DEEP SNOW COVERS THE ENTIRE STATE

New Fall Ranges from Two to Eighteen Inches and Will Be Big Help to All Crops.

NO DAMAGE TO LIVE STOCK

Nebraska awoke to find its face covered with from two to eighteen inches of new snow, it being the fall of Thursday and Thursday night. This was the report that came to the railroads from their agents and division superintendents. According to these reports, there was no locality in the state that was missed by the snowstorm.
In most localities the snow continued falling until well into the night, when it cleared and the temperature began to drop. It degrees below at Nebraska City being the coldest. However, there were other cold spots and the Burlington stations that sent in weather reports, fifty in Nebraska showed zero and below. It was apparently the coldest through the east and central portions of the state. Palmer and Ericson reported 15 below; Seward and Sargent, 11; Hastings and Stromsburg, 12, with Aurora, Loup City, Central City, Broken Bow, Epping and a score of other towns 8 to 10 below.

Heaviest to East. The snow appears to be the heaviest along the Missouri river in the northern and southern portions of the state. Through these sections the railroads found the snowfall from four to eight inches, with two feet in the Black Hills to the north and in a good many portions of Wyoming. Out in the central and western portions of the state there was from two to eight inches of snow. So far as the railroads are concerned the storm is not giving any concern. Accompanying it there was little or no wind, and consequently it has not drifted any except on some of the high table lands where there are no cuts. Trains were practically all on time and trainmen coming in from the west report clear, calm and cold weather. They assert that farmers and ranchmen have not sustained any stock losses on account of the storm. All of the animals were given shelter before the storm set in and kept there until it ceased.
