

Bringing Up Father

Judgments

FRANK CHANCE coincides with the opinion expressed by Connie Mack that the Athletics may lay their defeat by Boston more to their own carelessness than anything else. Although Chance does not minimize Boston's victory or right to it. But undoubtedly carelessness, the indifference that comes of too many triumphs, figured vitally in the downfall of the great Philadelphia machine, exactly as it did with the once mighty Cubs. The Athletics had beaten both Cubs and Giants in world contests, had come pellmell through another season in the American league, winning by very little effort; naturally they felt a bit of presumption for the Boston outfit, only a little while ago started at as an oddity in the base ball world, to essay to beat them. In the meantime, with the Athletics careless, Boston was screwed up to the very highest notch of efficiency, taking advantage of everything. And, besides, Boston had ball merit, else it never would have won the old league flag. It had the vigor and speed and daring of youth, coupled with the wit and experience and judgment of the business, those of Stallings and Evers. What is strange, after all, in its winning?

It was a foregone conclusion that Roger Bresnahan would one day be the manager of the Chicago Cubs. Frank Chance coincides with this view. He so expressed himself to the writer while in Omaha enroute west. And at that, Roger ought to make 'em go. He will not be whipped by a woman, anyway, nor worse, will he have Roger's courage, to harass him, as Chance had, in spite of which Chance made the Cubs world-beaters. Bresnahan is big, brainy and still a great catcher and if given ample leeway ought to bring the Cubs back to their former place. No doubt Johnny Evers could have done the same thing if allowed a free hand. The ownership, at least the control, has changed since Evers left and maybe Roger will have a better chance. The controlling power—the presidency—is also said to be again in process of a change. But poor old Hank O'Day, the sporadic manager of misfits, he must hit back, we suppose, to the indicator once more. In the line of umpiring, Hank never had a superior.

Here you are—funny, funny—the Sox beat the Cubs again. Now, to post further inquiry as to how they stand on all the series they have played, let us say the Sox are ahead. In the city series of 1903 each team won seven games and the rubber was never played. In 1905 the Cubs won four of the five games; in the world's series of 1906 the Sox won four, Cubs two; in the city series of 1907, Cubs two; Sox one; in 1911, Sox four, Cubs one; in 1912, Sox four, Cubs one; in 1913, Sox four, Cubs two; in 1914, Sox four, Cubs three. Totals: Sox, 25; Cubs, 25. And at that, what does it prove? Most of this time the Cubs have been admittedly the better team. Much the same may be said of the Cardinals and Browns. This year the Cardinals finished third in the National league, the Browns fifth—barely fifth—in the American, yet the Browns beat the Cardinals. It is good sport, of course, but to post season or a pre-season series never determined anything in itself as to the superiority of the teams.

Comiskey is quoted as saying that the White Sox fans deserve a winning team for their unwavering loyalty to several losers, and he will give it to them. Well, believe that settles it. But Comiskey has not been lying down. He has earned some sums for Larry Chappelle and Blackburn and landed other gilt-edged prospects only to find, as many another owner has found, that all is not gold that glitters. With the staff of pitchers he had this season anyone would have given him a first division berth. Yet, if the Old Roman has set his head on a winner, we are betting he will have one. And if ever a set of fans deserved it his do.

What is in store for the Western league, yes for Omaha in 1915? And the echo answers, "what?" We give it up. No guessing goes with your truly. We substitute all guesses with hopes. Even a dying man hopes. The first hope is that, come what may, some how or other, by whose magical mysterious maneuvering the cards, which will hand in favor of the Sox fans are holding their heads off to the effect that the players "held down" to increase gate receipts. Oh, well! But it does seem as if the Sox should have taken the series.

Guess we'd better leave it to Denver to win our Western league pennant after this. Denver always capped the inter-league series with the A. A. champions. Sioux City even fell before Kansas City, which finished sixth in the A. A. The Sox fans are holding their heads off to the effect that the players "held down" to increase gate receipts. Oh, well! But it does seem as if the Sox should have taken the series.

