DIES WITH FACE TO ENEMY

Pierre Leroy Beaulieu, Member of French Parliament, Gives Life in Defense of Country.

GRAVE NOW MARKED BY CROSS

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.) PARIS, Feb. 25.—Pierre Leroy-Beaulieu, son of the economist Paul Leroy-Beaulieu, is the latest member of Parliament to give his life for his country.

He had already shown his courage in a particularly violent political campaign in which he braved several attacks and received a bullet in his shoulder. According to the following letter from a German surgeon announcing his death, he showed the same courage on the battle field.

A. La C.—Madame, I am with the expression of deepest sympathy that I inform you that your husband, captain of a group of revolutionaries, of the —th regiment of infantry, died yesterday in the hospital of a wound in the head while fighting with the bravery of a hero. After all his gunners had fallen he himself served his piece, when he was finally obliged to cease firing he continued to defend himself with his revolver until struck by a bullet in the temple which affected his right eye.

He was wounded January 11. The wound was so grave that he immediately lost consciousness and did not recover his senses before his death, which was peaceful and painless.

The burial took place today in our military cemetery with military honors and in the presence of German officers as well as soldiers. The tomb has been marked by a cross identified by the number 75. The benediction was pronounced by a Catholic priest of our own division. I bow humbly and in full admiration before the valiance of this brave fighting heroically to the last extremity for his fatherland.

It is painful to me that our medical service, which did everything it could, was unable to save such a precious life for his dear ones.

May God console you and your children. Chief Surgeon Ambulance No. 3, Third German Army Corps.

Mrs. R. C. Cushing is Dead at Los Angeles. A telegram received by relatives in Omaha announced the death, Friday evening, of Mrs. Richard C. Cushing at her home in Los Angeles, Cal. The immediate cause of death was nervous breakdown and depression due to the death of her husband some four years ago, and her son, Thomas, about two years ago.

Mrs. Cushing was the widow of Richard C. Cushing, well known railroad contractor and mayor of Omaha in 1904. The family resided in Omaha for about twenty years and their home at Twenty-fifth and Douglas streets was a center of social activity and the scene of innumerable social functions. Mrs. Cushing was a gracious, whole-hearted hostess, whose unaffected kindness and generosity endeared her to all acquaintances.

Surviving Mrs. Cushing are two sons, Richard and Harry; three daughters, Laura, Lucille and Blanche, and four sisters, Mrs. Templeton, Mrs. Goodhue, Mrs. Moclarty and Miss Margaret O'Keefe, the latter a resident of Omaha. Mrs. Cushing's remains will be buried beside those of her husband and son at Los Angeles.

PURCHASES INTEREST IN MYTHICAL SHOW TROUPE

Mr. and Mrs. C. Mack of St. Louis are under arrest on complaint of Herman Carey of Grafton, Ill., who informed the local police Mr. Mack obtained $250 from him under false pretenses.

Carey answered an ad in a St. Louis paper calling for the services of a young man to take a position as treasurer for a theatrical troupe. The applicant should be able to buy an interest in the company.

Carey asserts he corresponded with Mack, eventually accepted the position and paid $250 toward his share of an interest in the show, which Mack declared was located at Popular Bluffs, Mo.

After traveling from St. Louis to Des Moines, from Des Moines to Jacksonville, Ill., and from there to Omaha to "book engagements," Carey grew suspicious and had his companions placed under arrest.

NO BAR ON ENGLISH TONGUE

Germans Must Become Proficient and Able to Converse, Says Albert Bockelmann.

SLOGAN TO BE LEARN ENGLISH

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.) BERLIN, Feb. 25.—The much mooted plan to abolish the study of English in the German public schools is strongly opposed by Albert Bockelmann, director of the Ulzen Higher academy, in an interview in the Rheinisch-Westfaliaische Zeitung. He asserts that, much as the patriotic students may regret it, English will undoubtedly continue to be the trade language of the world and that, so far from ceasing to learn it, Germans should become proficient in it.

Quite as unreasonable as the proposition is to put the ban on English in Germany, he says, is the talk in England to forego German in favor of "simple, rich and musical" Russian, Serbian, Finnish or Japanese. The Germans, he asserts, might as well take up Turkish.

"Even the most brilliant victory over England," declares Herr Bockelmann, "and its various dependencies, will not mean that English as a universal trade language will be easily displaced. More than ever before, if we are to live the practical life, the slogan must be, 'Learn English.'"

After the War. "That after the war the world will have to learn German, we believe to be a fact. Even England will have to take an interest in the language of the German barbarians in spite of the wealth, simplicity and music of Russian. And the national consciousness of the German-American has been so strengthened by the war that the care and growth of the German language in North America is certain to be promoted."

"Our beautiful, virile, well constructed German tongue would suffer endlessly if it were to become the universal medium of every-day intercourse. Wherever we may require it—and we hope that we shall require it—the world will have to find it convenient to speak German. But it were a terrible pity for it to become the jargon of universal ports and the patter of the highways and byways of the world. German must be the language of masters."

Alarm of Fire Comes from Opera House

NEW YORK, March 5.—An alarm of fire was turned in this afternoon from the Grand Opera house in Brooklyn while a matinee was in progress. The fire, which was due to defective insulation, was extinguished without difficulty. No one in the audience knew, it was said, that there had been a fire. There was no excitement.

The Price of COMBS Solid Silverware is within reason and within reach. There are a great many people now using silver-plated ware who would replace it with fine solid silverware if they realized how inexpensive solid silver really is.
