

Nebraska
VETERINARIAN KIGIN TALKS
 State Threatened with Epidemic of Dourine from the West.
HARD WORK TO STAMP OUT
 Foot and Mouth Disease Not Yet in Evidence in Nebraska, but Careful Work Needed to Keep It Out, Says Expert.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
 LINCOLN, Nov. 5.—(Special.)—The state of Nebraska is threatened with a disease which is raging in different parts of the country and one case of which has already appeared in the state, which, if not checked, is liable to cause much loss to the stock growers of the state.
 Dr. Kigin, state veterinarian, has been working upon the disease where it has appeared and is frank in admitting that the state is facing a situation in stock disease which it is going to be hard to handle unless the state live stock sanitary board and the state veterinarian are given all the assistance possible by the stockmen, the press and others interested.

Dr. Kigin said that it is one of the greatest problems which has come up in stock matters for years and it will only be by the hardest work on the part of everybody that the disease can be stamped out. He issues the following statement:
 A disease known as dourine, which is peculiar to stallions and mares and makes its appearance in the vicinity of Hecla, Neb. This disease was imported by some horses that were shipped to the state of Wyoming. The government notified this department of this shipment of suspicious animals and they had tested several of the remaining animals in the state of Wyoming. The test they made in Wyoming showed that the disease was effected with this disease. They detailed a man to assist Dr. Kigin to take blood from 15 stallions in the state of Nebraska and same was sent to Washington for test. The results of this test showed that five mares and one stallion were diseased and five mares and one stallion suspicious.

The railroad companies have been notified not to accept any horses for shipment out of Grant, Hooker, Thomas, Blaine and Cherry counties. They receive a special permit first from this department. A meeting of the Nebraska Live Stock Sanitary Board has been called for Saturday to take steps in controlling this disease. The stallion inspectors who have been notified that they have found no suspicious looking animals from the stallions that have been notified to draw blood from any stallion that shows the least suspicion and send same to Washington for test. This territory has been covered this fall by stallion inspectors but some of the stallion owners were unable to bring their stallions to the different stations and towns where inspectors have been notified that it will be necessary for this route to be gone over the second time. By so doing it will give an additional check on the disease and no investigation concerning this disease.

As to Foot and Mouth Disease.
 A disease known as foot and mouth disease, which is one of the most contagious diseases known among ruminant animals, has made its appearance in seven of the counties of Nebraska. Many of the largest stock yards in the United States have been quarantined, and the live stock states that have been completely closed until November 16. This disease seems to have spread so rapidly that it was beyond power of government employees to keep it under control. There is no question but what it will cost the state and the country millions of dollars before they entirely eradicate this disease. All animals that show this kind of disease should be destroyed and buried deep in lime.

A report has been published that this disease has become severe in St. Joseph county, Indiana, that it will bankrupt that county and, no doubt, will work a great hardship upon the state in general if control cannot be made in the very near future. The government station at the South Omaha stock yards has been notified to permit any cattle to be shipped out from this point into any quarantined section.

It is impossible to tell the owner that might be hovering over the state of Nebraska, as this disease could be carried in cars that had previously carried infected cattle. I make an appeal to every stockman and veterinarian in the state of Nebraska to be on the alert and to report any disease that might be even similar to this foot and mouth disease.

I wish to state, at this time, that this disease is very contagious to the human family, being transmitted through the milk of infected children and also through the milk of the mother. This disease is known as mycotic stomatitis and has been more or less prevalent in the state of Nebraska for quite a number of years, especially during the months of August, September, and October. This disease is not contagious or infectious, but it is caused by certain fungi on grasses or weeds in pastures. This disease is more prevalent in the hill districts of the state but it does occur in some other localities. Occasionally this disease is called foot and mouth disease for the reason that as a rule both mouth and feet are affected, but there is a great difference between this disease and the contagious foot and mouth disease which has been discovered in Chicago stock yards and other eastern states, for which a quarantine has been established in several states during the last few days. The symptoms of the two diseases are somewhat similar, but the disease which shows a lesion of the muzzle which appears like it had been burned. This area is confined by a line of demarcation which cracks open, leaving on one side of this line very prominent lesions and on the other side is not affected at all. This burned area of the affected area of the muzzle will peel off in about ten or fifteen days. The lesions in the mouth in this disease are also very extensive appearing in the form of blisters at first and later developing into ulcers, causing sloughing of the mucous membrane and sometimes the gums are affected to such an extent that the teeth become loosened. The feet are generally affected to some extent but not to much so as in foot and mouth disease. The one particular feature that is characteristic of foot and mouth disease is the animal is constantly making a smacking noise with its lips. And the saliva discharged is very sticky and the animal's eyes on same, will give a very glistening appearance, and in mycotic stomatitis, the saliva is mixed with mucus and pus which gives it an entirely different appearance. It may be difficult for stockmen to distinguish between the two diseases, and, therefore, I would urge upon all stockmen to notify L. C. Kigin, deputy state veterinarian, Lincoln, Neb., of any disease affecting the mouth of any animal or cattle at this time so that same may be investigated immediately.

