

HAPPENINGS IN THE MAGIC CITY

Albert Christopher, Arrested by Magic City Police, Suspected of Being Kansas Desperado.

WILL START NEW HOG BARN

When Detective Sergeant Will Hains of Kansas City removed Albert Christopher, alias Williams, alias Hogmouth Slim, from South Omaha to Kansas City yesterday, the local police believe that a desperado was placed in safekeeping. Christopher was returned under suspicion of having murdered two men and threatened his female companion, Mamie Moore, who "squealed" on him to Captain Hank Carey a few nights ago.

The Moore woman at the time told the local police that Christopher, who is colored, had threatened to kill her in order to protect himself against the knowledge which the woman is supposed to have of a Kansas City murder in which Christopher and a pal named Glen Lee figured.

Before Christopher's return to Kansas City the Moore woman backed up on her previous statements and denied that Christopher was in any way involved in the killings of which she speaks. There is said to be a reward of $200 offered for the apprehension of the Kansas City murderer. Should it turn out that Christopher is the right man Captain Hank Carey and Officer Bert Hyatt will probably receive some of the money.

Members of the First Methodist Episcopal Sunday school of South Omaha will act as host to the 1915 annual Sunday school institute of the Omaha district of the Nebraska conference conducted by the board of Sunday schools of the church. The institute will be held during the first three afternoons and evenings of the coming week, May 3-4-5.

The opening season will be held on Monday evening at 7 o'clock. Rev. Ralph W. Keeler will formally open the program with an address on "The Adult Class Movement," while Rev. James V. Thompson will deliver the final address of the evening at 8 o'clock on the subject, "The Great Objective."

Work on a new section of the steel concrete hog barns at the Union Stock yards will be started at once, according to announcements made yesterday at the Union Stock yards. Several sections have already been built, but General Manager Buckingham says that the need of greater accommodations is growing daily and the company is bent upon putting in the very best in the new structure.

Eppey Corey, for more than twenty-five years in the banking business of South Omaha, has resigned his position as assistant cashier at the Union Stock Yards bank, to accept a position with the Nebraska National bank of Omaha. The change is largely due to the friendship which existed for years between Corey and F. W. Clark, president of the Nebraska National. Corey has a host of friends in the banking world of both cities and, especially in South Omaha, his home town.

Swedish Singers Give May Festival

The eighth annual May festival of the Swedish Singing society "Norden" was held at the Swedish auditorium last night, with the big building completely taxed to capacity to accommodate the large assembly of music lovers who attended to hear the folk songs and classics of the north and rendered by the Swedish, Norwegian and Danish singing societies of Omaha, and Joel Mossberg of Chicago, assisted by a group of the Omaha Synagogue orchestra, directed by Claude Corle.

John S. Helgren is director of the Norden and must be given much of the credit for the success of the festival.

ORKIN BROS. IN NEW STORE

Opening Day Brings Back Old Friends to Give New Undertaking a Boost.

FULFILLS LONG AMBITION

Orkin Brothers' "store beautiful." Omaha's latest shop for women, opened to the public Saturday in convenient and handsome quarters in the new bank building at Sixteenth and Farnam streets, with every conceivable detail of up-to-the-minute salesmanship, demonstration and service facilities.

Friends and former patrons of J. L. Orkin thronged the store all day to congratulate him and Mitchell Wasserman, his brother-in-law and partner, upon the distinctive appearance and advantages of their new store, which all declared to be eminently creditable to Omaha's progress and improvement.

"It fulfills my ambition, the dream of years," said Mr. Orkin. "Ever since entering the Omaha field nine years ago I have sought to serve the buying public with good merchandise and honest dealings, upon a firm foundation and with a clientele that will recognize the best in quality and service. Now we are located in the heart of the city, with everything new and of the best, which gives us the cherished opportunity and equipment for meeting the most exacting requirements."

Sanctuary location. Mr. Orkin first became known to Omaha women when he bought the O. K. Scofield Clook and Suit company at Fifteenth and Douglas streets. He later was the executive and managerial head of the organization that took over the Bennett company, following the need of more room for his own growing business.

He is still a young man, and when he sold his department store, he declared his desire and intention of remaining in the Omaha field, but was unable to secure a suitable location until obtaining the beautiful quarters in the United States National bank building, just completed.

