Exploits of U-21 Told by Writer

(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)
BERLIN, March 4.—The second of Otto von Gotthberg's semi-official accounts of the German navy is devoted to the exploits of submarine U-21. He writes: "On the torpedo tube of the U-21 is now the inscription: 'Through a shot from this tube, on August 9, 1914, the captain sank the English cruiser Pathfinder.' Of this engagement, Lieutenant Commander von Hering (Iron Cross) said: 'I wanted to enter the Fifth of Porth, but I lay across its course and sank it. An English destroyer pursued me, but I naturally took the U-21 under the water, and we escaped safely.'"
Of the recent work of U-21 in the Irish sea, von Gotthberg says: "Soon after January 20, the boat put to sea. It headed for the vicinity of Liverpool, and sank the Ben Cruachan, loaded with general cargo. While the Ben Cruachan's boats were still in sight the Linda was sunk. Then a coal steamer appeared and Lieutenant Hering waited for it, but by this time the wireless had sent an echo of the thunderous explosion on the Ben Cruachan into every office of British shipowners, and Hering waited in vain for several days for new booty. But John Bull was clever; he had ordered the stoppage of all shipping in the Irish sea."
"From Liverpool Bay, Hering cruised off into the Irish Sea, bombarding an atirahp shed as he passed. A neighboring port shelled the little attacker, which dived unharmed and proceeded leisurely homeward."

to try his hand with a rope. At midnight he slipped out of the trench and crept close enough to throw a slip noose over the box, then another and another before the German realized what had happened. With the aid of a number of comrades the box with the German in it was dragged into our trenches."

Germany Starts Lace Making to Help the Women and Girls

(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)
BRUSSELS, March 23.—The German civil government has decided to do something to encourage the Brussels lace trade during the war. A concern called the "bureau for encouraging and promoting the lace industry during the war" has been organized here under the auspices of the government. Its object is to find a market for Brussels lace in Germany and thus make it possible for the thousands of lace workers of western Belgium—mostly elderly women and girls—to find employment.
These women have hitherto received a small part of the profits going to agents and merchants. It is claimed that when a lace collar was sold for 20 francs the women who made it received only 2.50 francs, maximum, for her labor. The German bureau proposes now to remedy this discrepancy. It will not be allowed to make a profit, beyond covering its own expenses; and by offering laces cheaply in Germany, giving the buyer a part of the profits that previously went to the middleman, the bureau hopes to be able to pay better prices to the lace makers than they have been earning in peace.

GULLS WARN SAILORS OF APPROACH OF SUBMARINES

(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)
LONDON, March 18.—Sea gulls perhaps saved a cruiser and 800 men from a submarine, says a British bluejacket with the North Sea fleet in a letter to his family in Hull. He says that he was standing by his gun when a large flock of sea gulls suddenly rose from the surface of the water. This drew the attention of the sailors to the periscope of a submarine, which the gulls had seen appearing above the water.
The warship turned and made away from the danger with a zigzag course.

American Woman Warns Those Who Would Be Nurses

(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)
LONDON, March 18.—A young American woman who volunteered for service as a Red Cross nurse in Serbia two months ago has written letters to friends in London, urging them against following her example, unless they are sure that their nerves and physique can stand the strain. "Many of the volunteer nurses collapse after a week or two," she says, "and the strongest of us are quite certain that we shall have to give it up after two or three months or else go mad."
"Our hospital is not a large building, but we have 1,300 patients and have to inspect 500 fresh cases each day. The congestion of the whole place is so terrible that major operations frequently have to be performed right in the wards, with all the other patients around."
"The hospital is close to the railway, and men sent from the battlefields are brought in to be dressed before continuing their journeys to other towns. I call the dressing room the hall of pain. In it are nine tables of agony, and there are benches all around on which sit the soldier boys waiting to have their wounds dressed."
"The hall throbs with cries, groans and shrieks of pain, rising sometimes to a crescendo that the strongest nerves cannot endure."
"We have seen none of the glory of war—only the horror and suffering of soldiers and the civil population, too. But I am sure no glory can compensate for all this. To see the refugee children and the wounded men and the suffering women is worse than any nightmare genius could dream."

