SEES BATTLE CLOSE AT HAND

German Telephone Operator Gives Intimate Description of Modern Battle.

WIRES HAVE CENTER IN DUGOUT

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.) BERLIN, Jan. 11 .- A Hamburg soldier, who acted as telephone operator in the latest fighting at Solssons, had a remarkable view of the operations from his dug-

"My den," he writes, "suddenly became the meeting place for officers, and for several days it has borne the name: 'Central Telephone Station of Field Artillery." The name says enough to explain itself. All orders pass through my wires, giving directions for our artillery fire at important points.

"Outside we hear the wild rage of the pattle. Suddenly our dug-out seems to be caving in; stones crumble from the roof; we stop breathing and a terrible pressure in the air seems about to flatten our chests. What was that? The younger soldiers tremble and grow pale, but the veterans give a quick and meaning glance, and the new men who have not yet been in battle recover themselves and proceed calmly with their work. It was after all only a little ten-inch bomb. The veterans know that it did not fall directly over our dug-out and proceed with their telaphone work, knowing that any delayed message might cost much German blood. Meanwhile the tide of battle is turning back and forth.

"'Our infantry is falling back and has lost connection with adjoining troops. The first and third companies of the regiment have disappeared: or 'Height No. must be stormed at once.' 'The First bat-WATCH—Ladies' gold watch, worth $7.00; also fine hand-crotchet dresser scarf, just finished, worth $10.00, for good cut glass water set; also have all kinds of fine hand-crochet work which I will swap for hand-painted dishes or cut glass, of what you have, or will sell for cash. Horses dash away in a mad panic, and men creep forth from under capsized gun carriages and calssons and limp away in search of cover. They nearly succeed, when a little white cloud is suddenly seen, and the tottering figures and everything around is mowed down.

That was one of our shrapnels. Black Coffee in Lieu of Food. The smoke had cleared away and our field artillery is shooting at more important game a field battery in the road, which is now at rest forever. 'Hurrah!' is shouted through the telephone, with the announcement: 'Cuffles has been taken completely, also the height 137 (naming a little fort). Enthusiasm for a moment and then the telephone service
