Heavy Stockholder In Omaha Company Lusitania Victim

Among those reported to have lost their lives on the Lusitania were Charles A. Plamondon and wife of Chicago.

While not a resident of Omaha, Mr. Plamondon was interested in the city, being one of the heavy stockholders in the Gate City Malt company of which W. J. Coad is president.

"In the list of passengers on the Lusitania, sailing from New York I noticed the name of Mr. Plamondon and wife. During the last week in April I received a letter from him, and in it he stated that the following week, accompanied by his wife and daughter, he intended to sail for England, to be gone some time, looking after business matters.

Sousa's Band Gives Two Sunday Concerts

Join Philip Sousa's band, under the baton of the great leader himself, appeared at the Omaha Auditorium twice yesterday, the affair being a benefit for the Omaha mail carriers, who will add their share of the receipts to the fund they are raising for the entertainment of their national convention.

Both matinee and evening concerts were listened to by large audiences, who were regaled with the best of Mr. Sousa's musicianship. One quality of the Sousa program that is always appreciated is the fact that "popular" music always has a foremost place in its make-up.

With the band on this present tour are three soloists, who were much enjoyed by those who heard them yesterday. Miss Virginia Root, soprano, pleased all with her splendid voice; Miss Margel Gluck, violinist, showed herself a competent performer on that beautiful instrument; and Herbert L. Clarke, noted cornetist, delighted the audiences with his marvelous solos.

ATTEMPT TO KILL GARZA IN CAPITAL

Zapata Troops Enter Capital by Stealth and Make Attack on Provisional Head.

GRAVE EVENTS ARE LOOKED FOR

WASHINGTON, May 10.—An attempt to assassinate Roque Gonzales Garza, the convention provisional president of Mexico, was made early today by troops led by General Barona, former military commander of Mexico City, according to dispatches reaching here tonight from the Mexican capital.

Barona's troops were repulsed after severe fighting with losses to both sides. A fierce fighting follows. According to the report the attack on the Hotel Lascruces, the residence of President Garza, began at 3 o'clock this morning.

The troops of General Barona met those of General Barona along the Alameda and serious fighting ensued. When General Barona's forces retreated they left thirteen dead and two wounded while two of General Garza's were killed. One of the latter was General Estrada.

Reports from the war department in Mexico City are said to state that General Barona was arrested, but there are rumors that he escaped, but was wounded. General Zapata was reported to have been killed.

A critical situation is said to exist within the capital as a result of a rupture between General Zapata and General Garza, and the dispatches said "grave events" were feared. Zapata was said to have sent a telegram to the convention demanding that General Palafox, who was put out of the cabinet by Garza, be immediately restored to office.

Worlds Are Created Through Sacrifice

Every religion has taught the law of sacrifice; Christianity especially puts forward the lesson of self-sacrifice as its central theme, the great teaching and practice of its Founder and Exemplar.

All sacrificial rites or acts whatsoever are copies, in but lesser or larger measure, of that one great sacrifice of God by which the worlds were created and by which they are maintained—that voluntary giving of His life, that voluntary limiting of Himself in matter in order to produce and sustain many separate lives.

Saw Vanderbilt Give Up Life Belt

LONDON, May 10.—Thomas Siddell of New York said he saw Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt on the deck of the Lusitania as the vessel was going down.

Mr. Vanderbilt, who could not swim, was equipped with a life belt, but he gallantly took it off, Mr. Siddell said, and placed it around the body of a young woman. Then he went off to seek another life belt. The ship sank a few seconds later.

Mr. Siddell said that he and Herbert Stone of New York were sitting in the smoking room when the first torpedo struck the ship. Together they left the room and went on deck, which already had acutely tilted. Mr. Stone made for the upper side of the deck while Mr. Siddell moved downward.

This was the last that Mr. Siddell saw of Mr. Stone. Subsequently he asked a number of survivors, but could not find anyone who had seen Mr. Stone thereafter.

Mr. Jetter was 64 years of age. He was in his usual good health up to Saturday, when he sustained the stroke. He was found Saturday forenoon in a semi-conscious condition in the brew house by William Hoffman, son of an employe. FACE BROKE OUT WITH LARGE PIMPLES

Also Blackheads, Itched, Scratched Till Burned Like Fire. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Not a Pimple or Blackhead on Face Now.

Armour, S. Dakota.—"About a year ago pimples and blackheads began to break out on my face. The pimples were large and red and would fester over night. Sometimes my face would itch so that I would scratch it till it burned like fire. Then the pimples would irritate and be sore. Many times during the night I would wake and my face would burn. Then I would have to get up and cool it off."