Omaha naturally feels the inspiration that comes from the hibernating of our our hill-billy pal, Chick Autrey. We may have been a bit tardy in saying so, but seems to be growing glad to have you all with us, we in Chicago. Reckon you all don't doubt it, do you?

HUSKERS READY FOR AGGIES

Coach Steinhilber is Looking for a Battle Royal Saturday.

BIG ATTENDANCE EXPECTED

Alumni Have Reserved Big Blocks of Seats—South Omaha Stockmen to Go to the Game with a Band.

By JAMES E. LAWRENCE.

LINCOLN, Oct. 17.—(Special.)—Nebraska's most formidable opponent of the year, the Michigan Aggies, will be staged on the athletic field next Saturday. The innocents, who have charge of the Olympics, have made some changes in the program and will tend to equalize the greater numbers of the freshmen.

The annual Olympics—the scrap between the freshmen and sophomore classes of the university—will be staged on the athletic field next Saturday. The innocents, who have charge of the Olympics, have made some changes in the program and will tend to equalize the greater numbers of the freshmen.

Coach Steinhilber is looking for a battle royal Saturday. The game is expected to draw a large crowd, with many alumni and stockmen attending. The Michigan Aggies are considered a formidable opponent.

Thought Pieces Cited. Steinhilber himself admits that the veterans are "sweet" on themselves. Nebraska had cleaned up four Missouri Valley championships with ease and capped the climax with an all-victorious season last year.

Team Work Lacking. Nebraska is suffering from an overdose of individual play just now, with five or six recognized stars on the team, and Steinhilber will have to eliminate this before the Cornhusker machine works smoothly.

Reed's Advance Sale of Seats for the Michigan Aggie sale is exceeding expectations. Twenty-five hundred reserved seats have already been taken, while big out-of-town delegations are coming in for the game.

Reed expects that Omaha will send down a delegation of fully 300, while the South Omaha Stock exchange has taken a block of 150 seats. The South Omaha boosters will bring a band along with them. The republican state committee has arranged to have all of the republican state candidates attend the game in a body.

Beatrice will send up a big delegation of 117, including the members of the high school football team; Osceola has reserved a block of thirty seats; Aurora, twenty; York, twenty; Kearney, twenty, including the members of the football ball; Hastings, twenty; Norfolk, fifteen, and Westmoreland, a big delegation. The Michigan Aggies will not be entirely lacking for support from the side lines. There are about fifty graduates of the school now living in the state, and Reed has reserved a special section for them. Dean Burnett of the Agricultural school is himself a Michigan man, and he will undertake to see that the section is well cared for.

Aggies Are Veterans. Reports which Reed has received indicate that the Aggies are in excellent shape for the game. The team, which was one of the greatest in the country last season, is practically veteran organization, and has been plugging up huge scores against all early season opponents. Julian, captain and fullback, was Walter Camp's choice for all-American honors in the selection last season. There are many coming just to see Julian in action. He is a most aggressive line plunger and is said to be a marvel in advancing the ball.

Omaha naturally feels the inspiration that comes from the hibernating of our our hill-billy pal, Chick Autrey. We may have been a bit tardy in saying so, but seems to be growing glad to have you all with us, we in Chicago. Reckon you all don't doubt it, do you?

Omaha naturally feels the inspiration that comes from the hibernating of our our hill-billy pal, Chick Autrey. We may have been a bit tardy in saying so, but seems to be growing glad to have you all with us, we in Chicago. Reckon you all don't doubt it, do you?

Omaha naturally feels the inspiration that comes from the hibernating of our our hill-billy pal, Chick Autrey. We may have been a bit tardy in saying so, but seems to be growing glad to have you all with us, we in Chicago. Reckon you all don't doubt it, do you?

CORNELL ON FULL STOMACH

Won from Pennsylvania After Breaking Training

COACH SHARPE TOOK CHANCE

Wanted Men to Forget the Coming Fight, So Gorged Them and Sent Them Out for a Night Lark.

By FRANK QUIGLEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Here is a story that is going its rounds among football coaches that throws an interesting sidelight upon the memorable victory that Cornell secured over Pennsylvania last year. It reveals one of the most remarkable cases ever taken by a football coach and one that was taken against the advice of one of the best conditioners of athletes that the country has ever known.

