COYOTES NARROWLY ESCAPE

South Dakota Barely Beats Creighton by 9 to 7 Score.

BLUE AND WHITE FORCE PLAY

Costly Fumbles Near Goal Line and Bad Generalship Prevent Locals Scoring When Touchdowns Were in Sight.

In a Turkey day battle which bristled with open and spectacular plays, the South Dakota Coyotes escaped by a fan's breadth with the annual battle with Creighton university on Creighton field yesterday afternoon. The climax of the big battle was a thriller, and the crowd of 5,000 people were screaming wildly for the local boys to win. With the score 9 to 7 against them, and with five seconds to play, Creighton lined up for the final scrimmage, with the Coyote posts thirty yards distant. Tamsien, the big line man who does the drop-kicking for the Blue and White, dropped back and prepared for a try at the distant posts. Before he was quite prepared, Burford sent the ball sailing back, and Tamsien in a desperate effort sent the ball hurtling toward the bar. To many in the stands it seemed to clear the bar, but it really flew a foot wide and the big game was over.

Score First Touchdown.

For the first time in history Creighton scored a touchdown on South Dakota. It came in the last quarter with about three minutes to play and was of the hair-raising variety. Creighton had battered the Coyotes in South Dakota territory for three quarters and could not score. Platz, the demon halfback on the Blue and White, standing on his own thirty-yard line, threw a long forward pass to Captain Bill Brennan on South Dakota's thirty-five-yard line. Although two Coyotes snatched Brennan, he escaped both and flew the remaining yards for a touchdown. Amidst a landslide of applause Tamsien booted a goal.

Creighton Forces Play.

The result of the game does not indicate the brand of ball displayed by the two teams. With the exception of the first quarter Creighton had the ball in Coyote territory most of the time, and on several occasions Ferguson of the visitors punted from behind his own goal line. Creighton lost the game because of poor generalship when near the Coyote goal and because of fumbling early in the game.

Both of the Coyotes' counters came in the first quarter. After two minutes of play Ferguson kicked, and both Platz and Carrig fumbled the ball and Potts of Dakota recovered. Vidal booted a drop from the twenty-yard line.

Following a fumble by Shannon, Willey recovered the ball and line plunges carried it near to Creighton's goal. On a fourth down Archart was offside and Creighton lost five yards with about a shot to Archart on the two-yard line. This latter scrimmage was promptly muffed the ball and a chance for a touchdown was lost. The quarter ended after Vidal had carried the ball on a crisis-cross, to Creighton's twenty-yard line.

The first quarter ended with the ball in Creighton's possession on the Coyotes' forty-yard line.

Fumble is Costly.

In the second quarter Creighton carried the ball near the Coyote goal. Carrig was tackled, threw the ball along the ground to Platz, who picked it up and shot it to Archart on the two-yard line. This latter scrimmage was promptly muffed the ball and a chance for a touchdown was lost. The quarter ended after Vidal had carried the ball on a crisis-cross, to Creighton's twenty-yard line.

Blue and White Seem Dazed.

Another touchdown was lost to Creighton when a forward pass from Platz to Brennan fell into Parliman's arms and the little Irishman was downed on his own one-yard line. On the following play Parliman blocked Ferguson's punt and the ball fell on South Dakota's ten-yard line. While Creighton men looked on a Coyote pounced on the ball.

Forward passes and line plunges by Wise and Shannon carried the ball to the Coyote three-yard line. With three yards to go on the final down, and with the grandstand screaming for a touchdown, a forward pass over the line failed.

Vidal tried a drop kick from the fifty and another from the forty-three yard mark, but both failed.

Early in the game Tamsien tried a drop from the thirty-three yard line, but missed.

Platz, as Usual, Stars.

For the Coyotes Vidal was the best ground gainer. Parliman played a pretty game at quarter. For Creighton the work Platz at half, Wise at full and Brennan's reception of forward passes featured.

Heralded as a squad of assassins who would sweep all before, the Lane men fought hard, but they were like pygmies trying to stop a giant.

CORNELL DEFEATS QUAKERS

Pennsylvania Loses, Twenty-Four to Twelve, on Home Grounds.

GIVEN BAD SCARE IN THIRD

Visitors Do Not Play with Smoothness that is Expected, Fumbles and Penalties Causing Loss of Ground.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 26.—Cornell defeated Pennsylvania in their annual game on Franklin Field here today, 24 to 12, in an interesting but loosely played contest. The Quakers gave the Ithacans a bad scare in the third period when, with the score 10 to 6 against them, they reversed the form they had shown and before Cornell could recover its equilibrium Pennsylvania had forged to the front, 12 to 10. The Quakers, however, did not hold the lead long, for Cornell again put its scoring machine in motion and when the period had ended the visitors again had the advantage, 17 to 12.