Mitchell Wasserman, who has been associated with Mr. Orkin for a number of years and was manager of Orkin Brothers' Sioux City store, has come to Omaha with Mrs. Wasserman, to live, and will share the ownership and management of the new store here. He was formerly proprietor of the Washington Hat and Shirt company, although his principal interest has always been in the women's cloak and suit business.

Fixtures and equipment of the handsome new store were all bought in Omaha, and practically all were made right in the Orkin Brothers' store by the most expert workmen, to suit the requirements of the location. The latter has floor space of 2,500 feet extending around the Burlington ticket office, with entrance at 222 South Sixteenth street, as well as from the bank building, and with large and attractive show windows on both the Farnam and the Sixteenth streets sides.

Completeness and convenience of arrangement, as well as beauty of finish and equipment, were generally remarked upon by visitors at the new store during the opening day. They were impressed with the fact that no expense had been spared to make the store eminently and distinctively fitted to serve its patrons.

Farmer Asks Help To Escape from the Wiles of a Widow

Protection from what he termed "the influence" of Rev. Charles W. Savidge and matrimony, was sought last night at police headquarters by William Selwood, wealthy Schaller, Ia., farmer.

Selwood told reporters that he came to Omaha some time ago and joined Rev. Mr. Savidge's church and formed the acquaintance of the pastor.

When Mr. Savidge discovered he was a bachelor of means he commenced to preach matrimony to him, Selwood says, and later put him in the way of meeting the widow Selwood says he thinks she is an actress, though he says he has never seen her in the flesh.

"I wrote her some letters and she wrote me some, and before I knew it I was getting in deeper and deeper. I wish I had those letters back."

Selwood would not show any of his letters, but did show a picture of a pretty woman with whom he says he has been corresponding.

Find Woman's Body in Missouri River

The body of an unidentified woman was found in the Missouri river opposite Bellevue late yesterday by Ernest Collins and Charles Capper.

It was the body of a woman about 35 years of age, with brown hair, dressed in a blue waist and blue skirt of a corded material. Coroner Armstrong of Sarpy county took charge of the body. He is of the opinion it had been in the water several days.

Law last night no identification had been made.

Major McCormick, in charge of the Omaha post of the Volunteers of America, went to Papillion to view the body, believing that it might possibly be Miss Anna Anderson, a recent convert worker, who disappeared several days ago. When Miss Anderson disappeared Major McCormick believed that she might have been mentally affected as the result of illness.

CLOSING RALLY OF INS AT AUDITORIUM

Dahlman and Cohorts Fire Last Big Blast of Campaign Before a Goody Multitude.

MAYOR IN RARE GOOD FORM

Holding pictorial campaign cards of the opposing tickets in his outstretched hand, Mayor Dahlman on the stage of the Auditorium last evening asked the audience whether they believed the square seven or "those suckers on the anti ticket" are better able to govern the Greater Omaha that is to come. The mayor said things about Chairman Sutton and the "Big Six." He also said Simon would not be made superintendent of police if elected.

The meeting was largely attended. Among the features were red fire, a band and poetry by Doc Evans of South Omaha. The speakers were J. B. Ritchie, Assistant City Attorney Lambert, J. M. Tanner, W. F. Wappich, Edward Simon, Commissioner Butler, Arthur Mullen and Mayor Dahlman. Congressman Lobeck presided. The mayor's wife sat in a box with a party of women.

Mayor Jim's Remarks. The administration party participated in an automobile parade in the afternoon and regarded the day as practically the close of their speaking campaign, although a few meetings will be held today and Monday.

"Omaha is the greatest moral city of the country," said the mayor, "because of the influence of the women of this city. I am told that only three women will get out for the anti and I'm glad to hear that. I would suggest that these women look up the records of some of the expiation and they would blush for shame."

"I'll tell you I've educated a lot of those suckers in the last nine years and I'm going to educate some more. "Anybody who says we will place Simon at the head of the police department if we are re-elected is a liar. "Cuel has made good as head of the police department. Simon is too young for that job."

Ritchie and Tanner Talk. Attorney Ritchie maintained that it behooves those opposed to prohibition to stand by the square seven and against the anti.

