

SUNDAY TALKS TO LINCOLN STUDENTS

Evangelist Makes Hurred Trip to Address Faculty and Pupils at State University.

SEVERAL HIT SAWDUST TRAIL

"Billy" Sunday sometimes changes his mind. When he returned from his Monday visit to Lincoln several weeks ago with a cold he proclaimed several times in the pulpit that "never again" would he try to do any outside work, but devote his strength all to the campaign in hand.

Pressure was brought to bear on him to go to that very town again where he got the cold. "Ma" is away, and maybe that is why "Billy" accepted.

Accompanied by Homer Redebeaver,

Example of Zaccheus is Used by Sunday to Win More Souls

Mr. Sunday preached last night on "Zaccheus." His text was from Luke xix, 5—"The son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost." Mr. Sunday said:

The division of the Bible into paragraphs and chapters is sometimes embarrassing to the student. Originally the Bible was written all in one uninterrupted sentence, straight through, without periods or chapters or verses. These divisions are man-made things for the purpose of making the Bible divided for convenience in memorizing. Sometimes a chapter starts in the middle of an interesting story that has just been half told in the preceding chapter. This is confusing. Thus it is in the chapter in which I have chosen my text. The story is partly told in the eighteenth chapter of Luke and it is finished in the nineteenth.

Jesus is on his final trip to Jerusalem. He is answering the Scribes and Pharisees in regard to the divine messianic, and about that time there rushed to meet him a young ruler, who said, "Good master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?"

Turning to him, Jesus said: "Why callest thou me good? None is good save one, that is God."

I have often wondered at this answer. But I find there was some sarcasm in it. This young ruler was one who professed to know the scriptures and who had led in the opposition to Jesus. Then Jesus further said unto him: "Thou knowest the commandments. Do not commit adultery. Do not kill. Do not bear false witness. Honor thy father and mother," and the ruler said: "These I have kept from my youth up."

And Jesus loved this young ruler because he sought out Jesus to find out what he must do to be saved. Proceeding, he went to Jericho.

You may have all the wealth and learning in the world, but if you have not Jesus Christ you have made a miserable failure in life. All of you, the rich and poor alike, need what Jesus has to give you.

Bought Savior and Was Healed.

In Jericho there were two famous characters. One was Bartimeus, the blind man, who had heard of Christ. A friend had come from a neighboring town and told him of the miracles that Jesus had performed. A crowd gathered and some of them asked "What art thou crying for?"

What is the reason of it? Why, look, they are going down to hear that long-haired evangelist from Nazareth! And when Jesus went by Bartimeus cried, "Jesus, thou son of David, have mercy on me!"

When Jesus wanted to know who it was that yelled, he told him it was just an old blind man, who pelted everybody he could. Jesus sent for Bartimeus and said:

"Receive thy sight, thy faith hath saved thee." The blind man sought Christ and was healed.

The other famous man was Zaccheus. He wished to see Jesus, but he was low in stature and could not see over the crowd. He was a publican and he collected the taxes from the Jews for the Roman government. It was the best single tax system ever invented, because when the Jews took his money to the publicans, they took it all. The Roman government, thinking it took a Jew to catch a Jew, sold the privilege of collecting the taxes to the gang Zaccheus was chief of. You see, the poor Jews would hide their money to save it.

Zaccheus was short of stature, so he figured it out that Jesus would pass a certain way; so he ran ahead and climbed up a sycamore tree. He had hindrances in his way, and no man ever did anything but he had to overcome hindrances. If you cash in, it's because you are not man enough to overcome them.

Well, the streets were filled with people; some of them discussing Jesus and some of them leaving the "hip" off. The crowd passed to the sycamore tree. Here was a case of a fat, rich Jew up in a tree to see Jesus. When Jesus came to the spot he stopped, looked up in the branches and said:

"Zaccheus, make haste and come down, for today I must abide at thy house."

choir leader, and George Brewster, pianist, he went to Lincoln yesterday at 7:15 a. m. in response to an invitation from the faculty and students of the state university to address them in St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church.

David Bowman, stepson of F. D. Weed of Omaha, and a student at the university, met the party at the station and took them to the church, which was already filled to capacity with a great audience, chiefly made up of university students and professors.

There were college yells and a college song or two before "Buddy" sang "Brighten the Corner" for them. Mr. Sunday preached on the text, "Whosoever things are of good report . . . think on these things." It was one of his most splendid inspirational addresses, similar to the one he delivered to the students of Princeton university when he was there last February.

