Omaha Evangelistic Association
Meets to Conserve Work of the Sunday Campaign.

CARDS ARE NOW BEING SORTED

A meeting of the executive committee of the Omaha Evangelistic Association was held yesterday to discuss plans for conserving the work accomplished during "Billy" Sunday's campaign and continue it.

The various ways in which this can be accomplished were discussed. Charles F. Robel is given charge of the 125 Bible study classes which have been established in various neighborhoods of the city. These will meet regularly once a week. Mr. Robel is also at the head of the gospel teams which will soon be organized. Cards were signed by 24 men to engage in this work. None of these signers were trail hitters and it is expected that many more will be secured from that source. These teams will go out to the Young Men's Christian Association and the city and hold religious meetings from time to time. In other places many converts have been secured by these teams following the close of Sunday campaigns.

Three congregational churches have definitely decided to begin evangelistic services in their respective neighborhoods within a week or two. These are the Hillside, Central Park and First Congregational churches. They will hold meetings six evenings a week to keep Sunday.

To Instruct Trail Hitters.
Measures also will be decided on for giving religious instruction to the trail hitters who will be received into the churches next Sunday.

The whole question is still in a tentative stage, and with several thousand new members ready to begin their Christian careers in the various churches the problem is a big one. It must be handled promptly, efficiently and effectively.

Supper will be given next Monday at 6:30 at the Young Men's Christian Association in the interest of the gospel team and other follow-up work.

The cards signed by trail hitters are being sorted according to denominations and churches. The First Methodist church has the largest number, and a great gathering of new members is expected there. Large numbers came also to the First Congregational and First Presbyterian churches.

Cards on which the signers gave their church preference as Episcopal were taken by Dean Truock of Trinity cathedral, though that denomination has not been affiliated with the campaign.

A confirmation committee was appointed as follows: R. E. Thomas, chairman; Rev. W. T. Rouse, W. E. Foster, J. B. Hildebrandt and F. D. Wead. This committee will devise ways and means of continuing the work of the campaign.

The Omaha Directory Co. will gather the new numbers, new directory when they are giving the house numbers out. This will insure the new and correct numbers appearing in the next issue of the city directory. The entire matter of renumbering has been placed in the hands of the Directory Co. with certificates of numbers bearing the signature of John A. Bruce, the city engineer.

Mr. W. S. Jrdine, superintendent of public improvements, placed the matter in the hands of the Omaha Directory Co. feeling that they were the most competent people to handle a situation of this kind.

Trail Hitters Come from the Middle Classes in Omaha

The trail-hitters of the Sunday campaign in Omaha have been chiefly of the great middle class of people, those of special prominence being few. In other cities high officials, wealthy men of affairs have hit the trail. Incidents have been related of saloon keepers hitting the trail and going back to close up their saloons and get out of the business.

There were no incidents like that in Omaha. Mayor Dahlgren, for whom a strong and united effort in the way of prayer and personal work was made, and not respond. Nor were there any other city officials.

Congressman C. O. Lobeck went down and shook "Billy's" hand. E. A. Benson and C. C. Shimer, well known real estate men, hit the trail. Ellery Westerfield, formerly treasurer of Dundee, was another well known trail-hitter, as was also

H. F. Thomas, former postmaster and state senator. F. D. Wead was another prominent real estate man who hit the trail for reconnection.

City Council Hears of Verdict Against Graham and Ford

Police Judge Foster has officially notified the city council of the verdict of a jury in police court in connection with charges against J. D. Graham and J. T. Ford, 1208 Farnam street, tried for alleged violation of the liquor laws.

According to law, the council on Tuesday morning will revoke the Graham and Ford license and order the police to close the saloon. The saloon will remain closed until hearing of an appeal in district court, and in the event that the appeal should result favorably for the saloon men, then the saloon may be reopened.

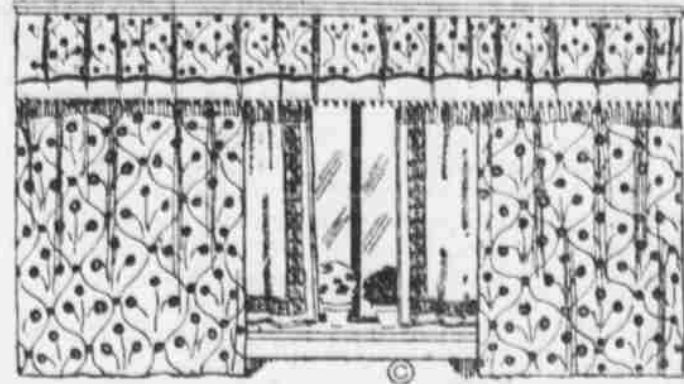

Police officials aver it will have what they call a "salutary effect."

The Palace of Liberal Arts at the Panama-Pacific Exposition contains the exhibit of the Bell System and is the western terminal of the Transcontinental line.

Transcontinental Terminals

Among the many wonderful things worth seeing at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, which President Hadley of Yale has described as "the most beautiful and inspiring exposition the world has ever seen," is the transcontinental telephone demonstration of the Bell System, which has been awarded the Grand Prize of Electrical Means of Communication.

For the first time, perhaps, thousands who have visited the Bell Telephone Exhibit at the Exposition have realized what the wonderful long distance service of the Bell System means to them personally; how it links them to their homes and business interests, no matter where they are, regardless of time or distance.

Space has been eliminated by the long distance lines of the Bell Telephone System, which reaches in all 70,000 American cities, towns and villages, or 12,000 more places than have postoffices.

When you use your Bell Telephone, you demonstrate the efficiency of a system that makes a neighborhood of a nation.
