Evangelist Works Himself Into a Frenzy as He Denounces the Liquor Traffic of This Country.

"Billy" Sunday lambasted the saloon with all the power that was in him at a men's meeting at the tabernacle yesterday afternoon. While he worked himself into a frenzy of denunciation names like "dirty gang," "flars," "cutthroats," "jackasses," "fools," "sluggishness," and "skunks" and many others poured from his mouth in volleys. Sometimes he attacked with sarcasm, irony and scornful laughter.

"I hate the dirty business with a perfect hatred," he told the audience in a high falsetto. He gritted his teeth and shrieked "and I love to hate it." He laughed and his hand made his scorn and hatred more apparent to the audience. His fighting spirit was infectious and the audience applauded.

"Any man who votes for the saloon deserves to have his boy die a drunkard. He deserves to have his daughter live in the embrace of a drunkard," Sunday shouted.

"I said in my opinion every man who votes for a saloon deserves to have his daughter live in the embrace of a drunkard," he repeated, loudly and deliberately and looked around as though to find some one who would take issue with him.

Talks Politics.
His remarks to voters was one of several statements which had a political bearing. In fact he talked more politics than he had at any previous meeting in Omaha.

"Billy" twice got a hand from practically the entire audience. Once was when he said early in his talk: "If they and health permit I'm coming back during the campaign to fight this dirty gang."

The other time was when he said: "Let us see that no senator or congressman represents us in the United States congress who will not vote for a prohibition amendment to the constitution."

Local sympathizers of the Sunday campaign who are interested in politics expressed themselves as pleased with this statement on account of its close application to the approaching campaign.

Stand Up for Prohibition.
Nearly the entire audience stood up when Sunday asked for a pledge that those present would do what they could to advance the cause of prohibition in Nebraska.

Sunday attacked local option and regulation of the liquor traffic. Option, he said, was used by the brewers to delay prohibition.

He spoke of regulation in this manner: "You can't regulate a skunk so he won't stink."

When Sunday said: "Some of you politicians wouldn't be holding office if it wasn't for the liquor traffic," there was much applause.

Then he said: "Some of you couldn't rent your buildings if it wasn't for the liquor traffic."

There was half-hearted applause at that and Sunday turned on the audience in a flash.

Affraid to Applaud.
"Some of you fellows wouldn't clasp your hands together when I said that for fear we'd think you were four-flushers," he remarked.

"Single handed I've fought the whisky interests of this country," Sunday told his audience, "and they've used hundreds of thousands of dollars to vilify me. I've had my life threatened all over this country by the white livered, blasphemous gang, but I'm going to continue to fight without compromise and without fear."

He held up vivid pictures to his audience of horrors of the liquor traffic. Once he got down on his hands and knees while he was telling a story. He took off his coat, then, standing on a chair and holding his coat in his hands.

Seventy-five men hit the trail in response to an invitation by Sunday to "come down and grasp my hand for religion. Here's my hand for God and for truth," he said.

REED BELIEVES STATE WILL WIN

Attorney General Says He Thinks Good Case Has Been Made on Passenger Rates.

BETTER THAN FREIGHT CASE

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
LINCOLN, Oct. 10.—(Special.)—"It will cost the people of Nebraska more than $2,000,000 annually if the railroads make their case before the Interstate Commerce commission in Washington to advance interstate rates from 2 cents to 2 1/2 cents a mile," Attorney General Willis E. Reed said last night, upon his return from the national capital, where he presented arguments in the case.

Nebraskans would suffer, he points out, since the railroads, if they win the case, would unite forces in the present case of the Missouri Pacific in the federal court to have the state rate declared unconstitutional, as has been recently done before the supreme court in the West Virginia case.

Mr. Reed is confident the railroads will lose. The showing which they made was not nearly so impressive as in the freight rate case, he thought, and their victory was only about one-third on cessation.

The attorney general outlined his argument to a just appointment of the operating expenses of the passenger and freight departments, and pointed out where the railroads erred in using the engine ton formula. He at the same time pointed out that railroads making a just profit in Nebraska, to raise their rates on the passenger service must reduce them on freight.