Dr. Al Sharpe, the old Yale fullback, who is coach of the base ball, football and basketball teams at Cornell, is the man who pulled the unexpected. Usually the greatest care is taken of a football team prior to a big game. Certain dieting is adhered to and early hours prevailing, but the night before Thanksgiving last fall Dr. Sharpe anteduced the football men by telling them to break training.

Sharpe gathered his men about him on the Wednesday before the game after the last practice at Atlantic City and said: "Now, boys, I want you to go back to the hotel and eat anything you like, and eat plenty of it." This remark caused considerable comment, and the players believed that this was sarcasm on the part of Sharpe, because it was rumored that one Cornell athlete the previous year had put himself out of the running by an eating exhibition every meal.

"Tonight I want you all to go to a show," added Sharpe, "and I don't care what time any of you get into bed. In fact, if I see a man come into this hotel before 11:30 he'll hear from me, and he won't enjoy what he hears. Some of you fellows who don't care particularly for the show can get up a regular bowling match or a pool tournament. If any of you feel that you would like a little ice cream, just go ahead and eat it."

Thought Coach Crazy. This took the starch completely out of the boys. They had visions of a scandal. Sharpe would lose his job and there would be trouble in every way. They figured that if the coach, who was drawing down big money and fighting for a reputation, did not want to win, they were helpless. They washed football hall over and immediately forgot all about it. This was just the condition that Sharpe wanted to bring about, and he sat in the hotel lobby and watched his men rolling in around twelve. The latter Jack Fitzgerald, leader of the Monmouth Parkers, is showing up strong with the Columbians.

At Wisner last Sunday the Creighton Reserves and a few of the first team were beaten 9 to 6.

Hassen, formerly a star at Creighton university, is now holding down fullback for the Monmouth Parkers.

Carpenter O'Neil is working at quarter for the Monmouth Parkers. He will be remembered as a former Creighton star.

Last Sunday the Monmouth Parkers nearly ruined the Spaldings when they cleaned them up to the tune of 4 to 0.

Things look rather formidable for Billings Lindner, leader of the Monmouth Parkers, to distinguish himself this year.

Frank Howe, formerly a member of the high school championship squad, is now associated with the California Athletics.

For years Frank Golden was a star with the Omaha High school and now he is still a star, but he is associated with the Monmouth Parkers.

Woodbine, Ia., has decided to enter the football arena and will have a first team and is ready to book games with Omaha teams to be played at Woodbine.

The Columbians have successfully annihilated the Fontenelles' aspirations for the championship and the Monmouth Parkers have eliminated the Spaldings.

CORNELL ON FULL STOMACH

Won from Pennsylvania After Breaking Training

COACH SHARPE TOOK CHANCE

Wanted Men to Forget the Coming Fight, So Gorged Them and Sent Them Out for a Night Lark.

By FRANK QUIGLEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Here is a story that is going its rounds among football coaches that throws an interesting sidelight upon the memorable victory that Cornell secured over Pennsylvania last year. It reveals one of the most remarkable cases ever taken by a football coach and one that was taken against the advice of one of the best conditioners of athletes that the country has ever known.

Dr. Al Sharpe, the old Yale fullback, who is coach of the base ball, football and basketball teams at Cornell, is the man who pulled the unexpected. Usually the greatest care is taken of a football team prior to a big game. Certain dieting is adhered to and early hours prevailing, but the night before Thanksgiving last fall Dr. Sharpe anteduced the football men by telling them to break training.

Sharpe gathered his men about him on the Wednesday before the game after the last practice at Atlantic City and said: "Now, boys, I want you to go back to the hotel and eat anything you like, and eat plenty of it." This remark caused considerable comment, and the players believed that this was sarcasm on the part of Sharpe, because it was rumored that one Cornell athlete the previous year had put himself out of the running by an eating exhibition every meal.

