

The Patrol of the Sun-dance Trail
By Ralph Connor

The dash and excitement of a struggle between settlers and Indians, increasing in intensity up to the very last page—a background of Canadian wilderness, mountain and canyon and frontier town—two tender love stories, one of the infinite trust of happy marriage, the other of youth's first romance.

The Prince of Graustark
By George Barr McCutcheon

"The Prince of Graustark" is exciting, has a delightful love story, ends with a wonderful surprise, is clean throughout. A story about a Prince of Graustark who is the son of Princess Yette and her American husband. Also there is a very shrewd, forceful, powerful American multi-millionaire with a brilliant and lovely daughter.

The Money Makers
By Charles Klein and Arthur Hornblow

James Rodman, with his unprincipled business associates, unlawfully accumulates millions. He awakens to a sense of justice suddenly, and makes restitution to the defrauded stockholders. His neglected and estranged wife now loves him and loyally upholds him in the attack made upon him by his children and business partners.

Love Insurance
By Earl Derr Biggers

Life Insurance, Fire Insurance, Accident Insurance, they're all so old as the hills and so substantial that Love Insurance—there's a possibility that time hasn't tarnished. Insuring yourself against the change of heart of your heart's desire—there's a chance for one of us in that. Its risks include everything from parental interference to a Greek whirl.

The Salamander
By Owen Johnson

A story of New York life, daring to a degree, a manifestation of an age of unrest, of disturbed faith, of changing ideals. A social prophecy and a warning.

THE BEST BOOKS OF THE YEAR

SUITABLE for CHRISTMAS GIVING and YOUR OWN READING

Perch of the Devil
By Gertrude Atherton

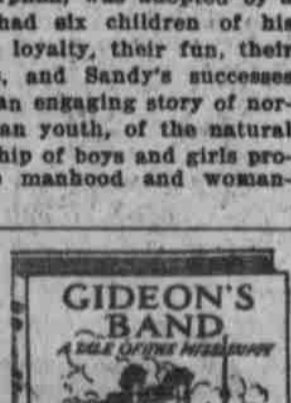

An American copper-made fortune—a crude American girl grows into a personage—a new figure in American fiction—the Ida Compton of this book. A girl who begins crudely in Montana and grows into a woman of fire and character—still in Montana, with a dash of Europe between.

Looking After Sandy
By Margaret Turnbull

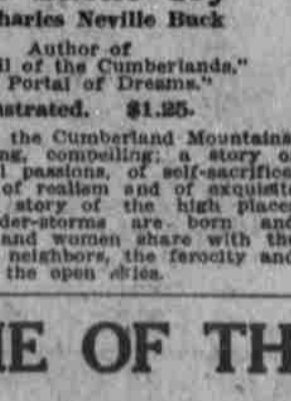

Little red-haired Sandy, aged 11 years, an orphan, was adopted by a man who had six children of his own. Their loyalty, their fun, their love affairs, and Sandy's successes are told in an engaging story of normal American youth, of the natural companionship of boys and girls prolonged into manhood and womanhood.

Gideon's Band
By George W. Cable

A story of the Cumberland Mountains, vital, gripping, compelling; a story of fierce primal passions, of self-sacrifice, of heroism, of realism and of exquisite romance. A story of the high places where thunder-storms are born and where men and women share with the eagles, their neighbors, the ferocity and intensity of the open skies.

The Battle Cry
By Charles Neville Buck

A story of the Cumberland Mountains, vital, gripping, compelling; a story of fierce primal passions, of self-sacrifice, of heroism, of realism and of exquisite romance. A story of the high places where thunder-storms are born and where men and women share with the eagles, their neighbors, the ferocity and intensity of the open skies.

Butterfly Babies' Book, $1.00.
Grandad Coco Nut's Party, 65c.
Watermelon Pete, 65c.
All by ELIZABETH GORDON.

This page is virtually a guide to the best fiction and juvenile books of the year, having been selected from the lists of the various publishers of the country—big and little—and contains those books that will be most widely read, talked about, and given for Christmas. You can safely make your selections from it either for Christmas gifts or your own reading.

Brandeis Stores

Martha and Cupid
By Julie M. Lippmann

The latest of the "Martha" books. In this one she marries, and the reader has the rich opportunity of looking at family life through those shrewd, wise, kindly eyes that see so much—and yet see so little of gloom. There is a story of a family Christmas that will make anyone glad he's alive.

The Eyes of the World
By Harold Bell Wright

A real love story with big plot, and much action; deep mystery and great love; sweet sentiment and strong passions. A delightfully wholesome romance among orange groves and mountains of Southern California. The real charm of the story lies in its style, color, conception and fancies, together with its wonderful nature descriptions.

Innocent
Her Fancy and His Fact
By Marie Corelli

Here is an exquisite girl, so reared in an ancient manor-house that she keeps unspooled the fancies and goodness of a simpler era. When she comes in contact with the turmoil of today, when the roaring city threatens her passionate sweetness of soul, there ensues real drama. The story of a woman's heart and life and fight.

The Mutiny of the Elsinore
By Jack London

A vigorous narrative of a voyage from New York around Cape Horn in a large sailing vessel, with the real wildness and savor of the sea in it. In addition to the adventure element, there is a thread of romance involving a wealthy, tired young man, who takes the trip on the Elsinore, and the Captain's daughter.

The World Set Free
By H. G. Wells

Read it, and see London, Paris, Berlin, mere flaming ruins—Holland drowned by the cutting of her dykes—the clouds full of battling aeroplanes, Europe in bill and valley a vast shambles. And then! the wiping out of all frontiers and dynasties, the end of all crowns the thrones, and the world one nation forever.

The Auction Block
By Rex Beach

The mercenary family of a young girl lived upon her success as a professional stage beauty. They laid schemes to force her to marry money. Though she saw through their plans, she was content to bear the burden of their avarice. She married a rich man with results upsetting to her family and professional companions.

Delia Blanchflower
By Mrs. Humphrey Ward

In this book Mrs. Ward returns to the province of her former success—English society romance. It is a fascinating story of present day life. A lovelier, more capricious and willful heroine than Delia Blanchflower one rarely meets. It is of special interest to American readers, because we have in our own country very similar types and problems.

New Men for Old
By Howard Vincent O'Brien

Every business man, every employer of labor must read this book. A young fellow, son of a wealthy Chicagoan, passes his time in Paris in luxurious idleness. He is called home at his father's death. Instead of receiving a fortune he finds himself penniless at the opening of the book, which tells the rest of the story.

The Long Chance
By Peter B. Kyne

A young fellow, son of a wealthy desert, with the tang of the West in it. The scene is a typical California desert town with its sun-baked, brick-red string of idle box cars, to the silver dollar restaurant. The hospitable Western folk will warm your hearts with their friendship.

Diane the Green Van
By Leona Dalrymple

An outdoor love story, with an atmosphere of the worth-while things of life; with a surprising plot, some mighty likable characters, bright and original and full of action. It has imagination, invention, humor, freshness and spontaneity.
