WAR POPULAR IN GERMAN EMPIRE

Member of Reichstag Says Present Conflict Was Demanded by the People.

INTERVIEW WITH BERNSTORFF

Ambassador Says Germany is Bound to Win in End Because Its Cause is Just-Says War is Due to Jeniousy.

PARIS, Aug. 24, (6 a. m.)-Abbe Wetterle, a former member of the Reichstag from Alsace, writing for a morning paper, says that it is a mistake to believe the war was the work of either Emperor William or German officialdom. "It is," he says, "the will of the people of every degree who have been made to believe that the German race is superior to all others and ought to dominate the universe. The emperor would have com-

As a matter of fact, the troops under von Emmich which went to the assault of this strongly fortified position numbered only between 5,000 and 5,000 infantry and cavalry. The taking of Liege was one of the greatest military feats in modern times. What was expected to take weeks was accomplished in days by two brigades. Von Emmich was slightly wounded in the leg during the aftack, but did not relinquish command. The ambasador denied reports that the German crown prince had been wounded by an assassin in Berlin. Moreover, he added, the crown prince never had been wounded before Liege, for the simple reason that he was not at Liege, but in command of the troops at the fortress at

Strength of Germans. The German army, sweeping through Belgium, is fully 200,000 strong, according to estimates made by correspondents, and is preceded by a great screen of cavalry, reported to number 70,000.

There are divergent reports of movements of this great force, some correspondents saying that the Germans are marching straight to Lille and others that the objective is Valenciennes, another fortified French city, thirty miles southeast of Lille. But apart from these guesses, there are indications that the Germans are converging towards the southeast to the position occupied by

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.-The first of the specially chartered ships to bring American refugees of Europe, the Itlaian liner, Principe Di Udine, steamed into New York harbor today with 399 passengers. They had paid in the aggregate $200,000 for their passage, for this was the sum given the Lloyd Sabaudo company at Genoa on condition that the vessel be turned over to the refugees and go direct to New York. Each passenger paid $250 gold as a minimum for first cahin accommodations, leaving a deficit of about $40,000, which will be met by the committee which arranged the trip.

In a long statement issued at New York today, detailing the acute conditions that Americans confront abroad, the committee says the money was well spent.

The voyage of the Udins and the circumstances which preceded it are perhaps without parallel. It was a case of buying a ship, as it were, to get out of Europe. The greatest difficulty was experienced in arranging the financial detalls at Genoa, for while there were milfions represented among the Americans in the enterprise, getting cash was quite an-

NEW HEAD AT CREIGHTON

Dean McMenamy Succeeds President Magevney.

KELLY, A PROFESSOR, IS DEAN

Changes Effective New and Officers Will Enter Upon Discharge of Duties During This Week.

Rev. Francis X. McMenamy, S. J., vice president of Creighton university and dean of the college of arts since June. 1911, has been appointed president of the institution, succeeding Rev. Eugene A. Magevney, S. J., appointed to that position following the resignation of Rev. M. P. Dowling, S. J., February 22, 1908.

President McMenamy resided for many

nary training in St. Louis university, there taking courses in arts, philosophy and theology. Immediately before coming to Omaha he occupied the chair of philosophy at St. Louis university and prior to that time taught English and Latin at Marquette university. Milwaukee, Wis. His administration at Creighton in the position of dean of the college of arts and sciences has been characterized by a patient devotion to details and by a sympathetic interest in the student body; as a practical school man he has displayed unusual ability and his reputation, it is said, has been spread throughout the state by the part he has taken in the sessions of the State Teachers' association. Conservative and yet progressive, he has come to be regarded as a safe counselor in matters educational and has fully sustained the high repute in which the position of dean was held by his immediate successor, Rev. M. J. O'Connor, S. J., who also enjoyed the confidence of Nebraska teachers and gave up the work of education only to accept an important position on the editorial staff of a New York magazine of national circulation From long and intimate associations with him the student body has come to look upon the new president as upon a father, and his elevation to this new dignity will find a quick response in the heart of every Creighton student. Kelly as Dean, President McMenamy will be succeeded as dean of the college by Rev. Robert A. Kelly, S. J., who during the last year has been professor of languages in the arts college.

The retiring president, who is to leave Omaha during the coming week, will take up professorial duties in some one of the Jesuit colleges of the middle west after enjoying a vacation. During his admin istration the university has made marked progress; all of the faculties have been strengthened, the requirements for entrance and graduation raised, the enrollment has grown from 686 to 1,280 and a great deal of expensive equipment has been installed.
