

FATHER DOWLING CALLED BY DEATH

Noted Educator and Former Head of Creighton University Succumbs After Long Illness.

FUNERAL MAY BE IN OMAHA

Father Michael P. Dowling, for fourteen years president of Creighton university, and since 1908 pastor of St. Aloysius church, a large Catholic parish in Kansas City, died at 5 o'clock Saturday morning in Kansas City. Death was caused by a chronic disease of the stomach, according to a telegram received at Creighton university. His death and that of his brother, Father James Dowling, of Chicago, last week, removed two of the most prominent priests of the west. Funeral services will be held Tuesday morning at 9:30 from St. John's church in Omaha.

Father Dowling is credited with the principal share in the upbuilding of Creighton university. Since he has been in Kansas City Rockhurst college, a Jesuit institution, has been built there as a result of his efforts.

He first came to Omaha in the summer of 1888. A previous year of higher educational work in Detroit had discovered in him the possession of uncommon administrative ability, a circumstance which led to his being appointed to control Creighton university, then in its infancy. To his upbuilding Father Dowling gave, altogether, fourteen of the best years of his life. Beyond doubt, it owes to him a very large measure of its success. When he took charge in 1888 it was little more than a struggling academy with less than 200 students. For four years he labored to hold the destiny of the academy towards a full collegiate course, and then, in 1892, shortly after the college courses were introduced, he was transferred to Michigan and became president of Detroit college. After five years of strenuous service as head of that school, since grown into the University of Detroit, and four years more of ministerial work in Chicago and Milwaukee, he returned to Omaha in the autumn of 1898.

Years of Hard Work.

The ten years that followed until his final departure from Omaha, in 1908, were full of work. Father Dowling gave himself heart and soul to the interests of the university, adding colleges of law, pharmacy and dentistry, solidly establishing the various departments, providing first class facilities for them, constructing new buildings as needed, supplying the fine library and laboratory facilities, and, with the generous help of the late John A. Creighton, securing the financial future of the institution.

Father Dowling was a deep student of sociological questions and conditions. His opinions on such topics, whether put forth in conversation or in writing or public discourse commanded attention. He was a stout believer in a great future for Omaha, and made many friends here by his outspoken devotion to its interests and his general public spirit.

When Mr. Creighton's will was opened after his death, it was found that, not having any immediate heirs, he had bequeathed a large share of his estate to Creighton university, in fulfillment of intentions which he had frequently announced during his life. This was an immense relief to Father Dowling, who had been struggling for years to advance the university with very inadequate resources. He was greatly cheered, also, by the warm congratulations poured in upon him from the numerous friends and well-wishers of the institution. Shortly after Father Dowling left the scene of his life-work, on March 4, 1908, never to return.

Modest at Departure.

On the eve of his departure the students of the university thronged the arts auditorium to bid him farewell. He discouraged a movement for a public demonstration, and when the University Alumni association and many citizens eminent in the professional and business life of Omaha insisted on a farewell banquet at the Hotel Home, he begged them to give it the form of a reception to his successor, Father Eugene A. Magevney, who had arrived the day before.

Rev. M. P. Dowling was born in Cincinnati, O., June 14, 1851. He was educated in the parochial schools. He began early a life of study and a search for wisdom and had a passion for books, and his library is said to be one of the most complete in the middle west. He seemed to have dedicated his life to learning and to teaching and had contributed numerous articles to religious publications.

Father Dowling's speciality, as a teacher, was rhetoric. He was professor of that study at St. Xavier's college, at Cincinnati from 1876 to 1878. From there he moved to St. Louis where he became professor of rhetoric at the St. Louis university from 1878 to 1879. He moved to Detroit, Mich., and was professor of rhetoric from 1880 until 1894.

He was appointed pastor of the Holy Family church in Chicago, and remained there from 1894 until 1897, when he moved to Milwaukee and became pastor of the Gesù church from 1897 until 1908. The last church of which he was the pastor was St. Aloysius church, in Kansas City, Mo.

He was a most interesting speaker and gave many addresses on religious, social and economic subjects. He was a persuasive speaker and his voice was strong and melodious.

Israel Aid Society Is to Give a Ball

The third annual ball of the Daughters of Israel Aid society will be held at Chambers' academy this evening. The proceeds will go toward the opening of the Jewish Old People's Home, located on the southeast corner of Twentieth and Devonport streets, which was purchased about two years ago.

The home would have been opened some time ago, but the tornado and European war prevented. It is planned to open it this spring.

