First Alfalfa Grower Of the State Is Dead AUBURN, Neb., May 25.—(Special.)—Bernard Ottens died at his home in this city yesterday, lacking a few days of being 87 years of age. He was one of the early settlers of this county, having located on a farm west of town in 1854. For years his house was the only dwelling between Tecumseh and the Nemaha river. His house was known far and wide as the road house where entertainment was furnished to travelers.

Mr. Ottens was born in Germany and leaves a large estate. He was the father of the Parochial school here. He claimed the distinction of being the first person to grow alfalfa in Nebraska. He got seed from Germany and commenced the propagation of this plant thirty-five years ago. He demonstrated to his neighbors how to raise a forage plant, and wrote many articles in favor of it for the farm papers. The funeral will be Thursday, and interment will be in the Holy Cross cemetery. He is survived by a widow and five grown daughters, and many grand children. He and his wife celebrated their golden wedding here twelve years ago at St. Joseph Catholic church.

Thirteen Alleged Night Riders Are Under Indictment

SOUTH BEND, Wash., May 25.—Thirteen indictments against thirteen North River residents were returned last night by a special grand jury, called to investigate alleged "night rider" activities in the North River country, a remote section of Pacific county. J. N. Howard, the alleged leader, and four others are under arrest here today. The others indicted are still in the North River country. All are accused of second degree burglary and second degree assault. Several in addition are charged with arson. Bond has been fixed at $2,000 for each defendant.

The indictments are the result of a midnight raid on Mrs. Margaret Rose and her two sons from their North River cabin in January, 1914. Their cabin was burned. The men indicted were arrested previously on a charge of assault and arson, but the cases were thrown out of court for lack of evidence. Mrs. Rose appeared to Governor Ernest Lister and Attorney General W. V. Tanner for protection and they sent Assistant Attorney General John M. Wilson of Olympia to this county to handle the case. Walter S. Boyer, special agent of the federal land office in Portland, assisted in presenting the evidence. Mrs. Rose and one of her sons, Earl Rose, have been subpoenaed to appear before the federal grand jury at Tacoma.

Balance of Trade Will Reach Billion by First of July WASHINGTON, May 25.—With Secretary Redfield's estimate that the trade balance in favor of the United States will total $1,000,000,000 on July 1 before them, President Wilson and the cabinet today discussed the relation of the statistics to the international situation. The contention made in Great Britain that the growing American export trade shows that the United States is not suffering from order in council against which diplomatic protest is pending will be fully investigated by the Department of Commerce.

WALSH AND KING IN ANOTHER CLASH

Industrial Agent Says Young Rockefeller is Now Most Powerful Influence in Colorado.

REFUSES TO TELL OF INQUIRY WASHINGTON, May 25.—W. L. Mackenzie King, director of the Industrial Relations department of the Rockefeller Foundation, resumed his testimony today before the Federal Industrial Relations commission, which is inquiring into conditions in the Colorado coal fields. The witness took the stand late yesterday and was questioned at length as to his services to John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and to the Foundation. He interrupted his testimony to protest against the methods of Chairman Walsh in conducting the commission's inquiry into the Colorado strike.

The chairman insisted that the "people must have the facts." "What do you mean by the people?" asked the witness. "I mean the American people," said the chairman, "whose public opinion would be the greatest factor in improving conditions in Colorado." "The will and conscience of young Mr. John D. Rockefeller is more powerful in Colorado than any other force that can be brought to bear at this time," said King. "You think that the will and conscience of Mr. John D. Rockefeller is more powerful than the will and conscience of all the American people to bring about a change of conditions in Colorado?"

Chairman Walsh and King clashed again today when King's answers became involved and the chairman sought to limit him. Mr. Walsh sought to make a record of what Mr. King has done for American labor. Both the witness and Commissioner Weinstock wanted to know the object of that line of questioning, but the chairman emphatically refused to explain.

