

Society

By MELLIFICIA. Monday, May 10, 1915.

SOCIETY is so discouragingly quiet that I have to go to the back corner of my brain and bring out this story of somewhat late interest. Apropos or not, it's a god one.

At a not so very long distant dinner, the host invited a certain well-known bachelor, possessed of an automobile, to be among the guests. The guests were to attend a dancing party later, and on such occasions, you know, automobile owners are handy things to have about.

It seems just at this time many were growing tired of dinners. (It is possible for some to experience such ennui, strange as it may seem.)

The invited bachelor guest knew all along that he would not be able to attend the dancing party, but from sheer desire to make, and enjoy, a funny situation, with his ever-present sense of humor, went to the dinner. When the courses progressed to the last slip, during the finishing conversation and rings of smoke, Mr. — got up hurriedly and, with deep feelings, expressed regret, saying that he was so distressed not to be able to accompany and conduct his friends to the dance, but Uncle So-and-so was here from New York and had tickets for the theater, so he would be obliged to leave immediately.

The host turned pale and nearly passed away, but the bachelor declares he never had a more enjoyable evening.

"St. Patrick's Day"

Magic Words for John Washington

Judge Britt, court officers and the crowd of spectators burst into laughter in police court when John Washington, a former dope fiend, told his story. He was discharged because it was on last St. Patrick's day that he had been released before, after jail treatment for the drug habit.

"High-brow stuff" handed out by John in his remarks to the judge proved too much, and he was frequently stopped by the prosecutor, Washington explained that he was just on the way to take a "bawth" when he was "incarcerated."

"Really, judge," he said, "since you gave me the pledge, I've steadfastly continued my journey on the water-wagon. I swear to heaven and you know I wouldn't prevaricate to your honor, would I? Messrs. Rice and Panowak, who incarcerated me, will offer testimony that I have conducted myself exceptionally well since being liberated before, and I'll never touch alcoholic beverages again. I've endeavored to do right, ever since you freed me from the blasting drug evil and released me from confinement on St. Patrick's day."

"That's enough, words," the judge shouted. "St. Patrick's day saves you."

"Give your seat, judge," cried John, and he was gone.

SATURDAY AND SUNDAY BAD DAY FOR FORD CARS

Auto thieves were busy again Saturday and Sunday nights, smashing up one car, stealing three others and taking parts off of a fifth.

George M. Redick, who lives at the Fontanelle, had his new Ford coupelet taken away from in front of the hotel late Sunday night, and the next morning it was found all smashed up at Twenty-ninth and Parker streets.

Others to lose their Fords were S. B. Hager, 610 North Thirty-fourth street; C. L. Shaw, 311 South Fifteenth street, and J. H. Thompson, California apartment.

The tires and rims were removed from Virgil Drebnitz' auto while it was standing in the rear of his house, 715 Park avenue.

MRS. GENEVIEVE WOOD, who obtained a warrant for her husband, James Wood, for failing to keep up his $25 weekly payments ordered by the court for support of wife and baby, thus establishing a new precedent in New York.

PAVING WORK IS STARTED

Contractors Say They Are Now Ready to Start Delayed Improvements.

NEW REGIME AT THE CITY HALL

Paving contractors started on city work Monday morning with unusual activity—a situation which caused comment in the city hall. Much of this work has not yet been started, but the contractors have "started to work."

The list of unfinished work comprised many paving districts, some of which should have been completed early last fall. Much of this work has not yet been started, but the contractors have "started to work."

The council referred the resolution to the legal department in a formal manner. City Attorney Rine in turn referring the matter to his assistant, L. J. TePoel.

Asked now for the fourth time what action he intends taking, Assistant Attorney TePoel replied, "Well, the contractors are getting busy."

He pointed to the activity in the alley back of the city hall as positive evidence that the contractors are "getting busy."

Before election these contractors defied the city commissioner of public improvements. Now they are "getting busy."

The incumbent of the office has been changed.

Dahlman's Election Cost Him $182 and Jardine's Over $290

Mayor James C. Dahlman's re-election cost him $182, according to his statement of expenses filed in the election commissioner's office. The mayor was the most economical of the nine candidates who so far have filed their statements, with the exception of Thomas McGovern, who spent $142.

Amounts named by the other candidates follow: A. A. Lamoreaux, $266; C. H. Withnall, $187.11; A. C. Kusel, $230.39; Dan B. Butler, $294.45; J. B. Hummel, $111.70; W. S. Jardine, $206.25; John C. Drexel, $250.

WOULD CUT HER THROAT IF SHE IS SENT TO JAIL

"Why should I be put in jail, when I have a 'situation to go to'?" Margaret Campbell asked Acting Police Judge Britt. "I've been in jail before and will cut my throat before going there again," she declared.

Whereupon she neither cut her throat nor went to jail, but started to cry and ran out of the court room. Officers stopped her and she was turned over to Matron McPherson of the county jail. She was charged with taking $5 from George Dankos, 1304 1/2 Douglas street.

Whoever You Are

Being the Transcript of a message given by Celestia, known to many as "The Goddess" and the Maiden from Heaven.

WHOEVER you are, I am for you. Wherever you are, I will come to you. The tenement is no lowlier to me than the home of your most exalted citizen. The discredited, vice-ridden hovel I am not afraid to enter. The paralyzed, stulted residence of society I will go to if I am wanted.

Whoever you are, I believe in you. Hated, scorned, kicked, beaten outcast, I have faith in you. Weak women, not you are not bad. Whoever spoke otherwise knew not the truth. Hard, money-crabbed miser, I can show you where the light is.

Whoever you are, call me and I shall be with you on the instant. I will enter softly by your side, in the factory—in the rushed office, in the thick atmosphered store. Wherever you are I shall have no difficulty in seeking you out. For I am come from my heavenly home to lift you up, to wipe away those tears of anguish and pain, so smooth and soothing that care-ridden body of yours.

Come whisper to me your secret sorrows and I will wipe them out. I am so sorry for you. I know your woes and have endured them too for you. Many times have I truly wept for you, as I watched you trudge along, as I watched you fall to troubled sleep.

Open the portals of your heart, and let me step in.

My voice is lifted for you, whoever you are.
