

Nebraska COURT CONSTRUCTION GIBSON SALOON LAW High Judges Hold Excise Board Need Not Go Behind Records of Realty Holdings.

POSITION OF BODY IS REVERSED (From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, April 16.—(Special.)—In an opinion handed down by the supreme court today that body holds in the Hanft-Ebros saloon case from Stanton county, involving a construction of the Gibson law of 1907, that an excise board need not go behind the records to find out who really owns leased property.

The evidence in the case proved that Mrs. Adolph Stora was majority owner of the stock in the Independent Realty company, the evidence tending to show that this company was merely a holding company for the brewery company.

In the decision the court reverses its former holding. The case is one appealed from Stanton county by the remonstrants against the granting of a saloon license to A. L. Hanft of the town of Stanton.

The court was not unanimous. Judge Sedgwick writes the majority opinion, which is concurred in by Judge Barnes. A dissenting opinion is filed by Rose, in which Judge Letten joins.

Suggests Quo Warranto Suit. The property of the applicant proposed to lease in this case was held by the Independent Realty company. The remonstrants urged the Gibson law upon the excise board. The court holds that the statute does not expressly provide and should not be so construed, that the excise board should investigate the title of the lessee when it appears fair and regular on the record.

The excise board, according to Judge Sedgwick, is only an administrative body and it was not the intention of the legislature to give to it judicial functions. Its rulings are subject to appeal to the courts. It is admitted, but the appellate bodies will be limited to the records put in by the administrative body. The court cites for support the holding of the United States supreme court over the "Commodities clause" of the Hepburn act, forbidding railroads from owning enterprises not integral to the business of a common carrier.

Nebraska MILLION ITALIAN SOLDIERS PERFECTLY Armed and Equipped Eager to Fight

ON THE ITALIAN FRONTIER, April 16.—(Via Paris.)—Italy today has 1,300,000 first line soldiers under arms. They are from 20 to 36 years of age. They are perfectly armed and equipped otherwise "to the last button."

General Zuppell, Italian minister of war, speaking on the military situation in Italy, said that a miracle had been accomplished in that a country which for about twenty years had maintained a military organization merely for the preservation of peace, had created what he termed one of the most perfect of war machines. The change was not easy, General Zuppell said, as was proved wherever the same work was attempted.

Aviation Corps is Planned for Guard By General Hall (From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, April 16.—(Special.)—Adjutant General Hall is planning an aviation corps for the National Guard. The Nebraska Guard now has one flier at Fremont.

Aviator Schaffer, now residing at Alvo with his parents, who was a former flying mate of Lincoln Beachey, will be invited to bring his machine to the officers' instruction camp to be held in Lincoln in June.

The biplane at Fremont was out of commission through an accident at the time of the maneuver camp at Waterloo last summer. General Hall has recently received a model of it, which he has hung in his office at the state house.

Just what funds will be available from the War department for guard aviation is not known to the local commander. He has written to Washington to find out and the fate of the aviation corps of the United States guard rests on the reply.

Why Hair Falls Out

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a 2-cent bottle of Danderrine at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub well into the scalp. After a few applications all dandruff disappears and the hair stops coming out.—Advertisement.
