Co-Eds at Institution Busy Campaigning for Equal Votes for Women—Political Club May Be Organized.

With the president of the school, Dr. D. E. Jenkins, running for the Board of Education on the citizens ticket, and with one of the student body, V. DeBolt, a senior, running for superintendent of Douglas county schools, students of the University of Omaha are taking a great interest in the coming election.

Suffrage literature is also in great evidence about the school, some of the more ardent co-eds campaigning in a systematic manner for the equal ballot. In order that DeBolt could keep on playing with the university team on which he is fullback, three students volunteered to help him in his campaign.

British Vessel Is Sunk by Mine Off Coast of Belgium

LONDON, Nov. 1.—A British vessel was sunk by a mine Saturday off the Belgian coast, according to a message to the Weekly Despatch from Dover.

Whether it was a merchantman or a warship is not stated, but the vessel is said to have left Dover early Friday, carrying 300 passengers. It is possible that the report was delayed and garbled, and refers to the British cruiser Hermes, which was sunk in the straits of Dover by a German submarine.

ADMITS SLAYING FAMILY

Scott Stone Murders Wife and Children by Dynamiting Home.

ANOTHER WOMAN CAUSED DEED

United States Army Recruit Makes Written Confession of Crime Following Arrest on Information Given by Woman.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 1.—Scott Stone, a United States army recruit at Jefferson barracks, near here, who was arrested yesterday afternoon at the request of the state's attorney of Champaign county, Illinois, this afternoon made a written confession that he had murdered his wife and four children near Tolono, Ill., on September 23.

He killed them, according to his confession, by dynamiting his home. He himself fled from the house after he had lighted the fuse that set off the explosion. Fire followed the explosion. In the ruins of the house the bodies of Mrs. Stone and two children were found, but the bodies of the other two children never were recovered. Evidently they had been burned.

The motive of the crime, according to the confession, was that Stone might go away with another woman—a woman in Champaign, whose name he gave as Lucilla. Her last name he said he could not remember. An order for the arrest of the woman was made by telegraph from St. Louis today. It was said that she was planning to leave Champaign.

Stone said that he had been married seven years.

His arrest here yesterday was due to the story of a woman, who told the state's attorney of Champaign county that Stone wanted her to go with him and pose as his wife. According to the story, Stone met this woman the day before the fire and told her the next day he would be in jail or she would see his name in the papers. The day after the fire Stone met the woman, according to the story, and said he had obtained the kind of divorce he wanted.

When Baby Has the Croup.—When a mother is awakened from sound sleep to find her child, who has gone to bed apparently in the heat of health, struggling for breath, she is naturally alarmed. Yet if she can keep her presence of mind and give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy every ten minutes until vomiting is produced, quick relief will follow and the child will drop to sleep to awaken in the morning as well as ever. Woman Suffrage Does NOT Mean That Women Must Serve as Jurors. Anti-Suffragists Say It Does. The Law of Nebraska Says It Does NOT Which Will You Believe? READ the Nebraska Law. Chapter 16, article 1, section 576, Revised Statutes of Nebraska: Persons competent as jurors. All MALES residing in any of the counties of this state, having the qualifications of electors, and being over the age of twenty-five years, and of sound mind and discretion, and not being judges of the supreme court or district courts, clerks of the supreme or district courts, sheriffs, coroners or jailers, or subject to any bodily infirmity amounting to a disability, and who have not been convicted of a criminal offense punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary, and are not subject to liability for the commission of any offense which by special provisions of law does or shall disqualify them, are and shall be competent persons to serve on all grand and petit juries, within their counties respectively; PROVIDED, persons over 60 years of age, ministers of the Gospel, county judges, county commissioners, licensed attorneys, practicing physicians, postmasters, registered pharmacists, and carriers of the United States mails, members of state militia and members of any fire department or company shall not be compelled to serve as jurors. (R. S. p. 509; 1911 p. 548; Ann. 1913; Comp. 7236.)

Facts Which Nebraska Women Must Face

Women Compelled to Serve on Juries

Should woman suffrage carry in Nebraska, women will have to serve on juries the same as men do. In all states where woman suffrage prevails women are compelled to serve as jurors. The Seattle Daily Times of November 14, 1914, contains an account of a murder trial in that city. The jury was composed of seven women and five men. (See Omaha Bee, November 15, 1913, on page 7, column 5).

