the lingerie line I have seen a pair of Neptune satin pyjamas which were edged with fur at the feet, as well as their aleeves and front," says the Chicago Tribune on its Sunday society page.

Bryan O'Lynn has new trousers to wear, For he bought him a sheepskin to make him a pair; With the wooly side out and the tanned side in. "They're the height of the fashion." said Bryan O'Lynn.

Not wholly irrevelantly came the old song to mind as I read the exclusive society page yesterday. So extremes will meet, even in the styles. Novel, but not inspiring, those pyjamas. We all remember Peter Pan as Barrie first introduced him to us in "The Little White Bird," where we got a far more personal touch of the boy than the play could give. True the little lad was very happy in the land where they never grew up-but he did long so at night for his mamma, asleep at home with the soft frills of the white frock that he longed to lay his head upon, nestling to her shoulder. Peter's mamma in Neptune satin and furs could never have held like this.

Perhaps there is nothing so strange, after all, in this new style. It may be merely a throw back of fashion to the robe de nuit of a few centuries past. Queen Elizabeth slept a crowned head's uneasy slumbers in a sarpet velvet gown, lined throughout with squirrel fur; and her mother, the unfortunate Quenn Anne, robed for the night in a heavy black taffeta, edged with ermine.

Prairie Park Club.

The Prairie Park clup's special Hallowe'en party Saturday evening was one of the most enjoyable affairs even given by the club. The club rooms were decorated in orange and black, with jack-o'anterns, witches, autumn leaves, corn stalks and pumpkins. All the dancers were required to wear sheet and pillow-case costume, and with the low, shaded lights, the effect was extremely weird. Before the unmasking a great deal of amusement was caused by a grand ghost cake walk. The following were present:

The International Novice Championship Typewriter Contest

At the Annual Business Show at the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory, New York, October 25, 1915,

WAS WON BY

Miss Hortense S. Stollnitz

Operating a Model 10 Remington Typewriter

> Miss Stollnitz wrote 114 words per minute net for fifteen minutes, a world's record for novices in International Championship Contests

This novice event is open only to those who have never used a typewriter previous to September, 1914. It is therefore the one event that gives a real indication of the machine's part in the development of speed in typewriting.

The question of typewriter merit is not determined by what the exceptional operator of exceptional training can do, but by what the average operator can do.

And the best answer to this question, afforded by any speed contest, is, what can the novice do ?-for the novice stage is the stage through which all operators must pass.

By this test the Remington has proved itself to be THE operator's machinethe machine which enables the operator to do the most and the best work from the very outset, and ever after.