"Tonight I want you all to go to a show," added Sharpe, "and I don't care what time any of you get into bed. In fact, if I see a man come into this hotel before 11:30 he'll hear from me, and he won't enjoy what he hears. Some of you fellows who don't care particularly for the show can get up a regular bowling match or a pool tournament. If any of you feel that you would like a little ice cream, just go ahead and eat it."

Thought Coach Crazy. This took the starch completely out of the boys. They had visions of a scandal. Sharpe would lose his job and there would be trouble in every way. They figured that if the coach, who was drawing down big money and fighting for a reputation, did not want to win, they were helpless. They washed football hall over and immediately forgot all about it. This was just the condition that Sharpe wanted to bring about, and he sat in the hotel lobby and watched his men rolling in around twelve. The latter Jack Fitzgerald, leader of the Monmouth Parkers, is showing up strong with the Columbians.

At Wisner last Sunday the Creighton Reserves and a few of the first team were beaten 9 to 6.

Hassen, formerly a star at Creighton university, is now holding down fullback for the Monmouth Parkers.

Carpenter O'Neil is working at quarter for the Monmouth Parkers. He will be remembered as a former Creighton star.

Last Sunday the Monmouth Parkers nearly ruined the Spaldings when they cleaned them up to the tune of 4 to 0.

Things look rather formidable for Billings Lindner, leader of the Monmouth Parkers, to distinguish himself this year.

Frank Howe, formerly a member of the high school championship squad, is now associated with the California Athletics.

For years Frank Golden was a star with the Omaha High school and now he is still a star, but he is associated with the Monmouth Parkers.

Woodbine, Ia., has decided to enter the football arena and will have a first team and is ready to book games with Omaha teams to be played at Woodbine.

The Columbians have successfully annihilated the Fontenelles' aspirations for the championship and the Monmouth Parkers have eliminated the Spaldings.

CORNELL ON FULL STOMACH

Won from Pennsylvania After Breaking Training

COACH SHARPE TOOK CHANCE

Wanted Men to Forget the Coming Fight, So Gorged Them and Sent Them Out for a Night Lark.

By FRANK QUIGLEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Here is a story that is going its rounds among football coaches that throws an interesting sidelight upon the memorable victory that Cornell secured over Pennsylvania last year. It reveals one of the most remarkable cases ever taken by a football coach and one that was taken against the advice of one of the best conditioners of athletes that the country has ever known.

Dr. Al Sharpe, the old Yale fullback, who is coach of the base ball, football and basketball teams at Cornell, is the man who pulled the unexpected. Usually the greatest care is taken of a football team prior to a big game. Certain dieting is adhered to and early hours prevailing, but the night before Thanksgiving last fall Dr. Sharpe anteduced the football men by telling them to break training.

Sharpe gathered his men about him on the Wednesday before the game after the last practice at Atlantic City and said: "Now, boys, I want you to go back to the hotel and eat anything you like, and eat plenty of it." This remark caused considerable comment, and the players believed that this was sarcasm on the part of Sharpe, because it was rumored that one Cornell athlete the previous year had put himself out of the running by an eating exhibition every meal.

"Tonight I want you all to go to a show," added Sharpe, "and I don't care what time any of you get into bed. In fact, if I see a man come into this hotel before 11:30 he'll hear from me, and he won't enjoy what he hears. Some of you fellows who don't care particularly for the show can get up a regular bowling match or a pool tournament. If any of you feel that you would like a little ice cream, just go ahead and eat it."

Thought Coach Crazy. This took the starch completely out of the boys. They had visions of a scandal. Sharpe would lose his job and there would be trouble in every way. They figured that if the coach, who was drawing down big money and fighting for a reputation, did not want to win, they were helpless. They washed football hall over and immediately forgot all about it. This was just the condition that Sharpe wanted to bring about, and he sat in the hotel lobby and watched his men rolling in around twelve. The latter Jack Fitzgerald, leader of the Monmouth Parkers, is showing up strong with the Columbians.

At Wisner last Sunday the Creighton Reserves and a few of the first team were beaten 9 to 6.

Hassen, formerly a star at Creighton university, is now holding down fullback for the Monmouth Parkers.

