

Busy Bees :- Their Own Page

LITTLE boys and girls are apt to be much the same, whether their parents are rich and dwell in beautiful places or whether they live in humbler circumstances. Especially when they are very young is there little difference. Little John Jacob Astor VI, son of the late Colonel John Jacob Astor, one of the victims of the Titanic disaster, is shown in this picture as he is toddling about the paths of Central park on one of his daily outings.

Just like all other mothers, young Mrs. Astor believes that fresh air is the best preventive against all ills, and arranges it so that her little son spends the greater part of his time out of doors, regardless of the condition of the weather. By his father's will, a trust fund of $3,000,000 was created for little John Jacob VI, but even that would not be sufficient to make him happy unless he is well and healthy, like all our little Busy Bees.

The editor has received an article on "The Eskimos" from Palmer, Neb. No name appeared on the letter or envelope, but it will be held until the Busy Bee who wrote it corrects the mistake.

This week, first prize was awarded to Inez Roberts of the Blue Side; second prize, to Eunice Nelson of the Red Side, and honorable mention to Howard Mattox of the Blue Side.

Little Stories by Little Folk

(First Prize.)

Turkey and Pumpkin.

By Inez Roberts, Aged 12, 401 Charles Street, Omaha, Blue Side.
Mr. Farmer was saying to his wife, "I must fatten up those turkeys so we will have a nice, fat one for Thanksgiving." The chickens and turkeys overheard what the farmer said, so the chickens said they would keep out of the way of Mr. Farmer so one of them would not be made into a chicken pie.

But the turkeys were proud and they wanted to be useful, so one turkey, who was very proud, ate as much as he could get hold of so he would be the one to get killed and eaten on Thanksgiving. He told Miss Pumpkin about it, and she said, "Maybe I will be made into a pumpkin pie. I heard that one of us will be a pumpkin pie and I do hope it is me because I do so want to be useful."
"Well, goodbye, Miss Pumpkin; I am going to see Mr. Sharpedge (meaning the axe) and ask him if he knows who is going to be the chosen one. How I hope it is me."

So Mr. Turkey went to where Mr. Sharpedge lived, and Mr. Turkey told him all about it. And, sure enough, on Thanksgiving Mr. Sharpedge cut off Mr. Turkey's head and he was roasted in the oven.

Miss Pumpkin was made into a pumpkin pie.

Mr. and Mrs. Farmer sent an invitation over to the Browns, who were very poor and would only have one slice of bread apiece. The Browns accepted the invitation. They were very busy getting ready Thanksgiving day. They soon came. The dinner was ready and they sat down at the table. First they gave thanks to God. And you never saw such happy faces as those Browns had.

They all enjoyed Mr. Turkey and Miss Pumpkin pie.
After dinner the children sat down and told Thanksgiving stories and the grown folks talked. The happiest people there were Mr. and Mrs. Farmer, who had made some one else happy.

(Second Prize.)

My Vacation Trip.

By Eunice Nelson, 1312 North Twenty-fifth Street, Omaha, Red Side.
Last year, papa, mamma and I went to Excelsior Springs, Mo., on a vacation. Excelsior Springs has the best water I ever drank.

One morning when we were eating breakfast a girl about my age came up to mamma and asked her if I could play with her and her sister. Mamma said, "Yes," so we played all the time I was there.

Every morning before breakfast we got up and had a good drink of sulphur saline.

On the Thursday before we started home, as I was running across the street to dinner a bicycle ran into me.

I was all right that afternoon, but I had a bandage around my arm. I could take a walk to the spring, anyway.
The girls I had played with were so nice that she gave me a whip and the other gave me a lamp that had candy. I wanted to come home because I had a playmate here in Omaha I wanted to see. We had such a good time that I hope we can go again.

(Honorable Mention.)

Santa is Coming.

By Howard F. Mattox, Aged 9 years, 524 South Fortieth Street, South Omaha, Blue Side.

I love the Christmas time.
When Santa comes, he peeps around. When lazy boys are not asleep he looks very sad indeed, for he loves good boys and girls who are fast asleep.
The stockings he fills with then says good-bye to all the good children fast asleep.

Heir to the Astor Millions

that morning and the snow was still falling thick and fast, and nothing could be seen around them. But in the other part of the world where people were with their friends they knew nothing about this little girl who was left so lonesome. But toward morning the bright sun came out and the mountains and pines alone as if they were covered with silver. This made the little girl happy again.

Priscilla was won by Alice Roberts, 4001 Charles St., who sent us 1089 pictures. She is 8 years and attends Franklin School.

The second doll was won by Marie Conrad, 2527 Decatur, with 875 pictures. She is 5 years old and attends Franklin School Kindergarten.

Mary King, 700 N. 41st St., was third with 752 pictures. She is 7 years old and attends Saunders School, 4th Grade.

The little girls worked so hard this week that we added two extra dolls; the 4th one for Edith Sanberg, 2912 Charles, who had 637 pictures and the 5th doll to Lucile Anderson, 1604 N. 34th St., who had 631 pictures.

3 MORE DOLLS For Our Busy Little Bees

EDITH, MERLE and CATHLENE

Edith is tall and stately and has a charming disposition, so kind and gentle and sweet; that's the way she looks, anyway, and you will think the same when you look into those deep brown eyes of hers. Of course, only one little girl can win Edith, so we are giving Merle and Cathlene as second and third prizes. They are not quite so big and pretty as Edith, but you will be surprised when you see how nice they really are.

These dolls will be given free to the little girls, under 12 years of age, that bring or mail us the largest number of doll's pictures cut out of the Daily and Sunday Bee before 4 p. m., Saturday, December 12.

Edith's picture will be in The Bee every day this week. Cut them all out and ask your friends to save the pictures in their paper for you too. See how many pictures of Edith you can get, and be sure to turn them in to The Bee office before 4 p. m., Saturday, December 12.

If you don't win one of these Dollies perhaps you can get one next week. Only one doll will be given to any one person.

You can see Edith at the D. F. Corte Furniture Co., 24th and Farnam

SIXTH ANNUAL BAZAAR

Christmas Fair

OF THE CHURCHES

December 7th to 19th

THE handwork of hundreds of Omaha's prominent church workers will be displayed. These will be offered for sale over the counters, temporarily constructed around the fountain and in the court of The Bee building, during the week days, from morning until night. The beautiful linen pieces, useful and ornamental embroidery work, serviceable wearing apparel, art goods and bric-a-brac, as well as delicious pies, cakes, doughnuts, candies and other eatables, have not only been made by these faithful women but they will see that every stitch and piece is sold by themselves.

These church fairs are conducted solely for the purpose of raising money to defray the expenses of the different churches; no one individual derives any recompense for their labor, except the satisfaction that what they do is freely given to further promote the glorious and noble work of the most Holy institution, the Church. The use of the building for the fairs is donated by the management of the The Bee and all publicity through the columns of this paper is given free. The churches arrange the decorations so as to make the bazaar as attractive and comfortable as possible for the public to lend their patronage.

You are all invited to come. More beautiful and useful Christmas gifts cannot be bought elsewhere and the prices asked are most reasonable.
