

CORNELL MUSICAL CLUBS TOMORROW

Famous College Glee and Mandolin Clubs Will Entertain at the American Theater.

CONCERT PROGRAM ANNOUNCED

Will Include Assembled Numbers by Both Clubs and Several Numbers by Individuals and Also by Special Groups.

The Cornell Musical clubs, including a glee club and mandolin club of a total of sixty members, has announced the program which will be followed in the concert to be given at the American theater in this city Monday evening. In addition to the regular numbers to be rendered by the glee and mandolin clubs, special numbers by individuals and by groups of individuals will be included.

Messrs. Hicks and Whitney of the glee club will sing solo, Messrs. Snively, Barham, Doyle and Perry, a minstrel quartet, will sing a dainty melody and Messrs. Adair and Doyle, with Doyle in the female impersonation, will demonstrate the science of the modern tango and its affiliations.

Sing in Perfect Harmony.

Prof. Hollis E. Dann, head of the musical department at Cornell, is director of the musical clubs and has been carefully training his proteges all fall. It is said that the glee and mandolin clubs sing with perfect harmony and in perfect pitch and that the naive ability of the singers has been enhanced by the careful training that the numbers are rendered in a manner which would be complimentary to professionals.

The Cornell clubs for twenty-five years have been rated as among the leading college musical clubs. They have been recognized by critics as the perfect blending of magnificent harmony and exquisite humor. The Cornell musical clubs are almost as famous Cornell institutions as the Cornell crews, which have been holders of first ranking for many years.

Omaha Boys Members.

Omaha should find particular interest in the fact that four Omaha boys are members of the club. Three Omaha lads, J. H. Millard, H. E. Millard and H. H. Davis, are members of the mandolin club and J. J. Hankin, Jr., is a second tenor in the glee club. These lads are all products of the Omaha High school.

The Cornell clubs will arrive in Omaha Monday morning from Denver, where they gave a concert last night. They will be met at the depot by members of the Omaha Cornell alumni. At noon they will be honored guests at a luncheon at the University club and in the afternoon a reception and tea will be held in their honor at the club.

Ball to Follow Concert.

Following the concert Monday evening at the American theater, a ball will be held at the Hotel Roma. Following the ball, the musicians will depart for Kansas City on their special of four cars.

Many box parties and line parties will be given Monday night. Reservations have been coming in thick and fast and it is a positive fact that the entire house will be sold out for the event.

Program is Short.

The program which follows, while not long, is an interesting one and will, of course, be supplemented by encores, if the Cornell boys are as generous in this as they have been in the past.

Dan Cupid Working Overtime at the Dry Cleaning Plant

Al Dreisher says he is running no matrimonial bureau, although it begins to look that way. Thursday saw the culmination of the twenty-ninth romance since the dry cleaning establishment was established, and most of them have been girls working on the telephone switchboard. Miss Jessie Cooper was the last, and she married a railroad man. Dreisher says it is getting to be a standing joke, and that he now has thirty assistants or relief operators for his switchboard, as all are more than anxious to fill that job, if only for a short time, for Cupid acts quickly at the dry cleaning plant. It has been customary for the employees to buy a tray of silver, and now one of the girls suggests to Mr. Dreisher that a ways and means committee be appointed to handle the funds, taking a small amount from the salary of each employee each week. Dreisher says he has no trouble getting his telephone girls to work overtime.

EATON IS ALL READY TO PUT YOU INTO BUSINESS

C. M. Eaton, business broker, 1106 Woodmen of the World building, is a new name in the list of Business Chances men who believe that for every person who wants to get out of business there is someone who wants to get in.

Getting in and out will only be one part of his business. Having had fourteen years' experience in a most successful corporation, and knowing the rocks that mark the destruction of many partnerships and corporations, he is prepared to incorporate, draw up all articles of incorporation, bylaws, and have them legally passed upon, and point out what ought to be done by every stockholder and director to perpetuate their business. Being so well known to so many men of financial means, he already has several parties who have placed at his disposal upward of $50,000 for investment purposes.