He gave the trail hitting invitation and there was a good response, and later hundreds streamed down the aisles and shook hands with him.

The party arrived back in Omaha at 12:15. "Billy" declared he "had a fine time."

they saw their father, ran in and told their ma. I have tried to figure out what kind of a woman Mrs. Zaccheus was, but I haven't succeeded. Soon the visitors arrived and Zaccheus introduced them. "This is Jesus of Nazareth, wife. This is Mrs. Zaccheus, Jesus. And here is Mr. Peter and Mr. James and Mr. Bartholomew. No doubt they went through some form like that. After staying some time Jesus left, as he said: "This day is salvation come to this house, for so much as he also is a son of Abraham. For the Son of Man has come to seek and to save that which was lost."

And as I go up and down the country I meet those who are seeking riches, such as the young ruler, and as Zaccheus had, and I meet those who are seeking riches and earthly good and profession and accomplishments, education, etc., and I tell them: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God."

Climbs Down Out of Tree.

What do the scriptures tell us that Zaccheus did? He made haste to come down out of the tree and to join Jesus. He did not say to him, "Jesus, you do not know who I am." No. He came down immediately and he immediately began to talk about restitution. He wanted to get right with Christ.

The reason why some are not Christians, the reason some of them have not come down the sawdust path, is that they will have to pay back some of the things they have gained sinfully. They might have to put their business on another basis. Some of you have a sin in your life you think you can't give up, and that's why I keep pounding away.

There was a young Adams Express employe in Akron one time who stole a package containing $100. They arrested him, but their case was no good and he got free. However, the company was positive he had committed the theft, so they discharged him. One time he heard Moody in a sermon and afterward he sought Moody for a little conference. Moody told the young man to take the money back, and told him to face arrest if he was guilty. The young man was so deeply convinced of his sin and he was so intent on doing right that he went back. Some of his relatives and friends made up the deficit of $100 which he had spent, and they turned all of the money over to the company. The young man was arrested and sent to the penitentiary for three years, and when he entered the prison doors he was happier than he had ever been before. He was pardoned in a few months, but he died in a short while—poor fellow—from a loathsome disease he contracted while living his sinful life.

How would you like to feel the warming effects of a full and complete pardon through restitution? It is not a question with the Lord of what a man has been. It is what he is now, and what he intends to be in the future. If he will submit to and will seek the Lord and will obey, he will have a full and complete pardon.

Hear Him Out of Curiosity. Zaccheus went up into the tree through curiosity. Some of you came here through curiosity. Some of you hear reports that are derogatory and some hear reports of the other kind, and you come to see what kind of meetings they are having down here at the tabernacle. If I thought for a minute that I was doing no more good than to satisfy your curiosity, I would go home tonight—so help me God, I would! But I can't give a rap, if it was curiosity that brought you here, just so long as you go out of here saved.

Do you know why some of you have not hit the sawdust trail? It is because you are ashamed to walk down. You have not the manhood to do what your conscience tells you is the manly thing. I'd be ashamed not to walk down. I would be ashamed to refuse to yield to a noble impulse.

I can understand why you would refuse to lie, or why you would refuse to be a libertine, or an adulterer. But, goodness me, I can't understand why you refuse to be decent and accept Christ.

Some of you are afraid the gang will sneer at you, and the man in the shop will say in a contemptuous manner, "I hear you went forward." Be a man and tell him: "You bet your boots, I went forward. Do you want anything out of me? I'm glad I had the manhood and grit enough to do it."

Come down from your pride. Are you afraid some fellow will sneer at you? Any man that sneers at another for being a Christian, hasn't he to bend his knees. If he is as low-down in stature as he is in principle, to kiss a rat. Some of you are too contemptibly proud to acknowledge you're a sinner and need Christ. I know well tries his best to appeal to pride. It takes a man to be a Christian; any fool can go to hell. A dead fish goes over the falls, but a live crab wriggles against the current. So you're dead ones, that's all.

Zaccheus came down. He did not think what some person might say. He was honored, and he made haste. So should you make haste, because you are honored just as much as he was.

Most unsaved men think of God with a sort of fear. Well they might. Why shouldn't they fear who curse and blaspheme? With one hand God could sweep the entire people of the earth to death. He holds the seas and the skies in His hand. He is the son of God in power and is a son of man in sympathy.

Thoughts of Value Worth Seeking. God requires sinners to seek Him. There is no half-way measure. What if I were to walk down one aisle and up another and then come here and say I had lost something? No person would think it was of much value from the careless manner in which I looked for it. But if I were to hire several hundred men to
