

WORLD WHEAT CROP IS LESS

United States Alone Has Record-Breaking Crop This Year.

LARGE EXPORTATION POSSIBLE

Two Hundred and Ninety Million Bushels Will Be Available to Send to Europe After Home Needs Provided For.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The world wheat crop this year probably will be less than in 1913 and 1912, although the United States has had a record-breaking wheat harvest. The statistics announced today by the Department of Agriculture indicate the crops of all nations aggregating approximately 3,710,000,000 bushels, against 4,120,000,000 bushels in 1913 and 3,787,000,000 bushels in 1912.

Great Britain, according to agricultural officials, reports a crop several million bushels larger than any recent one. In France the official estimate of production has not appeared, but it is believed that the quantity probably will exceed that of last year. Italy indicates a short yield and Spain an increase over last year.

Five Nations Show Decrease Italy, Great Britain, Spain, Hungary and Russia, normally producing more than two-thirds of the European wheat, show this year 27,000,000 bushels less than last year, but 34,000,000 bushels more than 1912. Great Britain's total is 4,000,000 bushels more than either year, while Russia will have 18,000,000 bushels less than a year ago.

The five principal non-European wheat producing countries—the United States, Canada, Argentina, British India and Australia—which grow all the wheat produced outside of Europe, excepting an annual total of from 200,000,000 to 300,000,000 bushels, officially report 1,569,000,000 bushels, or 30,000,000 bushels less than last year, but 30,000,000 bushels more than in 1912.

Of the 300,000,000 bushels record crop harvested in the United States, 255,000,000 bushels, it is estimated, will be required for food in this country, and 7,000,000 bushels for seedling. This will leave 29,000,000 bushels available for exportation.

John Testman, a Pioneer of Nebraska, Dies in Hospital

John C. Testman, a pioneer of Nebraska, died Friday evening at Immanuel hospital. He leaves no immediate relatives except Mrs. B. K. Smith, 2106 Pine street, a niece, with whom he lived for nearly a year before going to the hospital for treatment.

Mr. Testman was born in Lands Praestegjaeld, Norway, June 13, 1834. He immigrated to America as a young man. At the outbreak of the civil war he enlisted in the Twenty-third Ohio regiment, of which William McKinley was colonel and served three years.

After the war Mr. Testman came to Nebraska and settled on a farm near Wisner, where he resided until a year ago, when his advanced age made it necessary for him to come to Omaha to live with his niece.

Scotting in Cass county in 1868 the early settlers found the Indians very troublesome. Consequently they organized a patrol to keep a lookout at night. Mr. Testman was a member of this patrol. He was a member of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Nebraska Pioneers' association and the Masons. The body will be taken to Wisner, Monday morning for burial. The funeral will be held there shortly after Monday, where he will be buried beside his wife, who died a number of years ago. The Masons will have charge of the funeral services.

Ticknor Appoints Register Editors

There will in all probability be two Registers at Central High school this year. The paper that the executive committee has decided to issue is an eight-page weekly and the work will be too heavy for one person to do and keep his lessons going. The pupils on the whole are not very well satisfied with the idea of a weekly paper instead of the monthly magazine. They look at the idea that a school the size of Omaha High school cannot support a monthly magazine.

Earl Ticknor has appointed the staff that will help him publish the paper. They are: Class editors, 1914, Robert Edwards and Alice Rushton; 1915, Harry Caldwell and Beatrice Johnson; 1917, Bryce Crawford and Ruth Knapp; editors, Charles Peterson and Katherine Newbranch; exchange, Arthur Bonner; athletics, Paul Flothow and Quitt Eddy; social, Crestchen Langdon; military, Leroy Wilbur; alumni, Corrine Elliot; organization, Porter Allan and Marie Hixenbaugh; literary, William Campen and Hazel McMullen; departments, Russell Larmon, Freda Stenner; debating, Edward Perley; locale, Edwin Gould and Margaret Hoffman; artists, Alpha Field and Walter Petersen.

New Corn Sold on the Omaha Market

The first new corn of this year's growing was on the Omaha market, a car having come in from Manley, Cass county, Nebraska. It was raised on the farm of John High, near Manley, and sold for 42 cents, old corn selling at around 37 cents.

WANTS TO FIND PLACE FOR VRBA IN SOLDIERS' HOME

After six years of faithful service for Uncle Sam, first as a marine and later as a member of the Fourth infantry, Joseph Vrba was given his honorable discharge last April, because he was suffering from epilepsy resulting from an injury to his head while on duty. He was turned over to a cousin in Omaha, who offered to care for him. Since that time the relative has had a hard time financially, and Vrba as a result is liable to become a county charge. J. M. Leidy, administrator of county charities, is therefore endeavoring to secure the ex-soldier's admission to the Soldiers' home at Washington, where he would have a pleasant and satisfactory home for the rest of his life.

Beauty Now One of Ideas of Builders

It is of interest to any citizen of Omaha to note the advance lines along which all classes of Omaha property are being developed. The prevailing idea is now beauty, as well as permanency and serviceability, in home property.

Everyone is interested in improving the appearance of Omaha, which, by the way, is rapidly becoming one of the most beautiful cities of its size in the country. So that when an apartment building of the sort illustrated herewith is built, embodying these qualities and appealing to the average citizen of moderate means, one cannot help but comment upon the new note in building methods which has been struck by Omaha real estate men.

The building referred to has just been completed by Hastings & Hayden for James C. Bash as an investment and is located on Thirty-third street, between California and Webster. While the income will not be large, the building is of the permanent kind and should need very little repairs for years.

Exchange Election Scheduled.

In three weeks the Real Estate exchange is to hold its regular election for the ensuing year. J. H. Dumont, Harry Christie, Henry Wyman and D. C. Patterson have been nominated as candidates for president, Harry Wolf for treasurer and A. L. Creigh for re-election as secretary.