Carpenter O'Neil is working at quarter for the Monmouth Parkers. He will be remembered as a former Creighton star.

Last Sunday the Monmouth Parkers nearly ruined the Spaldings when they cleaned them up to the tune of 4 to 0.

Things look rather formidable for Billings Lindner, leader of the Monmouth Parkers, to distinguish himself this year.

Frank Howe, formerly a member of the high school championship squad, is now associated with the California Athletics.

For years Frank Golden was a star with the Omaha High school and now he is still a star, but he is associated with the Monmouth Parkers.

Woodbine, Ia., has decided to enter the football arena and will have a first team and is ready to book games with Omaha teams to be played at Woodbine.

The Columbians have successfully annihilated the Fontenelles' aspirations for the championship and the Monmouth Parkers have eliminated the Spaldings.

CORNELL ON FULL STOMACH

Won from Pennsylvania After Breaking Training

COACH SHARPE TOOK CHANCE

Wanted Men to Forget the Coming Fight, So Gorged Them and Sent Them Out for a Night Lark.

By FRANK QUIGLEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Here is a story that is going its rounds among football coaches that throws an interesting sidelight upon the memorable victory that Cornell secured over Pennsylvania last year. It reveals one of the most remarkable cases ever taken by a football coach and one that was taken against the advice of one of the best conditioners of athletes that the country has ever known.

Dr. Al Sharpe, the old Yale fullback, who is coach of the base ball, football and basketball teams at Cornell, is the man who pulled the unexpected. Usually the greatest care is taken of a football team prior to a big game. Certain dieting is adhered to and early hours prevailing, but the night before Thanksgiving last fall Dr. Sharpe anteduced the football men by telling them to break training.

Sharpe gathered his men about him on the Wednesday before the game after the last practice at Atlantic City and said: "Now, boys, I want you to go back to the hotel and eat anything you like, and eat plenty of it." This remark caused considerable comment, and the players believed that this was sarcasm on the part of Sharpe, because it was rumored that one Cornell athlete the previous year had put himself out of the running by an eating exhibition every meal.

"Tonight I want you all to go to a show," added Sharpe, "and I don't care what time any of you get into bed. In fact, if I see a man come into this hotel before 11:30 he'll hear from me, and he won't enjoy what he hears. Some of you fellows who don't care particularly for the show can get up a regular bowling match or a pool tournament. If any of you feel that you would like a little ice cream, just go ahead and eat it."

Thought Coach Crazy. This took the starch completely out of the boys. They had visions of a scandal. Sharpe would lose his job and there would be trouble in every way. They figured that if the coach, who was drawing down big money and fighting for a reputation, did not want to win, they were helpless. They washed football hall over and immediately forgot all about it. This was just the condition that Sharpe wanted to bring about, and he sat in the hotel lobby and watched his men rolling in around twelve. The latter Jack Fitzgerald, leader of the Monmouth Parkers, is showing up strong with the Columbians.

At Wisner last Sunday the Creighton Reserves and a few of the first team were beaten 9 to 6.

Hassen, formerly a star at Creighton university, is now holding down fullback for the Monmouth Parkers.

Carpenter O'Neil is working at quarter for the Monmouth Parkers. He will be remembered as a former Creighton star.

Last Sunday the Monmouth Parkers nearly ruined the Spaldings when they cleaned them up to the tune of 4 to 0.

Things look rather formidable for Billings Lindner, leader of the Monmouth Parkers, to distinguish himself this year.

Frank Howe, formerly a member of the high school championship squad, is now associated with the California Athletics.

For years Frank Golden was a star with the Omaha High school and now he is still a star, but he is associated with the Monmouth Parkers.

Woodbine, Ia., has decided to enter the football arena and will have a first team and is ready to book games with Omaha teams to be played at Woodbine.

The Columbians have successfully annihilated the Fontenelles' aspirations for the championship and the Monmouth Parkers have eliminated the Spaldings.

CORNELL ON FULL STOMACH

Won from Pennsylvania After Breaking Training

COACH SHARPE TOOK CHANCE

Wanted Men to Forget the Coming Fight, So Gorged Them and Sent Them Out for a Night Lark.