Does anyone imagine that these women served willingly? The facts are that they were compelled to serve as they were unable to furnish valid reasons for being excused. It is reported that all these women were opposed to votes for women, had urged that they be excused and their places taken by women who were frantic for the right to vote, but their pleas went for naught. The presiding judge could see no legal way of letting them off. If a woman ignores a jury summons, she may be arrested and fined by the court. In some states men are imprisoned as punishment for disregarding the summons to do jury duty. All voters, with a few specified exceptions, are subject to the call for service as jurors.

An Associated Press Dispatch from Independence, Kan., under date of Dec. 13, 1912, relates how Kansas women were at their wits' end to find a way whereby they might evade jury duty. Judge Clark of Independence stated that women had more time for jury duty than men, and would have to serve. (See Omaha Bee, Dec. 13, 1912).

An Associated Press Dispatch from Red Wood, Cal., dated Feb. 4, 1913, is to the effect that seventeen women of San Mateo County were called for service on the Grand Jury.

No wonder that a strong movement is on foot among women in California and in Colorado asking that the question of repealing women suffrage be submitted to a vote of the people. Predictions are made that the vast majority of women will vote for the repeal of woman suffrage just as soon as the question can legally be re-submitted to the voters of the State, in order that they may thus escape the obligation to do jury service and other duties imposed upon voters.

Opinion of an Eminent Jurist

Judge W. W. Slabaugh of Omaha, formerly of the District Bench, in an interview, authorized the following statement:

"Although the word male appears in the law respecting the selection of jurors, yet if the word male in our fundamental law is stricken therefrom leaving the duties, burdens and privileges of citizenship the same, it will inevitably follow that the word male will be stricken from the jury law in consonance with the spirit that struck it from the constitution.

"The suffragists who ask equal rights should, to be consistent throughout with their claim, ask to serve on juries where ultimately the issues that arise under our laws are tried and determined respecting persons and property."

HERE IS THE BALLOT—VOTE NO.

Do Good Women Want This Kind of Freedom?

That Inez Milholland is one of the acknowledged leaders alike of the Woman Suffrage Movement, as well as of the "Feminist" Movement, may be gathered from the following, taken from McClure's Magazine for February, 1913:

"A NEW DEPARTMENT FOR WOMAN"—Conducted by Miss Inez Milholland. Introducing Miss Milholland to its readers, McClure's says, editorially:

"This movement in its largest general aspect is termed 'FEMINISM,' in its immediate political aspects, 'Suffrage.' No woman in America is better qualified for the important task of conducting this department than INEZ MILHOLLAND."

The following is taken in verbatim from Miss Milholland's article in the February number of McClure's: (Note the imputation of ignorance touching women of the old school.)

"A large proportion of the new voters are women of the old types, bred to another standard, NOT EQUIPPED TO COMPREHEND the power that has been placed in their hands. * * * But it will not be long before the steady influx to the voting ranks of those millions of YOUNGER women whose impressions are being formed in the more alert, stirring air of today, adding their clearer vision and greater independence of spirit, will bring the REAL issues more sharply before us. * * * Those unthinking ones who expect the old submission and silence from the FREE women of today and tomorrow are certainly in for some exceedingly rude shocks."

The "real issue," which Miss Milholland has in mind is Home and Marriage, for she goes on and says:

"It may be further assumed that this pressure toward a constantly growing FREEDOM and POWER on the part of the sex means that, in the long run, the institutions most certain to be touched and changed are institutions in which sex, as a sex, is most peculiarly and vitally interested. And these institutions, it is hardly necessary to point out, are the HOME and MARRIAGE, itself."

In her article Miss Milholland further refers to women of the old types as "the parasitic" sort, that they are naturally "conservative" and clinging to conditions that maintain them in idleness. (This is the same Miss Milholland who early this year announced that no woman should spend more than fifteen minutes a day on her housework.) She announces that she and her fellow Suffragist-Feminists intend to release women from an "enslavement." She gleefully says that suffragists are openly reading Bernard Shaw's utterances on forbidden topics, reading Havelock Ellis' work on Sex Psychology, Kaufman on the inhabitants of the underworld, etc.

In the Atlantic Magazine for December, 1913, W. L. George, the well-known woman suffragist, writes as follows:

"The gaining of the vote is, in the Feminist's view, nothing but an affair of the outposts. They intend to use the vote to make women vote as women, not as citizens. * * * It is no wonder then that the Feminists should have designs upon the most fundamental of human institutions—marriage and motherhood. * * * In the main, Feminists are opposed to indissoluble Christian marriage. * * * That there is a sex war, and will be a sex war, I do not deny."

(Remember, the above are the views of a man who writes IN FAVOR of woman suffrage).
