GRAIN AND PRODUCE MARKET

Wheat, Corn and Oats All Fall in Price and Close with the Market Weak.

EXPORTS BIG DURING WEEK

OMAHA. Feb. 20, 1915.
Export clearances of breadstuffs from North America this week were enormous. The figures, including flour as wheat, make up a grand total of 10,227,428 bu. While it is a difficult matter to secure the export sales of grain from day to day, as the various export concerns are closed. the export sales of grain from day to day, as the various export concerns are close-mouthed, the sales yesterday were estimated at 1.00,000 bu, of corn and 25,000 bu, as a corn corn all rall, and said that the cars have been ordered to load the grain immediately. There was some question as to the correctness of the sales of cash corn on Thursday, and it is generally believed that there are times when these sales are duplicated. There is more wheat arriving at the ports of Argentina, as the visible supply there increased 1,100,000 bu, against 2,300,000 bu, a year ago. Clearances from the seaboard for the day were 885,-000 bu.

from the seaboard for the day were 888,600 bu.

Corn and oats both suffered price recessions yesterday, with the volume of export business reported as small, when compared with that of yesterday.

The early strength in grain held the market for hog products steady during the opening hour, but the western hog receipts were again very heavy, and there was some selling by longs. The close was weak, with prices fractionally lower.

Omaha spot market:

Wheat was 19256 lower.

Corn was 19256 lower.

Clearances were: Wheat and flour equal to 1,235,000 bu; corn, 217,000 bu, and oats, 32,000 bu.

Liverpool closed with corn %d higher.

Primary wheat receipts were 799,000 bu, and shipments 787,000 bu, against receipts of 734,000 bu, and shipments of 325,000 bu.

which ensued, however, cash and export houses were persistent buyers of the May delivery.

This circumstance and the fact that some foreign business was said to have been done at the seaboard and in Kansas City led to a reaction, which was afterwards duplicated with increased force, owing in part to word that miliers were buying at Minneapolis.

Fears that exports from the United States might be gravely interfered with prevented the rallies in the wheat market from assuming a lasting character. Advices regarding the energetic attacks on the forts of the Dardanelles came too late to affect the market.

Corn was under pressure from the bears the greater part of the day. Domestic buying for industries was something of an offset at one time, but the influence of the big visible supply and of the wheat weakness could not well be conquered. Seaboard assertions of a big export call for oats were ineffectual to overcome in that cereal the results of the depression of other grains. Traders also ignored references to the paucity of farm reserves.

Provisions showed decided weakness, especially pork. It was said packers were figuring on big arrivals of hogs next Following is the range of prices:

Review tomorrow will say:

Some further progress is noted in the direction of increased trade, although conditions are very irregular and do not apply with equal accuracy to all sections and all branches of business. The west, owing to the great demand by prices for wheat is more prosperous than other parts of the country. Conditions in the south have been improved by the larger exports of cotton.

While the business situation is still controlled by conservatism prompted by unprecedent world conditions it is steadily gaining in strength and activity, and the rate of progress, while it teems slow from week to week, is remarkable indeed when measured by months.

che little Belgian town of Ypres, around which the allies and Germans are now battling furiously, comes as an absolute stranger and without significance. Still, in the heydey of its greatness and prosperity Ypres ranked as large in the civilized world as Philadelphia, Chicago, Berlin and other big citles do today. Indeed, it was a splendid city when Berlin was a mere hamlet of half-civilized Slave.

It was in the days of the commercial greatness of Venice that Ypres attained the summit of its prosperity. It was an important distributing center for the traffic which came up through the Adriatic by hoat, was carried overland and then scattered from Belgium to England. France, Holland, Germany and other functions are the summit of the fourteenth century its tures, and in the fourteenth century its tures, and in the fourteenth century its tures, and in the fourteenth century its of the largest cities in Europe. Ghent and Bruges, its near neighbors, were no less prosperous. With the changing of the trade routes of Europe the wealth and population of Ypres disappeared, until it has now less than 20,000 people.

Clearing House Bank Statement of the actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows that they hold $137,174,450 reserved in excess of legal requirements. This is a decrease of $2,689,900 from last week. The statement follows: Clearing House Bank Statement.

When one reads of the rise and decline of these communities which flourished long before America was discovered, it is interesting to speculate whether the same fate will overtake our own cities. Who can tell? To us their foundation seems substantial, but doubtless the worthy burghers of Ypres thought the same of their beloved city 800 years ago. Now French and German soldiers are fighting around it, quite ignorant of the fact that Prench and German soldiers are lighting around it, quite ignorant of the fact that in size and wealth it once exceeded their own Paris and Berlin.—Philadelphia Record.