Nebraska
WAYNE NEWSPAPER HONORED FOR WORK
 WAYNE, Neb., Nov. 5.—(Special.)—A questionnaire recently sent out by the department of journalism of the University of Oregon among the newspaper men of the United States resulted in the selection by these newspaper men of fifty-two country newspapers as "among the best," and the Wayne Herald is one of the fifty-two selected.

The 1913 newspaper directory shows that there are 17,265 weekly publications in the United States.
SLOAN'S NEIGHBORS COME TO CONGRATULATE HIM
 GENEVA, Neb., Nov. 5.—(Special.)—Eighteen or twenty automobile loads of people, with a band, came from Milligan last night and serenaded Congressman C. H. Sloan at his residence on the occasion of his re-election.

Miss Lillian Green (rep.) received 706 votes majority for county superintendent over Miss Wanda Burke (dem.). Sloan's majority in the county is 1,300.
Split Ticket in Jefferson.
 FAIRBURY, Neb., Nov. 5.—(Special.)—After a thorough canvass of the votes of Jefferson county it has been definitely settled as to the successful candidates at the Tuesday election. The democrats carried off three offices this year, including county superintendent and two commissioners. Henry Abrahamson succeeded R. C. Harris (rep.) as superintendent, and J. M. Koch and Homer S. Yeakle, commissioners. The republicans elected the following: D. B. Cropsey, treasurer; H. O. Neils, register of deeds; C. O. Marth, county clerk; S. W. Dodro, coroner. Louis J. Nutman was elected county judge to succeed C. C. Boyle, who has been county judge at Fairbury for the last nineteen years. County Attorney F. L. Rain (rep.) was re-elected by 111 votes.

The woman suffrage amendment was rejected in Jefferson county. The normal off-year election vote was cast in this county.
 While Governor Morehead carried Jefferson county by 111 votes, the entire republican state ticket pulled through by approximately 10 votes. Congressman C. H. Sloan carried the county over by 135 votes, his democratic rival, by 25 votes.

Notes from Beatrice.
 BEATRICE, Neb., Nov. 5.—(Special.)—The plant of the Luebber Baler company, located north of Beatrice, was sold Wednesday by Sheriff Schiek to satisfy judgments against the company. Robert Kyd of this city was the purchaser, the consideration being $4,500.
 Charles Hogate of Beatrice is married at Crookston, Ia., Wednesday to Miss Etta Harden of that city. They will return to this city Saturday to make their home.

George Krauter, a pioneer resident of the Clatonia vicinity, died Monday afternoon, aged 82 years. He is survived by his widow and eight children.
 Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, has sent word to his uncle, James Leary of this city, that he would pay him a visit of a few days when he came west to attend the annual meeting of the base ball magnates to be held in Omaha soon.

Orville Case, the young man who lost his life by drowning in an automobile accident at Yankton, S. D., early Tuesday morning, was formerly employed in H. L. Harper's drug store in this city and was well known here.

Aged Man Dies in His Chair.
 TABLE ROCK, Neb., Nov. 5.—(Special.)—James A. Covatt, who lives five miles north of here, all alone, was found dead in his chair about noon yesterday and the supposition is that he died just after he had finished supper the night before. He was sitting in his chair, his pipe, which had evidently fallen from his mouth, lying in his lap. His daughter, living one-half mile distant, came over to look after him and found him in the position indicated. An inquest was deemed unnecessary. He was 90 years old and leaves two children, John L. Covatt, who lives in town, and Mrs. David Morris, one-half mile distant.

Gosper Pioneer is Dead.
 OXFORD, Neb., Nov. 5.—(Special.)—Mrs. Sarah Gaines died at her home here Tuesday at the age of 74 years. She was the mother of four children, only one of whom, Miss Alice, survives her. She leaves also her aged husband and three sisters. Mrs. Gaines and her husband were pioneer residents of Gosper county, having settled there in 1873. Except for a residence of nine years in Georgia they lived in Gosper county until about a year ago, when they moved to Bertrand cemetery.

BLOOMINGTON WILL RETAIN COUNTY SEAT
 BLOOMINGTON, Neb., Nov. 5.—(Special.)—The county seat question in this county was voted upon Tuesday and decided in favor of Bloomington by a vote of 1,008 to 1,390, but as it had to secure a two-fifths vote, it is held by about 80 votes.
 This is the third election held during the last four years to settle the question. The first election was held four years ago, at which time Franklin was the highest point, Macon second and Bloomington the lowest. At the second election Macon was the highest, Bloomington second and Franklin the lowest, which deprived Franklin from further participation in the elections. At this election Bloomington had only to secure a two-fifths vote to hold the county seat, and the majority on this proposition was about 80.