FINED FOR TOO STRENUOUS CHRISTMAS CELEBRATION

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Overturn, 1088 Leavenworth, celebrated Christmas by breaking every window in the house, kicking over the stove and marring considerable furniture. Mr. Overturn was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail, while his wife was allowed to depart.

MRS. BIXBY LOSSES BABY; KISSES TEST

Custody of Janalene Test, Seven Months Old, Belong to Father, Says Judge.

PARENTS' RIGHTS ARE UPHELD

Lieutenant Fred C. Test Invented to Home of Parents-in-Law to Allow Baby to Become Familiar with Father.

Jo Janalene Test, 7 months old, at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon ceased to be a cause of strife between her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Bixby, and her father, Lieutenant Fred C. Test, of the United States army, stationed at Santa Fe for service on the Mexican border.

At that hour District Judge Sears signed an order vesting in her father all rights to the custody and control of the baby. The decision was in accord with Nebraska statutes, which are far-reaching.

In the safeguarding of a parent's rights to his children.

Forgives Loss of Baby.

As they were leaving the courtroom shortly afterward, following a reconciliation and a partial compromise of conflicting opinions, Mrs. Bixby fondly kissed Lieutenant Test, who was the husband of her dead daughter, formerly Miss Josephine Bixby of this city, and declared she had no bitterness of feeling against him.

Only a short time previously J. A. C. Kennedy, attorney for Mr. and Mrs. Bixby, criticized Lieutenant Test in scathing terms for desiring to remove the baby at this time to his home in Santa Fe. Attorney Blackburn, representing Lieutenant Test, declared his client did not consider those criticisms to be the personal views of the Bixby family.

Father Goes to See Baby.

Mrs. Bixby's desire that Lieutenant Test, who had been separated from the baby for six months, allow the infant to become familiar with him before starting on the long journey south was acceded to by him. He was invited to the Bixby home for this purpose.

That the trip to Santa Fe, round which point the chief controversy arose, will be made probably within a week was understood by friends of Lieutenant Test.

Physicians' advice will be sought in the matter, it was said.

At Santa Fe the baby's grandmother, Lieutenant Test's mother, is awaiting her. Although the legal fight for the baby's custody was waged unceasingly all day and at times became acrimonious, Lieutenant Test, who had made his parents-in-law defendants in a habeas corpus suit, at all times expressed high regard for them, and a like spirit toward him was shown by them. It was shown that he had paid bills rendered to him for the baby's expenses. Mr. and Mrs. Bixby had the care of the baby since its birth.

Court Learns Case of Infants.

District Judge Sears, himself the father of a family of children, was given a thorough course of instruction concerning the care of a modern young baby at the morning hearing of the suit.

Whether the milk from a single cow or from a herd is better for a baby; how the milk might be heated on a train; how many diapers would be required for a trip lasting two days and two nights, and how they might be washed on the train, were questions gravely presented by attorneys for consideration at Judge Sears' court.

Other issues concerned the best artificial food for infants; whether it is preferable to wean a baby at 6 months or 10 months, and whether a cold would make a long trip hazardous for the child.

Physicians called by the defense to testify that a trip to Santa Fe, N. M., would be dangerous to the infant, declared that a certain element of chance would be involved in such an undertaking.

Requires Several Attendants.

The routine of the baby's care was described by Miss Helene Bixby, its aunt, and Mrs. Bixby, its grandmother. It was asserted that on account of the child's delicate condition her care was more than one person could accomplish. It frequently kept two or three persons busy, said Miss Bixby.

Members of the Bixby family testified that Lieutenant Test, soon after the birth of the baby and death of the mother, told Mrs. Bixby to raise the child as she had the departed mother.

Lieutenant Test relied on a supreme court decision recognizing the paramount right of a parent to his child over other claimants.

Early in the day Judge Sears decided one point—that milk for a baby might be heated on a train by an alcohol lamp in the absence of better means.
