CORN AND OATS ARE LOWER

No wheat was sold on the locasil ex-change today. The wheat market was quoted nominally 3c lower and the hold-ers of this cereal refused to let go at that wice. at price.

Corn receipts continue light and with hir a fair demand the corn dropped from
to the and oats be lower.

The wheat market is in an oversold conits put in an army of shorts with profits put in an appearance and absorbed at least a part of the offerings pressing for sale, the declines would have been sensational.

export buying here formed only an offset in part. Big sales at the seaboard strengthened the July delivery of oats.
September, however, eased off on account of crop advices of a decidedly bearish sort.

Buying credited to packers carried provisions sharply higher. The orders to purchase came with semething of a whirl during the late bulge in wheat.

CATTILE—Only a moderate run of cattle showed up today, about 2,800 head, or less than half as many as were here last Thursday. The quality, however, was very fair and on account of the limited offerings it looked as if the demand was rather better than on Wednesday, Prices ranged from steady to a shade stronger, but considering the fact that the cattle sid not take on a very good fill on account of the weather, the bulk of the sales will show up very litle better than yesterday. Prime yearlings are still quoted up around 39.0, while the best of the heavy cattle are bringing around 3.75. For choice beeves this is about 10c lower than a week ago, while the general run of medium and heavy cattle show declines ranging from 10c to 20c.

The market for cows and heifers did not show the same activity that characterized the trade yesterday and except on choice heifer stock values were a shade lower. Local prices for she stock have been high as compared with other points for some time and all classes of buyers showed a disposition to cheapen up if possible boday. As compared with a week ago values show very little change. Weal calves, buils, stags, etc., were in usual good request and quotably about steady. Business in stockers and feeders was very late. Strictly choice lightweight stuff found a good outlet at firm figures, but on the general run of stock cattle and feeding steers the trade was singgish and prices very uneven. As compared with a week ago there has been no particular change.

to Steal Bullion 'At an early hour yesterday one of two thieves shot Joseph Sherlock, night watchman at the plant of the American Smelting and Refining company, in the leg. However, Sheriock saved the bullion that the men were trying to steal.

A car of bullion arrived during the night and was switched to the smelter yards. Between midnight and daylight

Shorlock noted two men near the car. He approached where they where they were standing and ordered them away. They went, but before doing so, one of them fired a revolver, the bullet passing through the fleshy part of Sherlook's leg, between the thigh and the knee. They then escaped. Sherlock was taken to the Clarkson hospital. While somewhat painful, his wound is not considered