Sweet Holds Important Place.
The attorney general's office yesterday received from the State department in Washington printed copies of the diplomatic correspondence with European countries of the last two months, which was directed to and transcribed by E. C. Sweet, a Nebraska boy, who has been confidential secretary to both W. J. Bryan and Secretary of State Lansing.

The documents have to do with the Nicholas measure, the striking of the Nebraska, Frye, and the Falaba, and to include the dismissal of Ambassador Duma of Austria-Hungary.

The papers were not only dictated to Mr. Sweet, but replies came to him in code form and he is the only one at the national capital possessed of the secret of the translation of them.

Beckmann Returns.
Lead Commissioner Beckmann returned yesterday from a 1,200-mile trip over the southern and western sections of Nebraska, where he was inspecting school lands in seven counties. Born in southeastern Nebraska was practically out of the way when the frigate came, Mr. Beckmann said, but north and west of Custer county it has been damaged slightly. Mr. Beckmann found several tracts of land belonging to the state, which were greatly undervalued, and he will ask the state board to raise the appraisements.

Order to Show Cause.
The Nebraska Railway commission has notified all Nebraska railroads to show cause why Class B rates on order No. 19 should not apply to emigrants' movables, now charged at commodity rates, which are considerably higher than Class B tariff schedules. The hearing is set for October 20, the same date the commission will decide on the reclassification of twenty items of produce before the commission.

Phone Complaint Put Off.
Hearing on the complaint of the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph company against the Continental Gas and Electric company transmission lines from Hampton to York has been postponed. It is understood that the Lincoln company has withdrawn its objection to the transmission line, which was brought under the new state law passed by the last legislature.

Tokio Seer Predicts
Two Girls for Wilson
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10.—(Special.)—Last night Prof. Don Show Kodama of Tokio was visiting on this coast. He predicted that President Wilson would wed a widow about 40 years old, that the couple would reside in New York, have a long and happy life and be blessed with two children, both daughters.

Prof. Kodama is a seer from Nippon, who uses the sacred blocks (called bamboo sticks), prayer and imagination, to solve the mysteries of the future.

In speaking, through an interpreter, of the president, Prof. Kodama said: "I have just had a dream or vision of Woodrow Wilson. In it, I see that the president will wed a widow some time before next March. She will be 40 years old. They will live in New York after the marriage, and after Mr. Wilson's term expires, as he will not be re-elected, their life will be long and happy, and they will be blessed with two daughters."

MARTIN ELLIOTT KILLED
AS TRAIN HITS BUGGY
YORK, Neb., Oct. 10.—(Special Telegram.)—Marion Elliott was killed this morning three and one-half miles northeast of York by train No. 19 on the North-western railroad. Mr. Elliott was on his way from his home at Gresham to visit his brother and was in a buggy and was caught on the road crossing. The body was carried about 400 feet. The team escaped unhurt. A coroner's inquest will be held at Thayer tomorrow evening.

Holden Estate Pays Tax.
TUCUMSEH, Neb., Oct. 10.—(Special.)—The inheritance tax against the estate of Winfield Holden has been settled in Kiowa county. The total amount found to be due was $3,677.30. Of this amount Otis county pays $2,305.95, and Johnson county gets $1,371.35. The balance goes to expense.

WHEN "BILLY" TOLD SINNERS of their chance for salvation Sunday morning he was terribly in earnest.

MANY IN TEARS AS SUNDAY PREACHES FROM TAXI DRIVER

Says that to Do Real Good You Must Pray Long, Earnestly and Agonizingly.

THIRTY-FIVE HIT THE TRAIL
Perhaps 30 per cent of the audience of 8,500 persons at the tabernacle Sunday afternoon were in tears when "Billy" Sunday preached the sermon on the agony of Christ in his great prayer in the Garden of Gethsemane. Mr. Sunday insisted that to do real good one must pray long, earnestly and agonizingly.