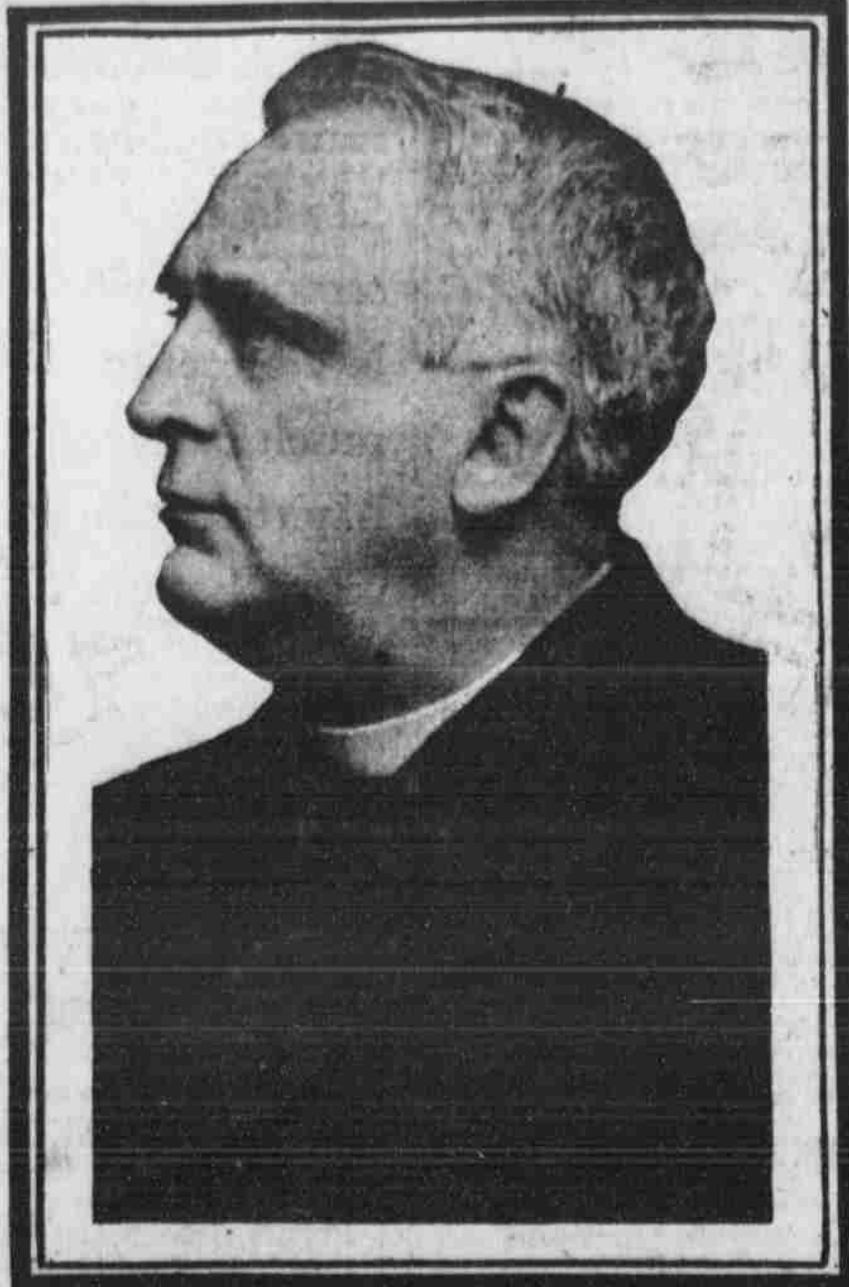

This organization has 60 members in Omaha and suburbs. The officers are: Mrs. Skavia, president; Mrs. J. Kulakofsky, vice president; Mrs. J. Steinberg, secretary; Mrs. M. Tatal, treasurer. The following is the ball committee:

Sears Orders Lads to Dig Hole, Then Fill It With Dirt

Juvenile Judge Sears sentenced four boys, all 14 to 15 years old, whom he convicted of stealing automobile fixtures, to spend next Saturday morning digging a hole in the ground at Riverview home, then to refill it with dirt in the afternoon.

The boys were Irwin Hall, 1115 Manderson street; Harold Coffey, 1617 Manderson street; Dale Forsberg, 1786 Manderson street; and Bolomon Ramsey, 1808 North Seventeenth street.

"I want to show you how useless your efforts are when they are not employed in useful and proper directions," said the judge.

DO NOT LOSE THEIR IDENTITY

Spanish Women on Marriage Simply Add Husband's Name to Their Own.