By FRANK QUIGLEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Here is a story that is going its rounds among football coaches that throws an interesting sidelight upon the memorable victory that Cornell secured over Pennsylvania last year. It reveals one of the most remarkable cases ever taken by a football coach and one that was taken against the advice of one of the best conditioners of athletes that the country has ever known.

Dr. Al Sharpe, the old Yale fullback, who is coach of the base ball, football and basketball teams at Cornell, is the man who pulled the unexpected. Usually the greatest care is taken of a football team prior to a big game. Certain dieting is adhered to and early hours prevailing, but the night before Thanksgiving last fall Dr. Sharpe anteduced the football men by telling them to break training.

Sharpe gathered his men about him on the Wednesday before the game after the last practice at Atlantic City and said: "Now, boys, I want you to go back to the hotel and eat anything you like, and eat plenty of it." This remark caused considerable comment, and the players believed that this was sarcasm on the part of Sharpe, because it was rumored that one Cornell athlete the previous year had put himself out of the running by an eating exhibition every meal.

"Tonight I want you all to go to a show," added Sharpe, "and I don't care what time any of you get into bed. In fact, if I see a man come into this hotel before 11:30 he'll hear from me, and he won't enjoy what he hears. Some of you fellows who don't care particularly for the show can get up a regular bowling match or a pool tournament. If any of you feel that you would like a little ice cream, just go ahead and eat it."

Thought Coach Crazy. This took the starch completely out of the boys. They had visions of a scandal. Sharpe would lose his job and there would be trouble in every way. They figured that if the coach, who was drawing down big money and fighting for a reputation, did not want to win, they were helpless. They washed football hall over and immediately forgot all about it. This was just the condition that Sharpe wanted to bring about, and he sat in the hotel lobby and watched his men rolling in around twelve. The latter Jack Fitzgerald, leader of the Monmouth Parkers, is showing up strong with the Columbians.

At Wisner last Sunday the Creighton Reserves and a few of the first team were beaten 9 to 6.

Hassen, formerly a star at Creighton university, is now holding down fullback for the Monmouth Parkers.

Carpenter O'Neil is working at quarter for the Monmouth Parkers. He will be remembered as a former Creighton star.

Last Sunday the Monmouth Parkers nearly ruined the Spaldings when they cleaned them up to the tune of 4 to 0.

Things look rather formidable for Billings Lindner, leader of the Monmouth Parkers, to distinguish himself this year.

Frank Howe, formerly a member of the high school championship squad, is now associated with the California Athletics.

For years Frank Golden was a star with the Omaha High school and now he is still a star, but he is associated with the Monmouth Parkers.

Woodbine, Ia., has decided to enter the football arena and will have a first team and is ready to book games with Omaha teams to be played at Woodbine.

The Columbians have successfully annihilated the Fontenelles' aspirations for the championship and the Monmouth Parkers have eliminated the Spaldings.

Judgments

FRANK CHANCE coincides with the opinion expressed by Connie Mack that the Athletics may lay their defeat by Boston more to their own carelessness than anything else. Although Chance does not minimize Boston's victory or right to it. But undoubtedly carelessness, the indifference that comes of too many triumphs, figured vitally in the downfall of the great Philadelphia machine, exactly as it did with the once mighty Cubs. The Athletics had beaten both Cubs and Giants in world contests, had come pellmell through another season in the American league, winning by very little effort; naturally they felt a bit of presumption for the Boston outfit, only a little while ago started at as an oddity in the base ball world, to essay to beat them. In the meantime, with the Athletics careless, Boston was screwed up to the very highest notch of efficiency, taking advantage of everything. And, besides, Boston had ball merit, else it never would have won the old league flag. It had the vigor and speed and daring of youth, coupled with the wit and experience and judgment of the business, those of Stallings and Evers. What is strange, after all, in its winning?