Cornell was looked upon as an easy winner and the setting of the lead to Pennsylvania and then back again to the Ithaca team threw a lot of life into the game and gave the supporters of each side a good chance to cheer.

Lack Expected Smoothness. Cornell did not play with the smoothness that was expected. Fumbles and penalties caused it loss of much ground. The visitors showed the power of being able to score, however, and barring the fumbles were seldom stopped in their progress.

Forward passes greatly aided in scoring two touchdowns. In fact the Quakers' overhead playing was as fine as has been seen here this season.

Barnett played a wonderful game for Cornell. He contributed 17 of Cornell's 24 points and stopped many of Pennsylvania's plays.

Kicks Easy Field Goal. In the first period Cornell worked the ball to Pennsylvania's thirteen-yard line, and here the hope team held. Barrett of Cornell then dropped back and kicked an easy field goal.

Phillips, who took Hill's place for Cornell, fumbled at the opening of the second period and lost the ball on Pennsylvania's eleven-yard mark. Pennsylvania failed to make any impression against Cornell's line and punted to Cornell's forty-yard line. The Ithacans resorted to straight hard line plunging and carried the ball to a touchdown by Barrett. Shuler kicked the goal.

For the remainder of the period the ball sea-sawed up and down the field. Features of the period were a forty-two yard pass, Shuler to Shelton, for a Cornell touchdown that was not allowed because of an illegal forward pass, and a try at a field goal by Barrett, which was blocked. In this period also Cornell was penalized thirty-five yards, half the distance to its goal line for illegal substitution.

Scores Two Touchdowns. Pennsylvania showed real football ability in the third period, scoring two touchdowns. Getting the ball on their own forty-yard line on a punt, the Quakers carried it on line plunges and end plays fifteen yards from the Cornell goal. Here Avery, playing for Tucker, shot a forward pass to Merrill, who tumbled across the goal for a touchdown. Russell failed to goal. Forward passes gave Pennsylvania its second touchdown.

On the Cornell eleven yard Avery made a perfect pass to Koons, who caught the ball as he dashed over the goal line and put Pennsylvania in the lead. Avery failed at goal. A few minutes later Cornell again went in front, taking a punt on its own forty-five-yard line. Barrett ran through the Pennsylvania line for fifty-five yards and a touchdown. Score: Cornell 17, Pennsylvania, 12.

Forward Passes Help. Brilliant forward passes helped Pennsylvania to carry the ball in the last period from its own thirty-yard line to Cornell's twenty-eight-yard mark, when it was lost. A thirty-five-yard run by Collins helped Cornell to advance the ball to Pennsylvania's thirty-eight-yard line. The Ithacans smashed the ball to the ten-yard mark, where Pennsylvania held. Cornell then lost the ball on an unsuccessful try at a field goal by Barrett. Pennsylvania worked the ball to its own forty-five-yard line, where it lost it on downs, then Cornell plugged Pennsylvania's line again for another touchdown. Phillip carried it over and Barrett kicked goal. Final score: Cornell 24, Pennsylvania, 12.

Whole Team Plays Well. The Omaha team deserved unbounded credit for its work. The line held on the defense and blocked on the offense. Wilson, Peterson, Board, Reese, Phillips, Withey, all played the football of their respective careers and in the backfield Nichols, Neville, Berry, Johnson and Morearty stood equally as bright.

Tommie Mills should also come in for his share of the glory. The effects of his careful coaching could manifestly be seen in the splendid team work and co-operation displayed by his men. It was a well-improved team that played Lane and Coach Tommie is the man who did the work.

The lineup: OMAHA: Wilson, Peterson, Board, Reese, Phillips, Withey, Nichols, Neville, Berry, Johnson, Morearty. LANE TECH: Board, Peterson, Board, Reese, Phillips, Withey, Nichols, Neville, Berry, Johnson, Morearty.

Wilson kicked goal. Score: Omaha, 16; Lane Tech, 2.

Play Last Game for Omaha. Six men played their last game for Omaha. Lutes, Johnson, Berry, Board, Withey and Wilson will graduate in the spring. All played wonderful football and deserve unlimited praise.

Knop was the brightest satellite on the visiting squad. Playing right end on offense, the husky Chicago man played on the defense either tackle, either guard or center as he saw fit, and time and again he broke through the Omaha line and nailed runners for big losses.
