

CATTLE TROUBLE SPREADING

South Omaha Bars Stock from Whole of Eastern Iowa.

NEBRASKA FREE FROM DISEASE

Railroads and Stockmen Adopt Measures to Keep Foot and Mouth Epidemic on East Side of the River.

Thursday the South Omaha Live Stock exchange put the bars up, shutting out from the South Omaha market all cattle coming from points east of the Mississippi river and yesterday they moved the line about 150 miles west, barring all animals from points west of a line running north and south through Mason City on the Milwaukee and Corydon on the Rock Island.

At noon the federal government went the South Omaha people one better and pushed the line to the Missouri river, shutting out of the South Omaha market all Iowa cattle.

These drastic and far reaching orders come about by reason of a report that the mouth and foot disease has appeared in some of the herds of cattle in Iowa and an effort is to be made to stamp it out there before it has a chance to spread farther west.

No Fear for Nebraska.

Railroad live stock men connected with the lines operating in Omaha territory have no fears of the foot and mouth disease reaching the herds of Nebraska and Wyoming unless it happens to be brought west in cars that have been used for shipping infected cattle and cattle are again shipped in them. However, strenuous efforts are being made to prevent the spread of the disease in this way.

At the South Omaha stock yards and at the yard stations of all the Nebraska lines stock cars are being fumigated and disinfected as soon as they arrive. In no instance are shippers permitted to load cars until after cars have been thoroughly disinfected.

The live stock men of the railroads operating out into the state and to the west assert that at this time the herds are entirely free from the foot and mouth disease and that no symptoms of it have appeared in any localities.

How long the embargo placed upon Iowa will continue no person seems to know. The situation is under control of the government inspectors, working under the direction of the Agricultural department, and the assertion is made that there will be no relaxation in the vigilance until the disease is stamped out.

The barring of Iowa cattle is expected to be a serious blow to the South Omaha market. Thousands of feeders in that state are about ready to ship and a large portion of them are in Omaha territory. Now they are shut out, but no other market will be profited thereby, as they are barred out of Kansas City, St. Joseph and Chicago as well.

Sent to Jail for Selling Old Bees

Earney Altman, an Omaha young man, will serve ten days in the city jail at Lincoln, having been sentenced yesterday for selling old Omaha papers on the streets of Lincoln. The papers were old editions and were sold as extras. Altman was once before arrested for the same offense and told to get out of town and stay there. It appears that he has been in the habit of taking morning editions of one of the Omaha papers and bringing them to Lincoln and selling them in the evening as late editions. Wednesday night he was complained of because he was selling editions of the Bee marked 7:30, issued in the morning, representing that they were the 7:30 evening edition. In addition to this he was charged with short changing people who were in a hurry and could not stop to quarrel with him. He disputed this, but lacked down when confronted by The Bee representative in Lincoln, who had seen him short change a man, but was compelled to make it right.

Omaha police are helping the Dundee officers to locate the burglars, but both departments have thus far failed to produce any results.

TURKEYS TO BE EXPENSIVE

Price is Now Way Up as Compared with a Year Ago.

SUGAR IS MUCH CHEAPER

Butter and Eggs Are Up, as Are Also Chickens, Ducks and Geese—Southern Vegetables Are on the Market.

Turkeys for Thanksgiving dinners are going to be high this year, so high that in all probability the average American family will be content to repeat on common chicken. Today turkeys are selling for 20 cents a pound, 5 cents higher than the price at this time last year. It is expected that the price may drop to 2 cents by Thanksgiving, but it certainly will go no lower.

Ducks and geese are also high. Ducks are selling at 22 cents and geese 21, while last year they sold at 20 and 19 cents, respectively. Chickens are going up. The price is now 15 cents, and the commission men are holding for the higher prices bound to come for Thanksgiving.

Pork and beef have started to climb and will probably continue to do so for some time. The Buffalo, Pittsburgh and Chicago stock yards were placed under quarantine by the government and as a result the demand on the South Omaha yards is very great. The quarantine will last nine days, and even then, if disease is discovered, it may be extended. The longer the quarantine lasts the higher the prices are expected to go in Omaha, according to Al King, manager of Hayden's grocery department.

Sugar is coming down. The price is now nineteen pounds for a dollar, and the first of the week, King expects, twenty for a dollar.

Flour is strong and has advanced 5 cents, from $1.25 to $1.30.

Butter and eggs are strong. Butter is now selling at 32 cents, but 31 cents may be expected the first of the week. Eggs have gone up 2 cents to 26 cents a dozen.

Southern vegetables are on the market in abundance—wax beans at 7 1/2 cents, carrots at 4 cents, beets at 5 cents, and at three for 10 cents and radishes at 5 cents a bunch are all plentiful in Omaha.

California tomatoes are selling at 7 1/2 cents and hot-house cucumbers at 10 cents.

EXCHANGE BUILDING LARGER

Grain Men Decide to Have More Extensive Structure Than Intended.

TO BE EIGHT STORIES HIGH

Will Cover Entire Lot on Nineteenth Street Side, with Hundred and Twenty Feet on Harney Street Front.

Revised plans of the Omaha Grain exchange building to be erected at Nineteenth and Harney streets are being worked out, and it has been decided to build the structure considerably larger than was at first proposed. On the Nineteenth street side the front of the building will be the full length of the lot, 144 feet. In width the building will be 130 feet on Harney. A height of eight stories has been decided upon, with the exchange room and exchange offices on the upper floor.

Owing to the near approach of winter it is not likely that work on the building will be commenced until next spring, though if there should be an open winter, it is probable that the foundation will be put in soon.
