

Semi-Pro. Hurler Loses His Game Allen, Have Through Persistency of Mates in Making Wretched Throws When Runners Are on Runway.

One swell rally, aided and abetted by Mesars. Congalton, Bell and Krueger, pulled the first game of the Sabbath ber gain matinee at Rourke park from the Links, 5 to 2, but a couple of hectie heaves, manipulated by Measrs. Krueger and Thomas cost Omaha the second battie. 2 to 1. The second game was a tough one for Roy Sanders to lose, but his mates were too prone to make costly errors.

The Rourkes opened the first fray by coring twice in the opening frame off Smith, official jinx of the Omaha club. Thomas, Burrell and Schleibner singled in succession, and Congalton lifted a sacrifice fly to Ailen, bringing about the said The Links scored two in the second when Thomason dropped Miller's fly and that gentleman went to second. A base on balis was issued to Blackburne nd Quillin sacrificed. Collins' hit sent Miller and Blackburne over.

Collins' single, Schreiber's two-bagger, an error by Schleibner and a sacrifice fly by McGaffigan gave Lloyd's gang of ball players two in the fifth. Omaha came back with one in the local half of of the same round. Krueger doubled and scored on King's drive through McGaf-

Game, Copped in Ninth. mith held the Rourkes tight until the Krueger's single over second scored the score. Score:

Thomas with the winning run. The second game was a heart-breaker. Cooney and Sanders heaved nicely until the fourth, when Omaha made the first run. Krug was hit in the tonneau, and was sacrificed to second by Thomason. Borrell's single past third sent him home. That was all that Omaha made as the Rourks sluggers fell down in the pinches from that time on.

In the fifth McGaffigan singled and stole second while Krueger and Sanders get mixed up on their signals, and Mo Gaffigan took third when the ball got past the Omaha catcher. Krueger made a bum heave to Burrell to catch Mc Gaffigan at third. The ball rolled into left field and the Lincoln shortstor started for home. Joe Bell made a per fect heave to the plate and Kruger stood waiting for McGaffigan to hit the plate. Instead, Snocks hit Krueger and the pill rolled to one side. Some classy exhibition of bum acting.

Not satisfied with this nifty piece of work the Rourkes decided to present Mc-Gaffigan with another run in the eighth. He bit a double to right and was sacrifixed to second by Lloyd. Miller hit a grounder which Burrell touched, but the ball caroned off his glove into the outstretched hands of Thomas, covering up the play. Thomas threw to the plate. The heave missed Krueger a foot, and the pill rolled to the grandstand. That cinched the game for the Links.