Investigations Confidential. "I am not on the stand," he said, "and I must decline to be questioned." Walsh questioned King as to his investigations in Colorado, but the witness insisted that his investigations were confidential and he could not make public any of his information. He insisted he had seen representatives of both sides of the Colorado struggle in his effort to be absolutely fair.

King Explains Utterance. When the air cleared, King explained that he was "speaking as a practical man of a practical situation." "I mean to say," he continued, "that if I wanted to improve conditions in Colorado the man I would go after would be John D. Rockefeller, Jr. He could do more in one year along that line than efforts to focus public opinion on the situation could do in several years." Responsibility for the Colorado strike, King said, he could definitely fix and he expected to report his findings where they would have the best effect. He suggested that he should like to give his recommendations privately to Chairman Walsh.

FORMER OMAHA MINISTER HEADS FREMONT DIVINES FREMONT, Neb., May 25.—(Special.)—Dr. Nathaniel McChiffin formerly of Omaha, was elected president of the Ministerial union at the annual meeting of the association yesterday.

That is not just what I said," replied King, and another clash followed, after which he protested against his testimony being "distorted." "Now, you have given your opinion of me," replied the chairman, "and I don't intend to give my opinion of you here, no matter how insulting your comment may be. I shall treat you exactly as I treated John D. Rockefeller, Jr."

Studebaker SIX - $1385. Costs less -to Buy -to Run. Certainly does—at $1385, this Studebaker SIX costs VERY much less, hundreds of dollars less, in fact, than any SIX that begins to approach it in QUALITY. The low price is made possible only by the resources of Studebaker—one of the world manufacturing organizations in the world manufacturing motor cars. You don't have to spend one dollar more than $1385 to get ALL that a SIX can give. Just take the cars that cost more and study them side by side with this Studebaker SIX at $1385. You'll find one SIX that's priced at nearly $4,000 that has a semi-floating rear axle—one of the old-style axles that Studebaker has long since replaced with the SAFER FULL-floating rear axle. More costly to manufacture—but QUALITY comes first with Studebaker. Take another of the Sixes that costs a few hundred dollars more than this SIX, and you'll find that it has no brakes equalizer—while the only other higher in price, drive that Studebaker uses is on a $5,000 car. Other Sixes, you'll find, all of them higher in price, drive thro' the springs—don't care to go to the expense of a design that calls for radius rods, even tho' radius rods save your springs and make the car EASIER-riding. Others are using ball bearings and annular bearings, where Studebaker uses more costly but better Timken Bearings. And so you can go straight thro' the Studebaker SIX from "stem to stern" and find QUALITY that no other SIX within hundreds of dollars of its price begins to give. Quality that's built into it—because it's a Studebaker. And so, too, when you get this Studebaker SIX on the roads, you find that you keep on paying less. You find that if it's ECONOMY to buy it—it's even more ECONOMY to run it. For the simple reason that it's the LOW-keep SIX. Built to be—that's all. Low upkeep is as important as any quality in a car. When Studebaker engineers designed this car, low cost of maintenance was one of the BIG things they had in mind. And you can see the results the minute you begin to study this SIX. For you'll find, for example, drop forgings and pressed steel used in this car where castings are used in other cars. Forgings and pressed steel are stronger, but MUCH LIGHTER, too, than the castings that other cars use. And then, you'll find a wonderful BALANCE in the car. The chassis has been simplified by three years' continuous and concentrated study. Every one of its units is placed with the idea of best distributing the car's weight. The engineers have given it balanced lightness. They cut the cost of upkeep—the cost of tires and the cost of fuel. They made it a car that's easier to drive—a car that steers at the touch of two fingers, a car that hangs to the road at 60 miles an hour and a car with marvelously improved riding qualities. And with its dignity of design and its elegance of finish, this Studebaker SIX is one of the handsomest cars you ever saw. Your eyes will tell that. But the BIG thing now is to ride in it, to drive it and to KNOW what Studebaker "balanced lightness" means. Come in and see this SIX that costs less to BUY and less to RUN—we'll welcome any test.
