

Bring Back Your Appetite

With a Little Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet, the Secret of Perfect Digestion.

You should see our farmers and their boys eating in the fields. On the farm five meals a day is the rule. No one ever has stomach trouble because meals are digested and people live normally.

In the city we lose our "pep" and indigestion, dyspepsia, stomach trouble, etc., make us look on five meals as an impossibility.

Farmer's Boy—Just think of brother Joe in the city. He can't eat. Why, a sandwich like this would kill him!

A majority of people have no idea of the blessings which an occasional use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets confer upon the stomach. They are unquestionably the most popular remedy known for the reason that dyspepsia is the national disease, and these wonderful little tablets have long since acquired national reputation as a thoroughly reliable and efficient cure for all forms of dyspepsia and indigestion.

No matter how great the excess of food taken into the stomach, one or two of these tablets will digest every particle of it. A package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets should always be in the house. Many a person has saved himself from a serious attack of acute indigestion by using them after heavy meals, such as are eaten at Christmas, New Year's, Thanksgiving and other holidays and festive seasons.

After attending banquets, late suppers, heavy fancy dinners, after-theater parties, etc., where one has dined sumptuously and luxuriantly, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets should invariably be used, as they digest the food perfectly and completely, and prevent all possibility of dyspepsia, which, without their use, is more than likely to ensue.

Go to your druggist today and buy a box. A small sample package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will be mailed free to any one who will address J. A. Stuart Co., 120 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

HARVEST HOME MEAL SERVED

Buckingham Treats Ak-Sar-Ben Governors to Surprise.

ALL SURROUNDINGS OF FARM Chief in Overall Serves Young Roast Pig from Plant on Two Barrels

Tabooed.

A "harvest dinner" of sausage and roast pig, served by a chef in overalls and jumper and by waitresses in gingham, and with all the settings of harvest time on the farm, was the novelty enjoyed by the governors of Ak-Sar-Ben as the guests of President Everett Buckingham at the South Omaha Live Stock exchange Monday evening.

The governors are famous for innovations in the way of parades and carnival attractions. But their occasional meetings and dinners heretofore have been quite "usual" in nature, and have been enjoyed in an atmosphere of fine linen, cut glass and beautiful flowers, with milk-fed squab and similar fancies as the items of repast.

Just to prove that corn-fed pig, the kind that made Nebraska famous, tastes mighty fine, even in an atmosphere of farm life, President Buckingham planned his novel dinner as a surprise to his associates. The stunt was the outgrowth of a threat he made last summer:

"When pork sausage is ripe, I'll show you something different from stuffed canary bouquets."

When the governors reached the Exchange dining rooms they found the place gay with Ak-Sar-Ben red, green and yellow bunting, and with good old Nebraska cornstalks, banded thick against the walls. A typical farm table, heavily laden with all the good "eats" of harvest time, was spread for them. In the center, crowning a pile of golden pumpkins, fine squashes and pretty colored lights, was a choice roast pig.

Farm sausage, fried eggs, German fried potatoes and hominy formed the first course of the dinner. While that was in progress the chef, in farm costume, carved the pig on an improvised table, made by laying a plank on two barrels. It was served with rich dressing and squab, with pumpkin pie and coffee for dessert, and all the time the liquid part of the dinner was poured from half gallon jugs. Instead of the glass or silver vessels that are usually employed for such purpose.

Instead of a Hungarian orchestra to furnish music for the repast, a choice and noisy collection of live ducks, geese and pigs whistled away the time with barnyard harmony, over in a corner of the big room.

After dinner was served by the gingham-clad farm lassies, the governors adjourned in autos to witness the performance at the Boyd theater, as guests of Louis C. Nash.

Men Must Plan Ahead in Order to Achieve Some Big Success

"Any city, county, state or individual, in order to amount to anything, must have a plan," said M. L. Barton, president of Smith college in his address at the Commercial club yesterday. "Have you ever seen the two types of people? One drifts and the other plans. These are two fundamental types. The race is fundamentally divided on this point. You have all seen the man it was an inspiration to meet.

"The man who had a purpose, who was going ahead, who was planning his work ahead, and who was mapping out his future and working toward it. When that man succeeds and you first hear of it you say, well I am not surprised. I always knew that man would get there."

