Berge Hasn't Given Sign Since Primary

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 20.—(Special.)—The result of the primary Tuesday has been the cause of much speculation among those who thought they knew how to dope out a political situation. Just how far the feeling worked up against Governor Morehead will extend is not known. George W. Berge has not been seen since the result was known and his trusty lieutenants at noon today did not know whether a statement would be coming or not. His chief political advisor, John Gilligan, is deeply humiliated, or says he is, to think that the democrats of the state should nominate the governor over again.

TRACTORS ARE TRIED OUT

Forty-Eight Machines Are Tested Out at Fremont Exhibition.

LARGE CROWD IS INTERESTED

Farmers and Ranchers from All Over the Western Country Watch Progress of Mighty Plow Engines.

Forty-eight tractors were lined up and started work at the same time at the National Power Farming Demonstration at Fremont yesterday. The big field of 125 acres was converted in less than three hours from wheat stubble to plowed ground. No tractor was allowed to plow less than seven inches and some of them plowed much deeper than that.

It was a wonderful sight to look off across the field at the tractors placed at intervals in a row a mile long. Every type and make was there. There was the sixty-horse-power machine, which has recently been purchased by the Austrian government, but which the manufacturer is unable to deliver on account of the war. This is said to be the most powerful tractor in existence and pulls twenty-four plow bottoms. There were little one-man tractors, no larger than a small automobile, but turning up the earth to a good depth and moving quickly back and forth across the ground. There were tractors of every size and shape between.

Crowd Follows Work. Behind each machine, as it moved off across the field, a large crowd followed. It was estimated that there were between 12,000 and 15,000 people on the grounds yesterday, and even on the immense field that was used as a demonstration ground the crowd seemed enormous.

The demonstration is not only of interest to Nebraska farmers, who live close enough to go to Fremont for the day, but it is drawing farmers from all over the middle west. One man came from a distant state in his automobile, spending seven days on the way. Many families are camped near the grounds, and are spending the entire week watching the machines at work. There are farmers from North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, Colorado, Wyoming, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri and Iowa, and from all parts of Nebraska.

Up to yesterday evening the spectators were almost entirely farmers, with a sprinkling of Fremont people. Today is Omaha and Ak-Sau-Bon day, and the city people will have a chance to see the machines at work, and be impressed with the advance in farming methods over the day of the "man with the hoe."

Two Big Days. Today and tomorrow will be the big days at the demonstration. Many of the farmers have put in the first few days watching one machine after another. A large part of these men came with the intention of purchasing machines, and will decide during these last two days which tractor is best suited to the conditions on their farms. Already many sales have been made. One firm has reported that up to yesterday morning they had sold six tractors.

The National Power Farming Demonstration is the only opportunity the farmer has of seeing so many tractors at work. He may watch them day after day working under the same conditions under which they would work in his own fields, and thus be able to judge their capacity and their reliability. The farmer of the middle west is not slow in taking advantage of this great opportunity, as the crowds at Fremont demonstrate.

Heavy Hailstorm Hits Grand Island

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Aug. 20.—(Special Telegram.)—The heaviest hail experienced for several years fell over this vicinity about 5 o'clock this evening. The largest hailstones were about the size of small hen's eggs. Comparatively little damage was done, this being confined to glass in greenhouses, electric lines and unsecured window panes. Williams, the florist, had a loss approximating $1,000 and Ellsworth's green houses were damaged to the extent of $2,000. A dozen windows were shattered at the soldiers' home. For the greater part the hail fell straight, unaccompanied by severe wind.

CANDIDATES GIVE EXPENSE

Reports Are Being Filed in Office of Secretary of State.

SIX HUNDRED TO HAMMOND

Metcalfe Went Slightly Over This Figure in His Effort to Land Ahead of Governor Morehead.

LINCOLN, Aug. 20.—(Special.)—Candidates for office have begun to report their items of expense to the secretary of state as required by law. All of these with few exceptions show that the largest item was for printing and advertising. So far the following have reported: Rose L. Hammond reports that he spent $281.55 in his quest for the republican nomination for governor. Mr. Hammond was lucky in having a newspaper and print shop belonging to a company of which he is part owner and therefore the item of $206.24 for advertising and printing practically goes back into his own pocket.

George E. Hall, who wanted the democratic nomination for state treasurer and got it, paid out $254.43 for the campaign. He reports $125 of the amount for printing and advertising. Mr. Hall has been a candidate twice before but did not land.

The Cost to Maupin. Will M. Maupin got there this time and he did it on an expense of $97.06. Of the amount spent $12 was paid the World-Herald and $5 to a Bohemian paper for advertising. The rest of Maupin's newspaper brethren charged him nothing for a boost.

W. H. Young of Fremont, who was a candidate for the republican nomination for railway commissioner and failed to make it, placed $75 in the political hopper, $45 of it for printing and advertising.

James Pearson, who wanted to land the democratic nomination for lieutenant governor and failed to do it because two other democrats wanted the same job and there is no provision in the constitution for three lieutenant governors, spent $90.30 about $41 of it being for advertising.

Metcalfe's Expense. Richard L. Metcalfe, who came all the way from Washington with his three sons as assistants for the purpose of landing the democratic nomination for governor, spent $67.20 in the vain effort to round up more votes than Governor Morehead. He spent $22.85 for printing and $29.50 for postal cards and stamps. As he draws $10,000 a year from Uncle Sam, it was right that he should invest heavily in Uncle Sam's postoffice supplies.

Henry C. Peterson spent $54.90 trying to land the republican nomination for railway commissioner. As he did not spend very much, in this progressive age, where a man must pay for what he gets, he did not get very far.

Charles W. Pool is another newspaper man whose popularity with the press gang enabled him to get a lot of good advertising because he was a good fellow and popular with the boys. He admits he spent $64.40, of which $22.90 was for printing.

What It Cost Dell. James E. Dellspie spent $285 to capture the nomination from nine other fellows, who thought they wanted to represent the First congressional district in Washington, via the republican party. He advertised in thirty-six newspapers at a cost of $108.67.

Addison Wait, secretary of state for two terms, was so cock sure he could make it again that he spent $252.50 in the effort. He gave the State Journal $29.25; the Lincoln Herald, $23; the Lincoln Star, $25.20; the Omaha News, $14.40; and The Omaha Bee, $16.55. Other papers received $50.90.

Many Will Visit the Fair by Auto

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Aug. 20.—(Special.)—According to present indications this will be a bumper year for automobile excursions to the Nebraska state fair. Inquiries concerning checking facilities are so frequent that Secretary Metcalfe has announced that there will be adequate accommodations for automobile owners. There is an automobile check station and besides there is space for parking thousands of cars. Nebraska is the leading state in the union in the number of automobiles per capita. It is not unusual to see from 5,000 to 6,000 cars on the fair grounds at one time.

NICHOLS AND SIBLEY ARE NAMED FOR LEGISLATURE

MADISON, Neb., Aug. 20.—(Special.)—The official canvass will not change the result of yesterday primary. James Nichols was re-nominated for representative of twenty-fourth district, defeating F. L. Putney of Tilden. C. H. Sibley was nominated without contest by the democrats.
