Thirdly, the unrest in Albania seems to be growing. Not only have both Italy and Greece announced their intention of protecting their interests in this territory by force of arms, but the Turks are said to be preparing a campaign to send troops and proclaim Albania a part of the Ottoman empire.

Misses in Atlantic. Aside from these political outcroppings of the great war, England received a shock in the news that a steamer, the Manchester Commerce, had been sunk off the coast of Ireland by a German mine.

Of the battle on the Yser London has heard little news this morning. The German rush to reach the French coast would appear for the time being held in check, but the fiercest fighting continues, with the Germans delivering a heavy blow on the line between Dixmude and Ypres.

Allies Advance in South. While the Germans are making their supreme effort in West Flanders, the allies have been quick to press the advantages offered at other points on the line by the removal of German troops to the German right wing.

RUSSIAN WINTER NOW FIGHTING ON SIDE OF ALLIES

(Continued from Page One.) the attitude of the population, which is increasingly anti-German. Threatens German Rear. The Petrograd correspondent of the Times, under Tuesday's date, says: "The news of the occupation of Lodz is regarded in military circles as extremely important because of the presence of a large cavalry column there which threatens the whole line of German communication."

The Chronicle's Warsaw correspondent sends a dispatch which was delayed in transmission, in which he says: "The Russian winter, which brought ruin to Napoleon and must mean the greatest hardship for the German troops, has set in early this year. When our train crossed the Berezina river near Minak, a few days ago, a blizzard was raging and the fields and forests thereabout were covered with snow. All the way from Moscow to Warsaw the weather was bitterly cold."

Line Sixty-Two Miles Long. PARIS, Oct. 28.—The following official statement about the war in the east was issued this afternoon: "To the south of Warsaw the fighting extends from Rawa to the junction of the River Rusa with the Vistula on a front 100 kilometers (sixty-two miles) long. In the region to the northeast of Rawa the Russians have inflicted heavy losses on the Germans. There has been furious fighting in the forests between Kostienka and Radom.

In Galicia the Russians are making progress. To the south of Sambor, in the narrow valley of the Podubie they surrounded the Thirty-eighth division of the Hungarian hordes, together with detachments from the landsturm, and destroyed them completely, capturing twenty pieces of artillery and a quantity of war material.

GERMANS MAINTAIN FOOTING ON YSER

(Continued from Page One.) from Nieuport to Dixmude. They crossed last Thursday, but were prevented from advancing over the main waterway at that time. On Saturday they succeeded in getting across the second channel and nearly reached the railway line. They were finally driven back after fierce fighting, and it is the railway embankment which now forms the main line of the Belgian defense from Nieuport to Dixmude.

"During yesterday morning a German force entered Dixmude and for a time paralyzed the defenders, who appeared later to have recovered themselves and turned on the invaders. "Heavy street fighting resulted in the capture of the greater part of the German battalion."

GAUL SHELLS WIN AT YPRES

Officers Arriving at Paris Tell How They Wiped Out the Germans.

RUSE EFFECTIVE ON THE ENEMY

Defenders Cease Firing and Manipulate So that Trenches Come in Sight and Are Then Put to Rest.

PARIS, Oct. 27.—This is how a portion of the German lines northeast of Ypres was taken yesterday, according to officers who have arrived in Paris from the battle line.

A series of light four-inch guns, three-inch field batteries, each invulnerable from the front, were disposed behind the natural cover of undulations in the field, bits of wood, ruined farm houses or dry ravines. The guns, working to their full capacity of four shells to the minute, sprayed bursting projectiles over the German trenches in a wide belt before, over and just behind the carefully dug and roofed field works that is the usual thing with the adversaries. The German infantry, as long as they kept inside the covered trenches, were secure, except from the chance of shells falling directly through the narrow space left for rifle and machine gun fire.

French Infantry Charges. The French infantry, although firing heavily, did not charge. The French artillery changed their range and at a signal by telephone from the French trenches caught the German reserves coming on the run, 1,000 yards behind their works, with a shattering shell fire, which broke formations and seemed to bring down a third of the men in the line. They simply could not advance through the section of bursting shells.

French Infantry Charges. The French infantry then charged and won their way through the fire from the German trenches, which they took with the bayonet. The pushing of the Germans out of France opposite Nancy yesterday and the establishing of French positions inside the German frontier is regarded as an important achievement at this juncture, proving that the allies are capable of carrying the war into the enemy's country while holding their invading army in check in the north.

The "Blue Devils," as the Germans call the French light infantry operating in the Vosges, again justified the honor in which they are held by the enemy. They led the final rush which forced the last of the Germans out of French Lorraine. These troops hesitate at no sacrifice to gain an end. The second battalion, emulating the first battalion, which took the first flag from the Germans, held the vantage ground gained despite great losses.

