THE OMAHA BEE—THE HOME PAPER

Society

By MELLIFLOIA. Wednesday, March 10, 1915.

WEARING a new 1915 model decollete gown for the first time at a dinner party is regarded by a certain Omaha society woman to be one of the most exciting of indoor sports.

She had a coming-out in her new creation Monday evening at a function where sundry and satisfying viands were served. Her new gown was outre de rigueur, recherche and a few other attributes which new gowns sometimes have.

YOUTHFUL CRITICS VIEW ART EXHIBIT

School Children Look Over the Pictures and Comment on Their Class and Value.

AUTHORITY ON PRICE SPEAKS

A thousand pairs of juvenile feet ran up and down the white marble stairs at the Fontenelle hotel on Wednesday and over the rich carpets and cluttered about the big ball room, where the art exhibition is going on.

Unawed by the magnificence which surrounded them, unterrified by the stern glances of maids and bellboys, they studied art.

They were there from the Kellom school to study art. That is why they studied it. Kind teachers had brought them on invitation of the Omaha Society of Fine Arts to sow a little seed in the callow soil of their minds which, some day, may sprout and bring forth Whistlers, Corots and Michael Angeles.

Picking Their Pictures. Each child was instructed to pick out the picture which he or she liked best. They will be called on to write the reasons for their liking and alas, they won't be able to fall back on that subterfuge of their elders at art exhibits who can and do say "There's something about that picture—I don't know—an elusive something—a sort of—er—you know—that makes me like it." Johnnie and Albertine must give reasons.

Three colored youths sat on a luxurious divan, programs in hand. They were approached with the query whether they had picked out the picture they liked best. All had and, strange to say, all had picked pictures in the same corner of the room. One expressed a great liking for "Hazy Morning on Fifty-ninth Street" which is owned by Mrs. John L. Webster. The second liked "A Summer Night" which is a most bizarre picture.

March the Month for Colds. Harden your system with Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey. It kills the cold germ. Cures the cough. Only 25c. All drug-gists.—Advertisement.

Fashion Hint

Mr. John A. Swanson will leave tonight, accompanied by his wife, daughter and nephew, for southern California, visiting the exhibitions at San Diego and San Francisco.

What could be more appropriate for the debutante than this charmingly simple dance gown of pale pink pussy willow tulle? Its bodice is surplice effect, with a rose corsage; wide draped girle and mauve bow, add to its charm, while the many fanned skirt gives it that quaint air that is so evident and fascinating this season.

more'n $27. The little girl was the center of a stormy argument. But she held her ground, maintaining that if it had cost more than $2 it wasn't worth it.

Important and authoritative. A youth approached, a sweet-clad youth. And upon his coat islets were sundry and diverse buttons containing such lofty sentiments as "Hello, Kiddo," "I'm the guy that got the 'ha' in Omaha," and advertisements for various food products and agricultural implements.

Claude observed the painting with calm and dignity. "Certainly, it cost more'n $2," he said. "You couldn't get it under $20."

"See!" cried the little girls to Margaret. But Margaret was not disconcerted.

"Um-m-m," murmured several little girls. "Aw, we've got one prettier 'n that," said a little black-haired maid in a red dress. "Ma bought it f'm a man that came around selling 'em an' it cost $2."

"Aw, $2! Don't you think this cost more'n $2?"

"Um-m-m," murmured several little girls.

"Huh!" she said. "Well, I wouldn't give over $3 for it."

And against such an argument what could the cries of all the little girls do and the wisdom of the erudite, dignified and button-covered Claude?

Four out of twenty-six jurors summoned for service in federal court failed to appear in the morning. Attorneys for both sides in the suit of Attorney John A. Moore against the Union Pacific railroad, for $100,000 alleged damages for personal injuries, desired to pick the jury from the full panel summoned, so examination of jurors was not begun until afternoon.
