Board of Trade to Be Down Within the Next Three Weeks

Within three and one-half weeks the old Board of Trade building at Sixteenth and Farnam streets will likely be gone. This is the time that the J. C. Maris Wrecking company now calculates to consume in tearing down the remainder of the building. Work has been progressing steadily for something over a week.

The Board of Trade building company is getting some rough sketches made of a proposed new building for the site, but has not definitely arranged its architectural plans. "It will take a lot of time," said E. M. Morsman, director of the Building company. "There is really nothing new in the movement."

Meantime the suit is pending in district court in which certain of the former tenants of the old building are seeking to get judgment for alleged wrongful eviction after the fire that gutted the building something over a month ago. Some of the tenants held that the building was still habitable after the fire and that their leases should have been good.

The salvage of the old building is being hauled to a large vacant tract of ground at Nineteenth and Leavenworth, where the brick and lumber are being carefully piled to be disposed of later.

River Rises Over Night, but a Flood Stage is Far Away

A rise of eight-tenths of a foot in less than twenty-four hours occurred in the Missouri river at Omaha Tuesday and Wednesday. Residents along the river bottoms experienced renewed fears of a possible flood here this spring, but those who inquired at the weather bureau were speedily reassured.

"Although the rise over night puts the river gauge at a height of 3.3 feet above the lowest recorded level of eighteen feet depth in the channel, the stage of the river now is really normal for this time of year," said Forecaster L. A. Welch. "Exactly one year ago the river gauge read seven feet and then rose two and three-tenths feet in twenty-four hours, making the reading just what it is now, and that was really below the average for the latter part of March."

"The fact that the heavy snows are melting away so nicely here and south of Omaha, leads me to hope that no sign of flood will be experienced this year. The only danger is from a sudden thaw north of here, which would make conditions bad. The rivers here now is four feet and a half feet below the highest water record for Omaha, which occurred during the floods of April, 1912."

OPIUM SMUGGLED INTO COUNTY JAIL

Supply is Located Which Was Brought In Planted in Heels of Some Shoes.

FEDERAL OFFICERS ARE BUSY

An attempt to smuggle opium into the county jail in a pair of old shoes, the second effort of the kind within a few days discovered by Jailer Henry Schroeder, has turned the attention of Omaha authorities to an alleged conspiracy to import and sell opium in Omaha, fostered, it is said, by reason of the fact that it is more easily handled for illicit purposes than other drugs.

Inside the lining and under the heels of two pairs of shoes brought to the county jail by a messenger boy to the jail, Walter Gumm, a negro, held for the federal authorities on a white slave charge, Jailer Schroeder found the opium. It resembled tiny particles of coal, having been prepared by mixing the residue of opium previously smoked with the fresh drug. This product is said to be used for both chewing and smoking.

Carried by Messenger.—Two pairs of old shoes were brought to the jail by Glenn Gibson, a messenger boy, who said they had been entrusted to him by negroes who directed him to take them to the jail.

Federal authorities were notified of the discovery by Jailer Schroeder and have started an investigation in Omaha along the same line as one already under way in Lincoln, which has resulted in arrests of several negroes there. They are illegally having opium in their possession. The opium traffic, said to have been conducted on a considerable scale in Lincoln by negroes, is believed by the local authorities to explain the exodus of Omaha "dope fiends" to Lincoln following their recent release from the county jail here.

Smuggled Across Border.—Federal agents declared a number of negroes and Chinamen in Omaha are known to have dealt in opium. It is brought from Minneapolis and St. Paul, after having been smuggled across the Canadian border, they said. It is known that large quantities of it are made in India and Persia and the prohibition of its sale in China has reduced its price.

The use of opium, which is chewed or smoked, leaves no evidence. It is handled in the form of a gum and is sold on small cards. No bottles or containers are required to hold it and it is not injected into the body to leave a tell-tale scar. These facts are said partially to explain the problem of how dope fiends are relieving their sufferings for drugs since the new federal law became effective. It is also known, however, that considerable amounts of other drugs are still being "peddled."

Fire Smoulders at Court House During Night, but is Put Out

John Glasman, assistant superintendent of the building at the court house, discovered a fire blazing in the northeast corner of the office of the clerk of the district court. He turned in an alarm and the blaze was extinguished with chemicals after damage to the extent of $50 had resulted.

Someone in the office had left an umbrella standing under the counter and before leaving Tuesday night someone evidently threw a lighted cigar or cigarette in the umbrella, which caught fire and smouldered all night, bursting into flames about 6 o'clock this morning.