"Let us say to the square seven, we want them to continue the era of prosperity they have started and give them to understand that Omaha should be governed along broad, intelligent lines, if we would attract capital and new business. What worse news could you send out than that the white horse of prohibition is stalking abroad?" continued Mr. Ritchie.

Mr. Tanner referred to the mayor as an exemplar of honesty and plain dealing and as opposed to fanaticism and radicalism and said that in event of annexation the people of South Omaha would look with favor upon the rule of Dahlman, "known as being just and fair."

Lambert, Mullen and Simon. Assistant City Attorney Lambert reviewed the activities of his department as an argument that the administration and its legal department have not neglected the interests of the people against the public service corporations.

Arthur Mullen said he believed the people would not vote out an experienced and tried set of officials for an inexperienced set of aspirants.

Edward Simon said he could have received the support of a certain "yellow paper" if he would have signed a statement to oppose Mayor Dahlman.

Chairman Lobeck urged the voters to support the Auditorium bond issue.

Same Car is Sold to Three Purchasers On the Same Date

George G. McVicker, manager of the Jeffrey Omaha company, spent last week at the Jeffrey plant in Keosauqua, Wis. During the week he also visited the Empire factory at Indianapolis to see that the Omaha share of cars were headed this way.

The enormous demand for the new light "Four" Jeffrey at $165 and also for the new 1915 model Empire has kept both factories working overtime and dealers on the anxious seat. One Jeffrey Chesterfield "Six" was sold on the local salesrooms three times last Wednesday to three different customers. C. R. Rumsey of Red Oak, Ia., was the first purchaser, buying the car before 7 o'clock in the morning, but later agreed to wait two days to get one from the next carload.

E. E. Walters of Wahoo was the next man to buy the car and was to return and get it later in the day. In the meantime J. J. Jensen of Audubon came in and wrote out a check for the car and then he and Mr. McVicker persuaded Mr. Walters to also wait and get one from the next carload. All went away happy.

Twelve Empires will arrive in Omaha Monday or Tuesday and will be delivered right from the cars, as all have been sold.

Mr. McVicker is supplying his dealers as rapidly as possible and delivers the cars in the rotation of orders. He shows his list of purchasers, which showed thirty-two dealers were waiting for cars Friday night.

OMAHA LAD MAKES HIT WITH HIS VIOLIN IN THE SOUTH

Karel Havlicek, a young Bohemian of cert work with Alice Nielsen of the Metropolitan Grand Opera company, now Omaha, is having much success in touring the south. A southern paper has this to say of his work:

"He played a largo, a Spanish rhapsodie, replete with passages which require all of the technique of the modern virtuoso. These were brought into full effect by the young artist who readily established himself in the favor of the audience."

Mr. Havlicek plays on a violin of rare make, being a Joseph Guarneri, made in 1736.

Goodyear to Extend Policy of Making Employes Partners

For the last ten years the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company has followed a policy of making "young partners" of such of its employes as have shown special ability and rendered highly efficient service, by making them common stockholders in the company. Goodyear has 225 of these young partners at the present time—branch managers, department heads, factory foremen and others who have distinguished themselves by special service.

The result of this policy has been so satisfactory that the company now proposes to extend it. The organization has grown mightily in the last few years, just as the business has grown, and more candidates for "young partnership" are under consideration.

To that end a stockholders' meeting will be held June 1 to authorize an increase in the company's common stock, as all the present authorized common is outstanding and none is available for the proposed distribution.

In the past Goodyear has disposed of its stock to employes on the basis of five-year contracts, simply setting the stock aside in the beneficiary's name and permitting dividends, cash and stock, to accumulate to the end of the period, when settlement is made. The employe really purchases the stock at par, though most of the payments automatically take care of themselves.

Students Oppose The Gambling and Love Making Idea

Cards, love-making and gambling were scored by the University of Omaha Young Men's Christian association when that body met Friday afternoon to discuss legitimate sports. Dancing and theater-going was criticized, though the members seemed about equally divided over the former. Checkers, chess, base ball, foot ball, hikes and fishing were among the sports endorsed as suitable for a person having the true Christian spirit.

The meeting was one of the regular weekly affairs and was presided over by Dean Halsey.

No definite arrangements have as yet been made for the sending of delegates to the Rocky Mountain Students' conference at Estes Park, June 12-13, but it is expected several will be selected to represent the local school.
