Guggenheim Favors Profit Sharing and Increased Inheritance Taxes

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Taxation of large fortunes, upon the death of their owners, to aid the poor, the establishment of government agencies to find work for the unemployed and provision for the comfort of aged workers, were advocated by Daniel Guggenheim, president of the American Smelting and Refining company today at the inquiry by the federal commission on industrial relations into the causes of industrial unrest.

Mr. Guggenheim said that as a capitalist he favored these measures despite the fact that they constitute some of the cardinal ideas of socialism. He also advocated "industrial democracy," where in the worker received a portion of the profit derived from the products of his labor.

The witness said the American Smelting and Refining company had installed many devices to improve labor conditions and to raise the standard of efficiency. The company found that by so doing the output was increased and business generally was improved.

The witness said emphatically that he did not believe laborers in smelting and refining works should be permitted to work more than eight hours a day.

"And it will continue to increase unless remedial measures are taken," he said.

"The trouble is we haven't had enough legislation. We are away behind Europe. We need more business legislation."

Mr. Guggenheim said he "did not want to advertise" the philanthropic organizations with which he was connected.

"Many people don't want charity," he said. "They want work. The state should find it for them. The state should tax great fortunes when they come out and thereby provide money to take care of the people until they can get along."

The increased high cost of living, the witness believed, was the cause of unrest among workers. Wage earners, he thought, had a much right to organize as capitalists; the American Smelting and Refining company had no objection to organizers going among the employees, provided they did not interfere with the operation of the plants. Mr. Guggenheim said he believed industrial discontent was on the increase and had been for many years.

He said he did not believe the great philanthropic organizations were doing the work they were supposed to do.

SCHOOL LAND VALUES LOW

Commissioner Beckman Seeking Fund with Which to Make General Reappraisal.

ARTHUR COUNTY COMPLAINS

Flagrant abuses of the school land lease laws, by which the state has been mulcted of a very large amount of money in the past, will be remedied, according to Land Commissioner Beckman, if the legislature will grant him $2,000 for the expense of reappraisal.

Mr. Beckman has written the Arthur County Homeowners' league a letter to this effect. The letter answers a complaint received from the league by Senator Bushee and Representative Reiser and referred to the land commissioner.

Little Revenue Results.

The investigations conducted by the league disclosed that of forty-two sections of school land in Arthur county taken up and sold, the records, the state netted the paltry sum of $27.54 a year. In the last year, according to the committee, not a single section of privately owned land in the county has been leased for less than $50 and a great many were leased for more than $100.

Included in the school land are many sections of hay land worth from $50 to $1,200 a year, according to the committee. Moreover, the spirit of the law is violated and single individuals hold many sections for as low as 15 cents an acre. Thirty-one of the forty-two sections are appraised at this sum.

Funds Were Lacking. Mr. Beckman says in his answer that the lands should have been reappraised years ago, but that the funds have been lacking. During his term he has had the funds for reappraising only eight counties. These counties showed an increase in valuation of $24,351, amounting

Most Old People Are Constipated

The wear of years impairs the action of the bowels. With advancing age people are disposed to restricted activity and exercise, which is responsible for the constipated condition of most old folks. The digestive organs are more sensitive to the demands upon them and rebel more quickly.

A mild, effective remedy for constipation, and one that is especially suited to the needs of elderly people, women and children, is the combination of simple laxative herbs with certain that is sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Dress Warm and Keep Feet Dry

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Take Salts and Get Rid of Uric Acid.

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat less meat, dress as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and, above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity.

In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

Here you have a pleasant, effective uric acid-water drink which overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.—Advertisement.