Senora De Baralt, who is sent as a delegate from the Havana Women's club to the Domestic Science and Pure Food exposition held in Boston this month, laughs a little at the forename which is attached to her name in this country when they declare that they wish to keep their maiden name after marriage.

"That isn't such a startling or unheard-of plan," said the senora in an interview. "A Spanish woman never gives up her maiden name at marriage. She merely adds her husband's name to her own, and to her intimate friends she is more often known by her maiden name than by that of her husband. In Spanish the prefix 'de' does not signify nobility as it does in some other countries. It is simply the link that tacks on the name of a husband."

The progress of the Cuban women dates only from the American occupation in 1898, says Senora Baralt. "Native Cuban women began to come to Harvard summer school in 1900 to train for teachers. Now there are over 4,000 women teachers. This year 100 women graduated from the School of Pharmacy. Cuba boasts a woman lawyer who has been so successful that she is now given government assignments."

ALL DANCES STANDARDIZED

Omaha Folks Will Be Able to Join in the Dance Now Wherever They May Go.

NEW DANCES ARE INCLUDED

No longer will dancers have to learn their steps all over again each time they attend a dance in a different city. All the latest steps now have been standardized, so that the method of dancing them will be uniform throughout the country. Dancers from Omaha will feel perfectly at home on a ball room floor at Atlantic City, or even Paris, as the result of the standardization, dancing teachers say, as the numerous faddish steps, learned locally heretofore, will be abolished.

The standardization is the result of efforts begun last year by the American National Association of Masters of Dancing, of which Prof. William E. Chambers of Omaha is rhythmic instructor, a director and district chairman. He has just received a copy of detailed descriptions of all the latest dances, as standardized by the New York Society of Teachers of Dancing and approved by the Congress of Dancing Societies of America at their meeting in New York December 27.

Prof. Chambers and all other members of the national association are teaching the new dances only according to the standardized system, he says. Among the dances, upon the uniform teaching of which the dancing masters have agreed, are the one-step, opera waltz, hesitation waltz, maxixe, syncopated waltz, Pas Bottine, fox trot, lulu fado, Parisian tango, La Russa, Brazilian polka and La Balancello.

CAN'T FEAZE HOTEL CLERK

Bughouse Caller Talked to a Standstill on Awful History.

While a reporter was waiting at a hotel desk for some happening to break the monotony of an almost endless day, a tall, thin man, with long hair, strolled in and up to the place where visitors record their names. He smiled pleasantly. Then his gaze was caught by the initial Tiffany glass in the marble case of the room rack. He felt it with his fingers and looked reminiscient.

"Ah! I remember now," he said after a moment. "I have stopped at this hotel before."
"Ah! indeed," said the room clerk.
"Yes, but it was centuries ago." He put his hand to his forehead. "Ah! it was in Pompeii. You know, I am a believer in reincarnation."

"Well, well!" exclaimed the room clerk, putting out his hand in the usual fashion. "I remember you quite well. But you will recall that at that time we were at the Hotel Vesuvius, which stood on the ### corner of Hercules avenue and Main street

The stranger drew back, but the room clerk had got well started.
"You will remember that complaint you made that Michaelis Murphico, our head porter, had overcharged you for two ring-side seats in the arena that afternoon of the eruption. Well, we found out you were right, and I put the money, three austerly fifty, in the safe, and I have been waiting all these years for you to come back."

The man who had been reincarnated had been watching the clerk with jaw dropping further at each word. Finally, as the receipt book was produced, he clasped both hands to his head and started for the front door on a run.
The room clerk grinned. "That's the only way you can shake a nut," he remarked.—New York Times.

A LEAF FROM MEMORY'S BOOK

Bright Hopes of Youth Spur Onward, but Remain Unfulfilled.

When one is past middle life memory begins to unfold its pages. He sees his youth, not as his own, but as that of another. He is touched with sadness and pity as he recognizes the plans and ambitions, the high hopes in the youth that he has seen. Experience has shown him how never to be realized. One hope after another had to be given up. Indeed, it seems sometimes that life is but a giving up day after day. Anticipations are seldom realized. Perhaps it is best that this should be; for the same experience that brought disappointments showed us that often as we thought we knew what would make us perfectly happy we were nearly always mistaken. It was the anticipation really that went furthest toward making us happy. When it was over it had served its purpose; another took its place.

So, as memory turns the leaves, we sigh a little at those bright hopes of youth destined forever to be unfulfilled. After all, it mattered little. Each of us had some share in the world's work to do. How little it mattered that that share was not what we had guessed and wished it to be, or it was performed faithfully! How many things the bright dreams of youth failed to take into account that were to prove the greatest part of the business of life! We are feeble in judgment; we do not always know how to trim ourselves, nor see exactly what form our lives should take. Vicissitudes flip us here and there, often where we have least suspected the need of it. But the failure of the dreams should not grieve us.