Mr. Barton gave as an example the city of Athens of old, with the magnificent population of 50,000, a country village of today. He said it was because every individual of that village had a plan that the city became great in history. That plan and purpose was to make everything in the city beautiful, and it became the art center of the world.

Rome, he said, had the idea of organization and system and mastery, and it became master of the civilized world.

"The city of Omaha will never be a great city until you plan and dream dreams of what you want to be," he said. "Plan far ahead. Plan and dream dreams larger than you can realize, because then, and then only, will you attain to something worth while."

Howell Refuses to Turn Water Into Fifty Flush Tanks

City Commissioner Thomas McGovern has advised the city council that General Manager H. B. Howell of the Metropolitan Water district has refused to turn on the water for fifty flush tanks in new sewers and that poisonous gases are threatening parts of the city with contagion.

"Mr. Howell refuses to turn on the water unless the flush tanks are metered," said Mr. McGovern. "It is impracticable to meter them. And we have fitted the 500 flush tank in the city with new nozzles on Mr. Howell's recommendation so that not more than 50,000 gallons will pass through each tank in a month, although Mr. Howell is supposed to furnish 50,000 gallons a month."

The council will consider the complaint in committee of the whole meeting Monday.

Bishop McGovern Celebrates Requiem Mass for Mrs. Swift

A touching tribute to the life work of a pioneer woman by the son of pioneer parents marked the funeral services of Mrs. Thomas Swift, 2307 Webster street, at St. John's church, Tuesday morning. Rt. Rev. P. A. McGovern, bishop of Cheyenne, celebrated pontifical requiem mass as a personal tribute to the deceased. The parents of Bishop McGovern and Mrs. Swift and her husband, who died three years ago, were intimate friends in the early years of Omaha nearly thirty years ago, as well as throughout the later years.

They had struggled together, endured the hardships incident to the upbuilding of the city and reared families under conditions which developed the fine qualities of mind and heart wherewith pioneer history is ennobled. With heartfelt pathos the son of companion pioneers gave expression to the strength of friendship's ties wrought in the crucible of pioneer struggles.

Bishop McGovern said that the man who came here nearly sixty years ago, to cut their way through the wilderness and found homes, had to endure privations which tested their strength and endurance. Equal to them were the women who accompanied them and shared the hardships of the time. They were strong of will and sturdy of body, and their companionship and encouragement were an inspiration for their spouses. The deceased, whom he had known in his youth and later as her pastor, was a type of the best of pioneers. She reared a family of children rightly and well and

Comp Sues City for Property Damages

Charles E. Comp has sued the city of Omaha for $200. He alleges that he was damaged in that amount by the establishment of a high grade across property near Bedford avenue, which the city secured from him by condemnation suit and then proceeded to park. He still owns property adjoining the boulevard.

Sheriff So Fussed He Loses Marriage Certificate in Car

A man doesn't get married often, so when he does any slight embarrassment or confusion on his part can be easily accounted for. In any case, friends of Sheriff Felix McShane readily explain away his "fussed" condition yesterday when he arrived in Omaha unexpectedly with a bride accompanying him. He was so disconcerted by the new order of things that in the process of trying to get out of the automobile and up town unknown to friends he inadvertently dropped his marriage certificate in the Pullman car.

A telegram from Crown Point, Ind., had stated that the sheriff and Irma Conlin had been licensed to wed there Monday, so the marriage certificate was not a complete surprise. The certificate indicates that Justice of the Peace H. D. Nicholson of Crown Point performed the ceremony the day the license was issued.

Since arriving in Omaha on Burlington train No. 5 this morning, Mr. and Mrs. McShane have been fighting shy of their friends, for they know they have plenty of joking reproach due them for the secrecy they adopted in having the knot tied.

The presence of the newly-weds in Omaha might not yet be known if they had not accidentally dropped their marriage certificate in their state room, where the porter found it, and turned it in among the "lost and found" at the office of the Pullman company.

Mrs. McShane is already known to the sheriff's circle of friends, as she has made her home here for some time. She was a widow, with two children, in the care of her mother at Council Bluffs, and attending school there.