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys

Eat less meat if you feel Backache or Bladder troubles you—Salts is fine for Kidneys.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular caters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

Simple Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arven from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring, use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and there is no more itching, no more "combed" scalp, and entirely destroyed every single scale and fibre of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be healthy, lustre, clean, shiny and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.—Advertisement.

ENLISTING NAVAL RESERVES

Local Recruiting Officers Ordered to Stop Enlistments Except in Case of Reserves.

EX-SERVICE MEN SOLICITED

Receipt of official information on the newly authorized reserve has resulted in the local navy recruiting officers preparing to give special attention to that branch of the service. The regular navy is recruited almost to its full quota, according to word received by Lieutenant Thomas M. Tipton from the Navy department at Washington.

Upon receipt of telegraphic notice he has been ordered to stop all further enlistment of applicants who have never served before, and to accept only ex-service men, who will either enter the navy under special conditions of preference laid down by the new law, or else will remain in civil life and devote such time as the law requires to brief quarterly service as members of the naval reserve.

Purposes of the reserve act, according to word from Washington, are to induce present sailors to remain in the navy and ex-service men to return to it, as well as to get a large and efficient naval reserve built up with ex-service men who desire to continue their present civil pursuits, but will take the required obligation and put in the small amount of time required yearly in practice and training.

Fully 5,000 ex-service men are said to be eligible to join the reserve, and many of them are expected to go back into the regular service under the advantageous terms laid down by the new law. All vacancies will probably be filled from such ex-service men, it is thought.

Circular letters are being mailed to all former sailors of Uncle Sam, whose addresses are known. All navy recruiting officers are also explaining the new reserve act to all ex-service men they come in touch with.

The Omaha Naval club, made up of ex-sailors, has about 200 members, and a number of them may join the reserve, it is thought. They can continue their present work under the rules, if they wish, provided that they give a small amount of time each year to naval reserve practice and training during vacations.

Women Have Better Opportunities Here

Miss Ida Wilschire of Sidney, Australia, is at the Henshaw. She is the advance agent of Mme. Labadie, who will give an interpretation of the new play, "Change," at the Young Women's Christian association Friday evening. Miss Wilschire has had an interesting career.

"I came on a visit to my sister in Vancouver," she said. "There I met what I would never have met in Australia, namely, opportunity. An editor put me on newspaper work on trial. In Australia I would have had to work years to get a chance. Part of my work was to interview actresses. So I met Mme. Labadie, and from that I became her associate in this work."

Miss Wilschire's brother is with the English forces in France.

French Buyers Are Here in Search of Cavalry Horses

French horse buyers are again at the South Omaha market, taking large numbers of horses for shipment to the war zone of Europe. When they first began buying last fall they took only cavalry horses, but now they are turning their attention to animals for the artillery arm of the service.

For the artillery the French buyers are requiring heavier horses, but they are not so particular in making their selection as when buying cavalry mounts. For cavalry horses, $100.00 holds. For artillery, $125.00 is the price paid.

From South Omaha Tuesday night four cars of war horses were sent by the American express, going over the Rock Island, destined for some coast town in New Jersey, from whence they will be shipped to France.

"Change" Has Humor Mixed With Wisdom

Contrast and conflict between the older and younger generations in modern Wales are brought out in "Change," the play to be used Friday evening at the Young Women's Christian association by Mme. Harriet Labadie in a program of dramatic interpretation. Although intensely dramatic, interest in the play is increased by passages of fine humor that relieve the serious situations. The problem presented is the same that confronts all classes throughout the world today, it being based on the sharp changes in thought and viewpoint from one generation to the next. Mme. Labadie's reading is a number in the entertainment course being given this spring under the auspices of the association.

SAFER CREDITS

The Regional Bank's New Measure Will Help Business Men in Many Ways.

Better credits, rather than an extension of credit, is the much-to-be-desired effect which the Federal reserve act will have on business. The new regional banks will exercise a useful function in assisting member banks to improve the character of their loans.

The most useful function in matters pertaining to health is the digestive system, for it is from this source we receive our daily help in renewing the waste portions of the body, keeping the blood pure and well supplied with red corpuscles, and the general condition up to Nature's standard.

Therefore, watch the digestion and at the first sign of weakness or distress see that immediate assistance is given. This can be efficiently supplied by the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

It has a well known reputation as a tonic and appetizer and can thus be relied upon to help you regain your appetite, assist the entire digestive system and help Nature in the promotion and maintenance of health.
