VERY one seems to be getting into line for tea drinking. Tea, tea, is the prevailing sine-qua-non everywhere. At the Chicago Little theater tea is being served during the intermissions at all performances, adapting the fashion of gay Paris, which even in these strenuous times is taking time for the cup of the soothing herb.

I was at an informal tea Monday where the men were very enthusiastic over their tea cups; whether they anticipate the event of Omaha becoming a dry town and are getting in line for the conditions of such an event or not, nevertheless they enjoyed the aroma as only true devotees can.

Many Apply for Jobs at New Fontenelle, but All Are Filled

Over 600 applications for jobs in the new $1,000,000 Fontenelle hotel have already been received by Abraham Burbank, assistant manager, who says that the persons asking for positions write from all parts of the country. Most of the positions at the new hostelry have already been filled.

Two more heads of departments have arrived in Omaha to take up their duties and arrange for the opening of the hotel March 1. They are H. V. Clark, manager of the Fontenelle's laundry, and Robert E. Whitney, who will manage the hotel's own printing shop. Both come from Hotel Onondaga, the Syracuse (N. Y.) hotel which William R. Burbank managed before he became president of the company that will operate the Fontenelle. The printing shop in the hotel is intended for getting out menu cards and other printed matter promptly, so that new cards can be prepared for each meal, without depending upon outside shops. The Fontenelle laundry will be one of the most complete in Omaha. Mr. Burbank says, and will do all the laundry work for guests, including collars and shirts, as well as flat laundry work on the hotel linen used in the numerous dining rooms and hundreds of bed rooms.
