Girl Twenty Years Old Hoboes It Into Omaha Dressed as Man.

COMES FROM A GOOD FAMILY

Started the Life with a Young Fellow and Quit Fine Home to Accompany Him-Later Leads Wandering Life Alone.

A young woman tramp, who refuses to reveal her identity, has aroused considerable curiosity at police headquarters. The name she gave when arrested, Mable Pathe, she declares to be fictitious. For the last year she has been beating her way about the country as a tramp dressed in man's clothing When arrested she was in woman's attire. A patrolman was approaching Fifteenth and Douglas streets when he saw the young woman run as though trying to get away from him. He chased her half a block and asked her why she ran. She replied she wanted to catch a car.

The patrolman took her to the station. her hair was short, and when asked the reason she told of her hobo experience. "I have been a boy a year," she said "I reached Omaha yesterday, Out in the suburbs I borrowed a skirt and shirt waist from a woman and discarded my boy's clothing. I am 20 years old and come of a good family in the east, I was educated in a convent and after graduating I taught English to Italians. "A year ago I met a young man who was going to rough it as a hobo and I decided to go with him, I didn't have the strength to ride the rods, but I have often ridden on the tops of freight cars and in box cars. "I have met many famous hoboes, including A No. 1 and Railroad Jack, I was never insulted by a hobo and would rather trust myself with them than with some young society men."

The young woman said she separated from her male companion several months ago and has been "going it alone" since. She left the hobo with whom she was traveling at Grand Island.

Missouri Pacific to Seek Postponement of Dodge Viaduct are objecting to building the Dodge street viaduct because they say the road cannot afford the expense this year, will meet with city commissioners Monday to disguas the matter.

The Missouri Pacific is one of the roads ordered to build the Locust street viaduct. Missouri Pacific officials and city commissioners have already had some correspondence regarding the Dodge street viaduct, ordered under a city ordinance upheld by the supreme court. The road maintains that Dodge street business men would prefer to have clevated tracks, which if they cannot be secured from the streets running under, rather than a vialess than a viaduct.

The Dodge street viaduct would cost the neighborhood of $100,000
