GERMANS CAN HOLD LINES ALL WINTER

London Correspondent Writes that Kaiser's Army is Well Fixed Along Aisne.

EASILY HOLD THEIR GROUND

French Have Been Unable to Push Enemy Back Since Capture of Rheims - Sniping Continues Everywhere.

LONDON, Oct. 27.-The correspondent of the Morning Post, writing from a point near Rheims, under date of Saturday, and discussing the situation in the eastern German advices, has been forced to part of the Alane valley, says:

"It is possible that the Germans intend to hold this line all winter and if they fortify their positions it is quite possible that they can do so. It is certain that they can make no further move into French territory.

'Around Rheims there is now only one point where the Germans have heavy artillery and this consists of only one big gun and twenty pieces of smaller field artillery. These are all Austrian. This artillery is located near Berru, some distance from the city, which, however, is well within the range of the big gun. This gun is a rapidly moving piece, pulled by a motor tractor and contents itself with a shot or two daily.

"The German infantry lines, however, are much further advanced. The German trenches at Betheneny run in a long unbroken line around to the right by Cernay, At no point are the French trenches more than a few hundred yards away.

Germana Maintain Ground. "The Germans have lost no ground since the French captured Rheims. There is continual sniping from the trenches. The ground between the trenches is thickly govered with barbed wire entaglements.

Four hundred German prisoners were taken Thursday and brought into Rhelms. They made the customary German complaints of extreme hunger, but the French are beginning to be skeptical as to these complaints, for the prisoners bear no sign of famishment.

The German officers boast that the German strength lies in the superiority of their artillery and the efficiency of their spy system, both of which have been only too well proved during the campaign. The German lines show frequent signs of activity, calling for constant watchfulness in this vicinity. "In the meantime the artillery duel along the eastern part of the Alsne valley is being continued with great violence Although the allies seem to hold the advantage, the battle here is far from ended and the strong fortified positions held by the Germans will call for exceptional

W .- The list of persons he believes should be called before the senate lobby committee in connection with his charges that a lobby has worked in the interests of liquor producers to prevent a tax on whisky and an increased levy on beer, was nearing completion today by Senator Norris of Nebraska. He made the charges in the senate during the final discussion of the war revenue bill.

Senator Norris already has submitted a partial list to Chairman Overman of suggests should be called are Royal E. Cabell, former commissioner of internal revenue, and Theodore Bell of California. SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 27.-Theodore A. Bell denied with heat today that he had worked to prevent a tax by congress

"I was in Washington," said Mr. Bell "solely in the interest of the grape grow ers and wine makers of California, as their counsel. I conceive that I had a right to be there. I appeared openly and only before committees and subco tees charged with consideration of the revenue measures proposing a tax of M cents a gallon on fortified sweet wines and 12 cents a gallon on dry wines.

"Senator Norris was certainly misin formed when he placed my name, or that of Roy E. Cabell, who was associated with me, among those who represented the beer and whisky interests.

The left wing of the allies has been reinferced, a fact which may be due in part to efforts to offset the constant tide of fresh German troops and in part to make good the decreased activity of the British fleet, which, according to withdraw further from the coast because of the German artillery. No German ships, aside from submarines, have been reported in this vicinity. The tone of all articles in the London press seems to be that the appearance of German warships would be welcomed as presaging that sea battle for which the Britons long have been hoping.

How the Robert Burns is made

VERY Robert Burns must be uniform in workmanship, as well as in the high quality of tobacco which it contains. Its shape and size must be exact. It must be rolled so that it will be absolutely certain to draw freely and burn evenly. It must always contain exactly the correct proportion of the full-flavored, mellow tobaccos which make this cigar so delicately mild and satisfying.

Such a high standard of excellence calls for the services of only the most expert cigar makers. Because of this standard, the majority of the workmen now making this hand-made cigar have been specially trained for this work in the Robert Burns factories.

In making the "filler" the greatest care is taken to make sure that the blend of tobacco is just right. Long leaf only is used. The skill with which this filler is made is readily seen by the uniform evenness of every Robert Burns cigar. After covering the filler with a special leaf of carefully selected tobacco called the "binder", the cigar is ready for its wrapper.

The wrapper is deftly cut by hand from a leaf of imported Sumatra. This is rolled around the "filler" at just the right tightness.

Inspectors keep a close watch over this. If a cigar is rolled too tightly or loosely it will not draw properly. The inspector examines every finished Robert Burns and those which are not rolled properly are thrown out.

The Robert Burns which you receive will be right-absolutely right. You can depend on it.

You'll find it a good plan to keep a plentiful supply of Robert Burns on hand-in your office desk, and in your humidor at home.

When a man wants a Robert Burns-he wants it. No other cigar will take its place. Because no other cigar is as mild and generous in mellow, smooth flavor as the Robert Burns.

Light up a Robert Burns NOW and enjoy satisfying mildness which extends from tip to tip.

The "Invincible" is one of the most popular shapes of the Robert Burns. Have you tried it?