"I tried different tonics for my blood but nothing helped me. I tried cold creams, soaps and salves but everything was in vain. I then began to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment and my face improved in two days. First I washed my face in hot water with Cuticura Soap and then I would apply the Ointment. There is not a pimple or blackhead to be seen on my face now."

Protection Against Germany. WASHINGTON, May 10.—Silence rigidly maintained by the Japanese embassy here throughout the long course of negotiations over Japan's demands upon China was broken tonight by the issuance of a statement prepared by the foreign office at Tokio, outlining the Japanese government's reasons for submitting demands at this time and reviewing the various stages of the negotiations at Peking.

Since this statement was written, Japan has presented an ultimatum resulting in China's acceptance of a revised draft of the demands and the averting of a great crisis in the far east. As accepted the draft eliminates or puts aside for future consideration some of the demands most objectionable to China, and it is understood to contain no features which officials of the United States government regard as contravening treaty rights.

China Lacks Power. Regarding Shan Tung it is alleged that China absolutely lacks the power to prevent Germany from recovering that province and becoming in the future a source of disturbance in the far east. Therefore, it is asserted that it was natural that Japan should take measures to dispose of its rights there and prevent a recrudescence of German influence there.

Touching Manchuria and also eastern inner Mongolia, it is said that Japan's relations are especially close, geographically and politically, commercially and industrially, and following two successful wars, the predominant position of Japan therein has been recognized at home and abroad.

PROTECTION AGAINST GERMANY

As accepted the draft eliminates or puts aside for future consideration some of the demands most objectionable to China, and it is understood to contain no features which officials of the United States government regard as contravening treaty rights.

Regarding Shan Tung it is alleged that China absolutely lacks the power to prevent Germany from recovering that province and becoming in the future a source of disturbance in the far east. Therefore, it is asserted that it was natural that Japan should take measures to dispose of its rights there and prevent a recrudescence of German influence there.

Touching Manchuria and also eastern inner Mongolia, it is said that Japan's relations are especially close, geographically and politically, commercially and industrially, and following two successful wars, the predominant position of Japan therein has been recognized at home and abroad.

The foreign office reproaches the Chinese government for "alleged violation of an understanding with Japan that the conferences were strictly confidential and for having given out the Japanese proposal in various exaggerated forms and endeavored to stir up ill feeling of the

to ensure permanent peace in the orient. They in formulating these proposals, had taken special care to avoid those which might be deemed to conflict with the principles of territorial integrity, equal opportunity and the open door, which Japan had occasion, time and again, to declare to the powers.

Dispose of German Rights. "Accordingly, these proposals include, among others, those relating to the disposition of the German rights in the province of Shang Tung, these relating to the recognition of special position and interests which Japan possesses in South Manchuria and in eastern inner Mongolia, those relating to the solution of various questions which have for years been pending between the Japanese and the Chinese governments."

After reciting the text of original five groups of Japanese proposals, already published in Peking dispatches, the statement includes an argument to sustain the Japanese claims.

China Lacks Power. Regarding Shan Tung it is alleged that China absolutely lacks the power to prevent Germany from recovering that province and becoming in the future a source of disturbance in the far east. Therefore, it is asserted that it was natural that Japan should take measures to dispose of its rights there and prevent a recrudescence of German influence there.

Touching Manchuria and also eastern inner Mongolia, it is said that Japan's relations are especially close, geographically and politically, commercially and industrially, and following two successful wars, the predominant position of Japan therein has been recognized at home and abroad.

The foreign office reproaches the Chinese government for "alleged violation of an understanding with Japan that the conferences were strictly confidential and for having given out the Japanese proposal in various exaggerated forms and endeavored to stir up ill feeling of the powers against Japan and attempting to "shake confidence placed in Japan by its allies."

Absurd Demands Made. China also is charged with making absurd demands, such as the unconditional retrocession of Kiao Chow and indemnity for the damage caused China by the Japan military operations and with "showing from the first the lack of sincere desire for a satisfactory conclusion of the negotiations."

Recognizing that the satisfactory conclusion of the negotiations was most important for the maintenance of peace in the far east, the statement declares that the imperial government treated these Chinese contentions with every consideration, and, in a spirit of conciliation, had made great concessions. These are embodied in the revised draft of the Japanese proposals presented to the Chinese negotiators on April 23, which, with the omission of the fifth and last group, were finally accepted by the Chinese negotiators yesterday, thus closing the negotiations.

Both the Japanese embassy and the Chinese legation officials agreed that the negotiations have closed with the acceptance yesterday by the Chinese government of the above amended Japanese proposals. It is not expected that it would be necessary to reduce these to the form of a treaty.