It was a foregone conclusion that Roger Bresnahan would one day be the manager of the Chicago Cubs. Frank Chance coincides with this view. He so expressed himself to the writer while in Omaha enroute west. And at that, Roger ought to make 'em go. He will not be whipped by a woman, anyway, nor worse, will he have Roger's courage, to harass him, as Chance had, in spite of which Chance made the Cubs world-beaters. Bresnahan is big, brainy and still a great catcher and if given ample leeway ought to bring the Cubs back to their former place. No doubt Johnny Evers could have done the same thing if allowed a free hand. The ownership, at least the control, has changed since Evers left and maybe Roger will have a better chance. The controlling power—the presidency—is also said to be again in process of a change. But poor old Hank O'Day, the sporadic manager of misfits, he must hit back, we suppose, to the indicator once more. In the line of umpiring, Hank never had a superior.

Here you are—funny, funny—the Sox beat the Cubs again. Now, to post further inquiry as to how they stand on all the series they have played, let us say the Sox are ahead. In the city series of 1903 each team won seven games and the rubber was never played. In 1905 the Cubs won four of the five games; in the world's series of 1906 the Sox won four, Cubs two; in the city series of 1907, Cubs two; Sox one; in 1911, Sox four, Cubs one; in 1912, Sox four, Cubs one; in 1913, Sox four, Cubs two; in 1914, Sox four, Cubs three. Totals: Sox, 25; Cubs, 25. And at that, what does it prove? Most of this time the Cubs have been admittedly the better team. Much the same may be said of the Cardinals and Browns. This year the Cardinals finished third in the National league, the Browns fifth—barely fifth—in the American, yet the Browns beat the Cardinals. It is good sport, of course, but to post season or a pre-season series never determined anything in itself as to the superiority of the teams.

Comiskey is quoted as saying that the White Sox fans deserve a winning team for their unwavering loyalty to several losers, and he will give it to them. Well, believe that settles it. But Comiskey has not been lying down. He has earned some sums for Larry Chappelle and Blackburn and landed other gilt-edged prospects only to find, as many another owner has found, that all is not gold that glitters. With the staff of pitchers he had this season anyone would have given him a first division berth. Yet, if the Old Roman has set his head on a winner, we are betting he will have one. And if ever a set of fans deserved it his do.

What is in store for the Western league, yes for Omaha in 1915? And the echo answers, "what?" We give it up. No guessing goes with your truly. We substitute all guesses with hopes. Even a dying man hopes. The first hope is that, come what may, some how or other, by whose magical mysterious maneuvering the cards, which will hand in favor of the Sox fans are holding their heads off to the effect that the players "held down" to increase gate receipts. Oh, well! But it does seem as if the Sox should have taken the series.

Guess we'd better leave it to Denver to win our Western league pennant after this. Denver always capped the inter-league series with the A. A. champions. Sioux City even fell before Kansas City, which finished sixth in the A. A. The Sox fans are holding their heads off to the effect that the players "held down" to increase gate receipts. Oh, well! But it does seem as if the Sox should have taken the series.

Omaha naturally feels the inspiration that comes from the hibernating of our our hill-billy pal, Chick Autrey. We may have been a bit tardy in saying so, but seems to be growing glad to have you all with us, we in Chicago. Reckon you all don't doubt it, do you?

HUSKERS READY FOR AGGIES

Coach Steinhilber is Looking for a Battle Royal Saturday.

BIG ATTENDANCE EXPECTED

Alumni Have Reserved Big Blocks of Seats—South Omaha Stockmen to Go to the Game with a Band.

By JAMES E. LAWRENCE.

LINCOLN, Oct. 17.—(Special.)—Nebraska's most formidable opponent of the year, the Michigan Aggies, will be staged on the athletic field next Saturday. The innocents, who have charge of the Olympics, have made some changes in the program and will tend to equalize the greater numbers of the freshmen.

The annual Olympics—the scrap between the freshmen and sophomore classes of the university—will be staged on the athletic field next Saturday. The innocents, who have charge of the Olympics, have made some changes in the program and will tend to equalize the greater numbers of the freshmen.

Coach Steinhilber is looking for a battle royal Saturday. The game is expected to draw a large crowd, with many alumni and stockmen attending. The Michigan Aggies are considered a formidable opponent.