"You people look to me as if you ate too much and slept too well over Omaha's going down to hell," said the speaker. "I say meet Omaha with tears and agony; that is the argument that cannot be answered."

He told the story of an infidel who boasted that he could defeat any argument advanced in favor of the Christian life. A deacon drove twelve miles in the snow to that man's home and asked him to be a Christian. The fellow cursed at him and told him to mind his own business. He did not even ask the deacon to come in and warm his feet. The good man stood in the snow and wept over the infidel, but finally turned and drove away in the snow.

Confesses Christ.
Years afterward the infidel went all the way to Saratoga, N. Y., to confess Christ to this same man, for he heard he could be found there. He said then that he had not slept through a peaceful night since that time he cursed the man that came to help him. "The tears of that man standing knee deep in the snow," said Mr. Sunday, "were an argument he could not answer."

Again the evangelist pointed out that the people of Christ must be active if they wish to do good work. "If God had no more concern about Omaha than some of its people have," he said, "Omaha would have been in hell ages ago."

He told the story of the lost boy in Chicago and of the great agony of the mother until she unfolded her baby boy in her arms at the police station, where he had been taken by Mr. Sunday.

Agony Over Lost Souls.
"Right there," said the evangelist, "I thought if his mother suffers so at the thought of her lost baby boy, I will multiply that agony by infinity to know how God must feel over his world of people lost. I never saw a Universalist or a Unitarian that sweat a collar down through his concern for the saving of souls."

It was announced that Tuesday afternoon and evening the sermon on amusements will be repeated. Also it was announced that the forenoon offering will be for the Salvation Army rescue home, and the evening for the Volunteers of America.

Thirty-five came forward on the awdard trail to grasp the hand of the evangelist at the morning meeting, and gave their names for the church records.

John D. Jr. Uses TWO HOURS HERE FOR AN AUTO TRIP

Has Words of Praise for "Billy" Sunday and for Omaha After Ride About Town.

IS MUM ABOUT COLORADO
Refuses to Talk About the Outcome of His Trip to His Mines There.

USES ORDINARY PULLMAN
Although apparently democratic and thoroughly cordial, affable and accommodating to newspaper men who met him at the union depot Sunday afternoon on his way east from his extended "welfare visit" among the miners of Colorado, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., flatly refused to discuss his trip or say whether or not he expected a favorable outcome or was satisfied with his work out there.

However, he was quite willing to pay compliments to Omaha and "Billy" Sunday, and praised both generally, after stopping off for almost two hours between trains, during which time he made an auto tour of the city.

USES ORDINARY PULLMAN

Although apparently democratic and thoroughly cordial, affable and accommodating to newspaper men who met him at the union depot Sunday afternoon on his way east from his extended "welfare visit" among the miners of Colorado, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., flatly refused to discuss his trip or say whether or not he expected a favorable outcome or was satisfied with his work out there.

However, he was quite willing to pay compliments to Omaha and "Billy" Sunday, and praised both generally, after stopping off for almost two hours between trains, during which time he made an auto tour of the city.

Praise for Sunday.
"I don't know Mr. Sunday, and never heard him preach," the son of the Standard and Colorado Fuel and Iron king said. "But judging from second-hand information he is a remarkable man and is doing lots of good."

At the suggestion of reporters, the millionaire visitor motored past the tabernacle and viewed the big structure. He was also invited to remain longer in Omaha and hear the evangelist preach last night.

"I'm sorry it is impossible to do that," Mr. Rockefeller said. "It would like to hear Mr. Sunday, but it can't be arranged on this trip."

Pleased with Omaha.
"Omaha seems to be a very attractive city. It looks like a good place to live. This is the first time I ever saw the city to any extent, for although I've been through Omaha before, I never had a chance to stop off till now. I'm glad I did this time."

Rockefeller formed the entire delegation that greeted the famous young business man and philanthropist at the depot, and he showed them every courtesy. No local officials of the Standard Oil company were on hand to meet him, and his arrival and stop in the city caused practically no stir. It was explained that Mr. Rockefeller was making the trip home hurriedly and no arrangements had been made for a meeting with anybody in Omaha.

