JANITOR FALLS IN LOAN SHARK HANDS

Federal Employee Forced to Give Up Unequal Struggle When Uncle Sam Cuts Pay.

OTHERS HIT JUST AS HARD

A janitor who works on the first floor of the postoffice building has had to give up the unequal struggle to make ends meet, following the cutting off of eight days' pay by the government this year and the changing of pay day, so that now the meager and curtailed wages are not paid for any month until the 15th of the following month.

He had to go to the 'loan sharks.' He borrowed $50 from the Omaha Loan company, which he agreed to pay back in ten monthly installments of $7.50 each, thus disposing of the principal of $50 and interest of $7.

This man asked not to have his name mentioned, for he feels the stigma. He lives with his wife and four children in the neighborhood of Creighton university.

Bills Must Be Paid. This came just when our students left us," he said. "We keep roomers to help out the $5 a month that I earn. Just when our roomers left this notice came that we would lose eight days' pay. Well, the coal bill wasn't paid from last winter, and the gas and water bills came in, and I said to my wife, 'What shall we do?' We couldn't do anything, and so we had to borrow the money and pay out all that interest. It will take just half a month's salary to pay the interest alone."

This is a typical example of the hardship that is being worked on the thirteen janitors, nine charwomen, three watchmen and three elevator conductors in the postoffice. Besides having to make the eight days' vacation without pay, these employees lose all time they are sick during the months of May and June, this year. Charles Dahl is laid up with rheumatism at his home, 236 South Twentieth street, and Mrs. Mattie Evans, a charwoman, who gets $5 a month, is ill at her home, Shelby court No. 1, on South Twenty-second street.

Appropriation Cut. All this is because a committee in congress cut $6,000 from the appropriation to the Treasury department. To save this sum, 437 of the poorest-paid employees in the government service throughout the country were 'doctored' eight days' pay.

"What we fear is that this will happen other years," said Bonu Kelley, who has charge of the affected employees at the local postoffice. "I have had to call up several landlords and other creditors of my force and explain the circumstances to them and plead for more time for these men and women to pay their bills."

Tad is an Outcast; Mother Goldfish Keeps Little Goldfish Away from Him

Poor little Tad is an outcast. Tad is a tadpole that was placed in the aquarium in the rotunda of The Bee building by State Fish Commissioner O'Brien some time ago along with half a hundred goldfish.

At that time Tad looked just like a fish. Of course, he didn't have any bright colors to brag about, but the artistically goldfish recognized him casually and, as "Mellicia" would say, he soon became "one of the most popular members of the aquarium younger set."

When Glands Swell Blood Needs Attention

Even a Sweat Gland May Result in Severe Consequence.

In our intricate body the use of S. S. S. for the blood has a most remarkable influence. We little realize our glandular system. It may be a tiny bulb no bigger than a pin point, and yet if a disease germ gets into it, there is a tremendous swelling. It becomes a "blood boil," a carbuncle, it may be a "blood rising," and it is often a source of continuous misery if not checked.
