fort Wayne, Ind. Obtainable everywhere. All druggists.—Advertisement.

WOODROW WILSON WILL WED WIDOW

President of United States Makes Known His Engagement to Mrs. Norman Galt.

DATE HAS NOT YET BEEN SET

(From a Staff Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The White House tonight announced the engagement of Mrs. Norman Galt to President Woodrow Wilson. They will be married in December. Mrs. Galt is a beautiful brunette, just past 40. She was born in Wytheville, Va., where she lived with her father, W. H. Bolling, a prominent lawyer, until she married Norman Galt in 1896. Mr. Galt died in 1907, and Mrs. Galt has lived in Washington with her mother since that time. She has no children. Last autumn Miss Margaret Wilson and her cousin, Miss Bones, met Mrs. Galt in Washington. She charmed them so that she was invited to the White House. She soon became one of the small circle of persons who have been received informally by the members of the president's household.

Wedding in December

President Wilson and Mrs. Galt will be married probably the first week in December. The ceremony will be private, only a few close friends being invited, and will take place at the home of the bride on New Hampshire avenue near Dupont Circle. Plans for the honeymoon visit to the San Diego exposition. The San Francisco exposition, to which the president also has been invited many times, closes December 4.

For the third time in American history a president of the United States will take a bride. In choosing to have the ceremony performed, not in the White House, but at the home of the bride, Mr. Wilson follows a precedent set by President Tyler, who was married in New York in the Church of the Ascension. President Cleveland, the only other executive to be married while in office, was married in the White House.

House Party in New York

President Wilson and Mrs. Galt will make their first appearance together in public since the announcement of their engagement Friday in New York, where they go to a house party given by the president's close friend and unofficial advisor, Colonel E. M. House. In the evening they will attend a theater party in New York and the next day on the return toward Washington will see the second game in the world's base ball championship series at Philadelphia. The party will include Colonel and Mrs. House, Mrs. Galt's mother, Mrs. Bolling; Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, the president's cousin; Secretary Tumulty and the president's personal physician and naval aide, Dr. Grayson.

Motored with President

Miss Wilson and Mrs. Galt were together a great deal during the fall. She lunched and dined frequently at the White House. During the late autumn she motored occasionally with the president and Miss Wilson. When winter turned to spring Mrs. Galt became an almost daily visitor at the White House. Frequently she went with the president's party to the golf course and when the ball season opened she sat beside the president in the box. When the president went to Cornish last summer Miss Wilson invited Mrs. Galt to visit the summer White House and she spent a month there. In their circle of people who have

Echo of the Last City Campaign Reverberates Through City Hall

The belated submission of the name of J. W. McDonald by City Commissioner Jardine to the city council for confirmation, brought out a few skeletons from the political closet. Mr. McDonald was not confirmed. His case will be considered at the committee of the whole meeting next Monday morning. When Mr. Jardine submitted a list of appointments Commissioner Butler moved that the name of McDonald be stricken and sent in separately. He was supported by Commissioner Hummel and the mayor, the division of the council being three to three, with Commissioner Kugel absent during the early part of the meeting. Mr. McDonald was listed as "office engineer," at $30 a month. He has been on the payroll since Commissioner Jardine went into office last May. He was assigned to the South Side branch office of the city engineering department.

"McDonald was disloyal to the administration when he was on the payroll before and he went out and criticized the administration," declared Commissioner Butler. Commissioner Hummel and the mayor likewise expressed disapproval of the McDonald appointment. During the last city primary campaign Mr. McDonald was requested to resign from the park department if he became a candidate for commissioner. He resigned and made the primary race. During the campaign for the election he worked for the "Big Six," particularly for Commissioner Jardine, who rewarded him with the position he now holds, subject to confirmation by the city council. Commissioner Drexel suggested that the commissioners "forget the late unpleasantness." Watson Townsend was confirmed as assistant city engineer at $30 a month.

known Mrs. Galt for many years she has been regarded as an unusual beauty, gifted with a natural charm. Friends speak of her as being constantly sought out as a delightful companion, remarking especially on her thoughtfulness and quick capacity for anything she chose to undertake. She is not quite so tall as Mr. Wilson has dark hair and dark eyes, and always is in stylish attire. Her tastes are said to be strikingly similar to those of the president, with a deep interest in literature and charity work. Friends of the president expressed their pleasure over the announcement tonight, not only because of Mr. Wilson's personal happiness, but because they felt this new companionship would give him support and comfort in his home life—a vital need during the hours of strain over the nation's problems. With the marriage of his two daughters and the death of Mrs. Wilson more than a year ago, the president's life had become one of solitude. His absorption in official labors began to tell on him physically and when a few months ago he began to take a renewed interest in personal affairs his friends and members of the family welcomed the distinct change which it brought about in his health and spirits. No word as to plans for the wedding was said to be available as yet, but it generally is presumed that Mrs. Galt, who is of democratic tastes, will prefer a private wedding in her own home instead of in the White House.

WOMEN HERE'S ONE

Says you save $5 in an hour by dry cleaning everything with gasoline.

Dry cleaning at home is just as simple as laundering. Any woman can clean five dollars' worth in fifteen minutes at little cost by getting from the drug store two ounces of solvite and put this in two gallons of gasoline, where it quickly dissolves. Then immerse articles to be cleaned; rub a little and in a few moments the gasoline evaporates and the articles look bright and fresh as new. You can dry clean silk waists, dresses, coats, ribbons, kid gloves, satin shoes, evening slippers, shawls, belts, yokes, fur, boas, muffs, neckties, lawns, dimity and chiffon dresses, draperies, fine laces, lace curtains, woolen garments, in fact, everything that would be ruined by soap and water as dry cleaning doesn't fade, shrink or wrinkle, making pressing unnecessary. Your grocer or any garage will supply the gasoline and you can obtain two ounces of solvite at the drug store, which is simply a gasoline soap. Then a wash boiler or large dishpan completes your dry cleaning outfit.—Advertisement.

LOST TRAVELERS' CHECKS DROPPED IN MAIL BOX

If Albert Hollis of Vermilion, S. D., had not carried travelers' checks instead of money when he came to Omaha for the Ak-Sar-Ben festival, he would be "out" $200. But Assistant Postmaster James I. Woodruff has that amount in non-transferable paper belonging to Hollis, which was dropped into a mail box, after being lost by the South Dakota man or stolen from him. The postoffice authorities also have a wallet belonging to George Humphrey of Wymere, which was placed in a mail box. The wallet was empty when found in the mails.