Japan Will Not Build Additional Battleship Now. NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The East and West News Bureau issued this afternoon the following statement, which was received from Tokyo under date of today: "Mr. Yukio Ozaki, minister of justice, who has heretofore consistently advocated the disadvantages of Japan's entering into the race of armament expansion with the great powers, makes the following statement with regard to the navy and army budget to be presented before the coming diet: "In the next budget no proposal for the construction of any new battleships will be made."

BATTLE IN FLANDERS BLOODY MASSACRE. (Continued from Page One.) or give marked success to one side or the other. If the Germans are sending fresh masses of men to the fighting zone, the allies probably are equally ready opponents numerically with reinforcements. There are still many thousands of French and British troops who have not yet been in action, although the latter are on this side of the channel.

More Belgians to Front. The Belgian government has been stirred to greater activity by the comment that there are large numbers of young and physically able Belgians enjoying life in England when their proper place, it is contended, is in the ranks of their own army. A call now has been issued by the Belgian government summing all efficient between the ages of 18 and 30 to enlist for the duration of the war and announcing that after November 15 all bachelors are to be automatically enlisted. Simultaneously it is declared here, the British government has repented of its recent instructions forbidding the capture of reservists of the enemy on neutral vessels, and has withdrawn this order. The public welcomes this change of front, as it is opposed to giving facilities to the flood of German and Austrian reservists to join their colors and thus neutralize the fresh troops the allies are able to send into the field.

HUMAN MORE PRECIOUS THAN LAUNDRY MACHINES. WATERLOO, Ia., Oct. 28.—(Special Telegram.)—Iowa laundries in state convention discussed many live problems. Fred V. Sherman, Port Dodge, said human machinery is precious and pleaded for more humane treatment of employees. He declared that human machinery is more precious and that the welfare of help makes for greater efficiency. Tub and shower baths were among the comforts advocated. G. D. Wolf of Chicago advocated cost accounting, which would soon lead to uniform charges by laundries.

Mine Death Roll Forty-seven Dead, Three Missing

ROYALTON, Ill., Oct. 28.—The death roll in the disaster at the mine of the Franklin Coal and Coke company near here yesterday was placed at fifty at noon today, after all but three men who had entered the mine before the explosion had been accounted for.

Forty-seven bodies had been recovered at noon, and it is thought that the three missing men still are in the mine. It was developed today that most of the deaths were due to the reversal of the air as soon as the explosion occurred. On the other hand, mine officers state that the reversal of air also prevented a much heavier loss of life in that it drew the afterglow of the lower workings, where many of the workers had begun to scatter when the explosion occurred.

The reversal of the air fan drew the poisonous gases into the airshaft, thereby causing the death of the men who had not gone far into the workings and who rushed to the airshaft for safety. At the same time a fresh supply of air swept into the main shaft, through which the men had entered the mine, to fill the vacuum created by the withdrawal of the gas-laden air in the workings. This fresh air then was drawn up the shaft.

It developed today that there was no fire in the mine and that the reports of fire started from the fact that several of the bodies recovered soon after the explosion were charred. James D. Brown, mine manager, today said that he gave the orders to reverse the air. He was walking from the engine room to the shaft when the explosion occurred. He shouted to the engineer to reverse the air fan. Brown's story follows: "The men had just gone down and I know most of them had gone far from the shaft. The reversing of the fan forced fresh air down the main shaft and the men. A cage was at the top and I jumped into it and went to the bottom. "I found seventy-five men near the shaft who did not know the air had been reversed and were starting toward the air shaft. I turned them back and they were all saved. The cages were not damaged. The men were quickly hoisted to the top.

"The men further back quickly discovered that the air had been reversed and made their way to the bottom of the main shaft and were hoisted to the surface. Some of them were overcome and had to be assisted. They all revived as soon as they reached the fresh air."

Leo Bellamy, who was rescued from the mine, today told how the reversal of the air brought death to some. He said: "I was walking along the main air course when the explosion occurred. About fifty men were scattered along the air course. I heard a distant rumble and then it was like a cyclone. Timbers, coal and dust were hurled through the entry. I tried to get back to help my brother, but the fan had been reversed and was pulling the air damp towards me. The only one besides me who could get away was a man whom I did not know."

FIRST THOUSAND TONS OF FOOD SENT TO BELGIANS. LONDON, Oct. 28.—The Dutch steamship Coblenz will sail from England tonight for Rotterdam with the first thousand tons of food purchased by the American commission for the relief of the Belgian people. Coincidentally with the departure of this ship, the Belgian government has announced that hereafter all movements for supplying Belgium with food must be conducted through the American commission, which is the sole body authorized by all governments concerned, both belligerents and neutrals, to perform the task.

This announcement was made because of a group of wealthy Oxford residents wishing to contribute $100,000, failed to get in touch with the commission until they had cabled to Washington. All contributions and supplies are under the protection of American and Spanish diplomatic representatives, but the actual work of distribution will be in the hands of the American commission.