After all, their real purpose was to give us hope and courage and make us work. If they did that, they were worth while, though not a single one was ever fulfilled.—Milwaukee Journal.

LIGHT BILL ACTION IN DOUBT

Charges Made Real Estate Exchange Packed When Measure Was Endorsed.

MAY COME UP A THIRD TIME

How many ineligible voted at the Real Estate exchange meeting last Wednesday when that body rescinded its former action and endorsed the electric light bill? This is what some of the members want to know. Such a gathering of real estate men as was that day present at the meeting had not been seen in the Real Estate exchange rooms for two years.

It is charged that a number who were not qualified voted. The constitution of the organization provides that one who is thirty days behind in payment of dues has no voice in a meeting. Eleven of those who voted for the endorsement of the bill were in arrears in their dues, since January, it is charged.

May Reconsider Again.
Thus, again the electric light bill question is likely to raise its gory head in the Real Estate exchange meeting next Wednesday. First the bill was opposed by action of the exchange. The next week with the meeting packed with members who are favorable to the bill, the former action was rescinded, and the bill was endorsed. Some members are talking of bringing it up a third time.

At the meeting a week ago members opposed to the bill were surprised to see so many old members present, members who do not attend a meeting once in two years. "We felt then like calling for an enforcement of the rule barring from a vote those who have not paid their dues," said Harry Tukey, "but as this would have disqualified eleven of them, we didn't have the heart to do it. However, now that we have looked up the matter and are sure of the number of delinquents who voted it is a serious question whether it should be considered that the exchange has really expressed its mind on the light question or not. It is likely to be brought up again for reconsideration."

Easily Explained.

Wallabach was in decided hallaballoo, for King Topnot had not enjoyed his dinner.

Various dusky offenders of the law covered in their hats, trembling lest the monarch's wrath should demand their poor heads.

Dusky damsels tried in vain to woo their king to good humor, but all in vain. "Fetch the cook!" he thundered at last. Trembling in every limb, the honored chef made his bow.

"What was that dish of white meat?" demanded the chief, his hawk resting lightly on his mighty tomahawk.

"Braised motorcyclist, O most wonderful and wise!"

"He tasted very burnt," meaningly remarked he of the blood royal, half rising from his seat, still clasping his tomahawk.

"Mercy, O beautiful and good!" exclaimed the chief, falling on his knees hurriedly. "He was scorching when we caught him, O king!"

Pardoned!

Faces As Fair As A Summer's Day

Are Possible If Stuart's Calcium Wafers Are Used for Each Meal.

Many people have been heard to say that they used creams and lotions for years without effect, yet after five or six days of Stuart's Calcium Wafers their complexions were perfectly clear.

"I got rid of blackheads in a jiffy by using Stuart's Calcium Wafers."

It's easy to understand why. Creams and lotions only get at the surface, while Stuart's Calcium Wafers go right into the blood and instead of a sluggish deposit in the skin the impurities that cause skin diseases are destroyed in the perspiration that is exhaled through the pores in the form of invisible vapor. You'll never have a good complexion without pure blood. Then you possibly will have a fine, beautiful complexion if you use Stuart's Calcium Wafers.

They contain no poisonous drug of any kind, are perfectly harmless, and can be taken with absolute freedom, and they work almost like magic. Calcium Sulphide, their principal ingredient, is the greatest blood-cleanser known to science. No matter how bad your skin may be, Stuart's Calcium Wafers will quickly work wonders with it. It's good-bye to blackheads, pimples, acne, boils, rash, eczema and a dirty "filled-up" complexion. You can get a box of Stuart's Calcium Wafers at any drug store at 50 cents a box, and you will be positively delighted with their wonderful effect. A small sample package mailed free by addressing P. A. Stuart Co., 175 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

You Want the Best? Then Make This at Home.

A splendid quick acting cough syrup and cold cure. It has no equal for prompt action and permanent effects on children or adults. Immediate results is the pleasing feature. Cheapness is another. Permanent system cleansing another. Not constipating, still another. Those who have used it, swear by it, and recommend to neighbors and friends.

Obtain a 2 1/2 oz. package of Essence Mentho-Laxene, empty it into a pint bottle. Then pour a half pint of boiling water over a pint of granulated sugar. Stir and cool. Then fill up the pint bottle with syrup. Full directions for use accompany each package of the essence.—Advertisement.