Traveling Unostentatiously.
Traveling quietly and unostentatiously, Mr. Rockefeller came and went without attracting much more attention from the public than an ordinary tourist. Although he might have had a special train all to himself, he occupied only a stateroom on the regular Pullman "Alpine." He arrived at 4 p. m. on Union Pacific train No. 16 from Denver, and left on the same car attached to Milwaukee train No. 6 at 5:30 p. m.

The stop here was intended to be so quiet and simple that when William Hooper, a Hearst newspaper man traveling with Mr. Rockefeller, was asked if he were not the famous young business man and philanthropist, he laughed and tried to throw the local news hounds off the track. When Mr. Rockefeller himself was approached and forced to admit his identity, he did so in a way that indicated he had hoped so avoid publicity.

Takes Auto Trip.
After talking a moment with reporters as he walked through the station, he jumped into an ordinary touring auto horse and started on a ride around the city with C. O. Herd, his private secretary, and Mr. Hoster. The three composed the entire Rockefeller party.

After an hour's ride he returned to his train and was again found by the persistent scribers.

Mr. Rockefeller was dictating to his secretary, but when the reporters entered and shook hands with the interviewers, he closed the door and moved to another room. He was most cordial, and inquired after their comfort when they squeezed into a tight corner of the room.

Three Killed When
Thresher Collapses
SIOUX CITY, Ia., Oct. 10.—Threshing outfit late today fell through a metal culvert near Canton, bucking the engine and tender together, and crushing to death John Lund, C. W. A. Canady and his 12-year-old son who stood on the deck between the engine and the water tender.

All three were found standing erect dead, two of them having been instantly killed.

OIL MAN AT LOUP CITY IS SERIOUSLY BURNED
LOUP CITY, Neb., Oct. 10.—(Special.)—W. S. Steen, local oil man, was the victim of an accident yesterday. He had changed wagons with one of the employees, and the wagon which he was using had the coal oil tank on the opposite side from the one he had been accustomed to draw from. As he supposed, he was drawing coal oil, but instead, he filled the coal oil tank at the C. C. Cooper general store with gasoline.

After he had discovered the error, he pumped the gasoline out again and then went into the basement to see if it had been removed. He cleaned the tank out and then lighted a candle, and while peering into the tank the fumes ignited from the burning candle with the result that he was quite seriously burned about the head.

LARGEST CROWD FOR THIRD GAME

About Forty-Five Thousand to See Phillies and Red Sox Battle in Boston Today.

ALEXANDER AND LEONARD

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—The Philadelphia Nationals and the Boston Americans arrived here today to resume tomorrow their series for the championship of the world. Each team has scored a victory in the two opening contests at Philadelphia.

The crowd tomorrow is expected to be the greatest that has ever seen a world's series contest, and possibly the greatest that has ever seen a base ball game. It probably will exceed 45,000 persons. More than half that number of tickets already has been sold and the 25,000 rush seats are expected to be filled before the game is started. The first of the throng that will occupy bleacher seats took up positions at the gates of the Braves field tonight.

Weather conditions approaching those of summer are in prospect. The weather forecaster predicted that the day would be fair and somewhat warmer than today, when light frosts were said to comfort.

More Studied Play.
The third game of the series, it was expected, would develop a more studied scheme of play by both teams. Having grappled for eighteen innings, the teams have gained an understanding of the method and caliber of their opponents and each is expected to show improvement in strategy and action.

Philadelphia's campaign will again revolve around Alexander. The failure of Mayer, who pitched for the Phillies in the game Boston won Saturday, has emphasized the fact admitted by the Philadelphia team's supporters that it largely is Alexander's pitching skill that carries his hopes for a world championship.

Philadelphia's campaign will again revolve around Alexander. The failure of Mayer, who pitched for the Phillies in the game Boston won Saturday, has emphasized the fact admitted by the Philadelphia team's supporters that it largely is Alexander's pitching skill that carries his hopes for a world championship.