Wants Military Drill as Part of Educational Course

(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)
LONDON, March 22.—The recent refusal of the educational authorities to sanction the introduction of military drill in the elementary schools of London and other cities has caused much dissatisfaction, and the matter has been taken up by several members of parliament, who propose to see that it is discussed during the present session.
In the House of Lords the matter has been brought to the attention of members by a motion introduced by Lord Willoughby de Broke:
"That, in the opinion of this house, military drill, including the use of arms, should form a beneficial part of our national system of education, and that cadet corps, with universal membership thereof, should be by law established in all male public schools and colleges in the United Kingdom."

Here's a Wound that Has Caused Loss of Both Taste and Smell

(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)
LONDON, Feb. 28.—One of the curious effects of shell explosion reported at the military hospitals is the loss of the senses of taste and smell. Dr. Charles Myers states that he has met three cases of this in his own experience. The men received no flesh wounds at all, but because of their loss of senses they could not distinguish by taste between sugar, quinine, acid and salt, which felt alike to the tongue.
"These cases appear to constitute a definite class among shell-shock effects," says Dr. Myers. "The shell in question appear to have burst with considerable noise, scattering much dust, but this was not accompanied by the production of odor. It is, therefore, difficult to understand why hearing should be unaffected and the ill results confined to the senses of sight, smell and taste. The close relation of these cases to those of hysteria appears certain."

Move on Foot to Colonize Mormons in Western Panama

(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)
PANAMA, March 20.—Arrangements are being made to bring the former large Mormon colony that at one time flourished in northern Mexico to the province of Chiriqui in western Panama. President Porras of Panama has designated his willingness to aid in bringing this class of agriculturists to the republic.
It is understood that the Panama government has set aside a large fertile tract in the province which will be sold to the settlers at the lowest possible price for public lands. Some of the lands selected will have to be purchased from private holders, but it is said the government has promised its aid in obtaining them at a reasonable figure.
For some time negotiations looking to the bringing of this colony to Panama have been conducted by John G. Critchlow, a leading Mormon high in the councils of the church at Salt Lake City. He has recently made a number of trips to the isthmus and is now engaged in selecting the proposed sites for colonization in the vicinity of David, La Concepcion and Boquete in western Panama.

Turkish Baby Is Child of Regiment

(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)
PETROGRAD, March 18.—"Our regiment has adopted a 2-year-old Turkish girl baby," writes a Cossack who is serving with the Russian advance into the Turkish Caucasus. He explains:
"During our forward movement last week one of our men found in a farm house this baby, which had been abandoned by her fleeing parents. The starry little creature was cleaned, clothed and fed, and then taken to the staff quarters. In the Greek church of the village of Bardus the findling was christened according to the rites of the Orthodox church, the commander of the regiment acting as godfather and Princess Grigovna, a Red Cross nurse and wife of a member of the Duma, as godmother. The child was named Alexandra Donshina, after the name of the regiment. The officers and men of the regiment subscribed monthly amounts sufficient to pay for rearing and educating their regimental daughter."

Land Mines Used in Killing Germans

(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)
PETROGRAD, March 18.—On the Polish front the Russians are using land mines for blowing great holes in the land between the Russian and German positions. The infantry then use these holes as attacking trenches.
"A series of explosions of land mines placed close under the German trenches at one point west of Warsaw recently killed 200 Germans."

AMERICAN LARIAT USED TO GOOD ADVANTAGE

(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)
PARIS, March 18.—The second lieutenant of a battalion of Alpine Chasseurs tells how the lasso was utilized against the Germans in the Vosges.
"We occupied a wooded knoll," he says, "so well placed the Germans couldn't think of taking it by assault, so they set their mine and sappers at work. They arrived, thus within a few yards of our trenches and had the audacity to place a sentry there, well protected in a sort of armored box with loopholes in it. There was no way of driving him out. One day a chasseur who had seen life on the American plains asked permission