Leonard Versus Alexander.
To oppose Alexander, Manager Carrigan is expected to select "Dutch" Leonard, a striking young man, who pitches with his left hand. His cunning, which brought him to the head of all American league pitchers last year, and to a high place on the list this season, is expected to overcome the advantage which the Phillies hold over left handers in presenting a lineup almost entirely composed of right handed batsmen.

The opposing managers had no word to give out tonight as their probable pitching choices tomorrow, but among the players and close followers of the teams, the opinion appeared general that Alexander and Leonard would contend. Burns again will catch Alexander, and it is thought that Manager Carrigan will make his first active appearance in the series at the Boston ballpark.

It was remarked with satisfaction by Red Sox supporters tonight that the team has out-hit the Phillies in the two games already played. Expert opinion prior to the series was generally to the effect that Philadelphia was potentially the better ball team. But the Red Sox have hit for a team average of .30 so far, as compared with .18, the average of hits by their opponents.

Foster Remains Hero.
George Foster, hero of Saturday's game, has contributed largely to the Red Sox advantage in this connection, with an average of .70 for his three hits Saturday. Gardner, with three hits out of seven times at bat, leads the regular players of both teams at .42, and "Duffy" Lewis is second with .37. A pitcher is batting an average of .33, the only mark above .30 held by any member of his team. Cady and Thomas of Boston; Stock, Niehoff and Burns of Philadelphia have gone hitless so far.

From outward appearances, the strain of the games last week did not greatly affect the contending players. They arrived on the same train from Philadelphia and took their off-day here much as they would any Sunday in the regular season. Members of both teams went to church in the forenoon. Several were out on the golf links, while others motored during the day. A few of the Phillies lounged about their hotel, and some went out to the Braves' field, the scene of the games tomorrow, and where a base played and United States Senator Borah spoke on "Preparedness."

Official Welcome.
The reception of the Red Sox was signified by an official welcome by Mayor Curley, who greeted them in behalf of the city as winners of the American league championship. The team had not been here since their league pennant was made certain ten days ago, and Mayor Curley made their home-coming today the occasion for celebrating a success which, he said, "was only a step to a greater victory."

The mayor had a hand at the Back Bay station, and as the players came out of the train, they heard again the strains of "Tease," their song of battle.

Wilson Has Happy
Trip with Fiancee
WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—President Wilson and Mrs. Norman Galt, his fiancee, returned to Washington last night much pleased with the reception accorded them in New York and Philadelphia on their public appearance since their engagement was announced. The couple completed two busy days by watching Boston defeat Philadelphia in the second game of the world's series.

On the way back to Washington the president seemed very happy. He said he had enjoyed the game very much, especially the last inning with its exciting action.

"We've had a wonderful trip, haven't we?" remarked the president.

In Philadelphia the president and Mrs. Galt received constant ovations. All the way from the railroad station to the National league ball park they were applauded by crowds.

While in New York earlier in the day the president bought a solitaire diamond ring for his fiancee, Mrs. Norman Galt, who was with him.

LITERARY SOCIETIES BEGIN YEAR'S WORK AT BELLEVUE

The Literary society work at Bellevue college got into full swing last night when the Adelpheans gave an initiatory banquet in honor of their fifteen new members. The tables were laid in the college dining hall. A color scheme of red and white was carried out in rosettes and favors.

A lively program of toasts was introduced at the conclusion of the dinner by Ralph Martin, the newly elected president. The officers who entered upon their duties at the same time, were Arline Smith, vice president, and Walter Webb, secretary-treasurer.

After an energetic campaign the Adelphean society succeeded in getting some of the most active members of the freshman class.

Their final list of members received is as follows:

- Ella Purcell Perry Johns
- Ruth Stokes Harry Erwin
- Flanzer Shiner Jack Phelps
- Helen Andrews Helen Noyes
- Rosam Johnson Harry Kimball
- Nelle Noyes James Kinsey
- The Adelpheans had an old-fashioned taffy pull Friday night, while the Philomatheans trud the tortuous paths of the underworld in their initiation ceremony.
