LONDON, Sept. 6.—The following German official statement was received tonight by Marconi Wireless Telegraph company:

"The German army administration reports that in the west the allied troops are in retreat between Paris and Verdun and that the German troops are pursuing them. Paris is empty and the only scene of animation there is around the railway stations, which are filled with thousands of fugitives. The London newspapers do not consider that Paris will defend itself to the utmost.

"In the eastern theater of war the Austrian attack on Lublin continues and the armies commanded by Generals Dank and Auffenberg are still engaged in dispersing the enemy, so as to obtain the fullest advantage from their glorious victories at Krainik and Zamosec.

See Russians in Flight. "Those victories which were achieved after three days of bitter fighting resulted in the flight of the enemy. The Russian advance on Lemberg has been brought to a halt.

"Further important developments are imminent. The first Polish legion under Austrian command, has been formed at Cracow. The emperor has appointed General Von Vaczynski to command this force. Warsaw is being prepared for a defense by the Russians.

"It is reported that fear of the German fleet has caused great alarm in England seaport towns. In Hartlepool torpedo nets are set in front of the docks every evening. Elsewhere around the coast the nervousness occasioned by the German mines is said to be indescribable.

"The enrollment of recruits for the British army is proceeding slowly. From one town of 700,000 inhabitants not more than 100 men reported themselves, the majority of them being tramps. The nation has not been permitted to learn the real situation at the seat of war."

Russians Talk Back. PETROGRAD, Sept. 6.—An official communication issued in reply to statements of Berlin and Vienna semi-official news agencies that the Austrians were victorious over the Russians in the districts of Zamosec and Tschoway, says:

"The Russian official agency is authorized to declare that the Russian troops who, since August 2, have maintained an incessant offensive against the enemy in the district between the Vistula and Bug rivers, completely defeated on August 28, the Fifteenth Austrian division and (Continued on Page Two, Column Three.)

ROTTERDAM, Sept. 6.—(Via London).—Information reaching here from German sources gives additional details regarding the flight at Longwy and the surrender of the forts there. For four days the fortress held out under a bombardment which was terrible in effect. The first shell killed an officer and ten men. Some of the shells penetrated through the three-fold casemates of the fort. As an acknowledgment of the great bravery shown in the defense Crown Prince Frederick William permitted Lieutenant Colonel Darche, the French commander, to retain his sword.

Artillery Duel Near Town of Senlis Described as Equal to Heavy Gale

LONDON, Sept. 6.—The correspondent of the Times, describing the fighting in the villages near Paris, says that at Chantilly, Senlis and other places the Germans and the allies engaged in cannonading with little effect. They then tried the strength of their infantry, with a slight advantage to the Germans, who, however, were ordered to retire. These tactics were characteristic of the fighting for several days previous to September 3.

"He gives a description of an engagement near Senlis, on a large open plain, over which the three main roads converge into Senlis. A French battery, hidden in an orchard, and another behind earthworks engaged the German artillery, which occupied a position on a ridge three miles distant on the opposite side of the plain.

"One heard the curious whistle of the French machine shells," says the writer. "Then a cluster of little clean white balls appeared over the ridge, to be followed a few seconds later by the report.

"The Germans were using mostly heavy guns, though there was a battery somewhere farther along the road, which from time to time shelled the French troops advanced to the folds of the rolling plough land. The Germans succeeded in dislodging some of the French.

"A couple of squadrons of dragoons appeared suddenly out of the hollow and trotted 300 yards to the rear. They were changing their grounds. An infantryman, who sought cover under the same haystack as myself, told me that a shell had burst in the middle of his section and put four men out of action.

"Heavy shells, on the other hand, seemed to have little effect on the French battery. It kept its position in the orchard and maintained a regular fire, while big splashes of dull gray smoke marked the shells which were trying to find it and which crashed into the ground behind its position, now to this, now to that side of the road.

"The French guns fired at frequent intervals. First would come the deep report of the German guns, the note of which dominated the cannonade all day; then followed the sharp sound of the French field pieces. On the roads outside forces of French cavalry came and went. I waited for a fusillade to break out in the woods to the right and left of the open country, where the French appeared to be pushing forward, but it did not come.

An attack, it seemed, might come towards Senlis, so I left Senlis and rode five miles back on the left of the French position to Chantilly to see what was happening there.

"Chantilly was also deserted. There was no sign of fighting, but much talk in the few inn still open. Presently a frightened woman shouted that Senlis was burning. I started back along the road and encountered a stream of carts laden with household goods. A battalion column of smoke was rising. A battalion of French infantry, retreating through the fields, was moving in the direction of Chantilly.

"The Germans fired about forty shells into the town and then bombardment ceased. I went back through the streets to see what the damage was. There was surprisingly little to be seen.

"The Germans had evidently taken the tower of the cathedral as a mark. I had seen one shell hit it and a trail of smoke go up, but only one garzole had been broken from its place and lay in fragments on the ground. Here and there one saw broken tiles. The telegraph wires were down in places and lay in a tangle, but on the whole there was not more havoc than would have been caused by a heavy gale."

TWENTY LIVES LOST AS LINER HITS MINE

Wilson Emigrant Steamer Runo Goes to Bottom on Voyage to Archangel.

CARRIED SIX HUNDRED PEOPLE Hits Planted Explosive in North Sea and Sinks—Two Hundred Survivors Are Landed at Hull.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Nine neutral merchant ships have been destroyed by German mines, according to British foreign advices to the British embassy here, made public tonight. The message says:

"The following neutral merchant vessels are known by the admiralty to have been destroyed by German mines, in most cases with loss of life among the crews: Five Danish, two Dutch, one Norwegian, one Swedish."

LONDON, Sept. 6.—The Wilson passenger liner Runo, with 600 passengers on board, struck a mine in the North sea and was sunk yesterday afternoon. All of the crew and passengers with the exception of about twenty Russian refugees were saved.

The Runo sailed from Hull for Archangel yesterday and fouled the mine when about forty miles off Shields at 4:35 o'clock.

The rescues were made by fishing trawlers, a member of the crew of one of which said he heard a report and saw the Runo rise in the water, then settle by the head until the fore part of the ship was awash. It remained in this position long enough to enable his small boat and the trawlers to pick up the survivors, 200 of whom were later landed at Hull.

The fishing trawler Prince Victor picked up twenty-two persons who were clinging to a capsized boat. The trawler's crew saw three others drowned. The mate of the Prince Victor was lowered over the side of the fisherman by lines and thus helped in the work of rescue.

President Wilson Will Not Make Tour

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—President Wilson announced today he would not make a speaking tour during the coming campaign. He declared his intention of "staying on the job" because of the "unlooked for international situation."

The president made known his intentions in a letter to Representative Demmons of Michigan, chairman of the democratic congressional committee, who had written him asking whether he would make a speaking campaign this fall. The correspondence was made public at the White House.

Germans Lose Heavy in Fight at Thisselt

The Day's War News

The allied armies defending the roads to Paris again have come into contact with the German right wing on the banks of the river Grand Morin, which runs east and west, somewhat south of the Paris line.

An official statement issued by the French war office says the allies' advance troops came into touch with the German forces, which seem to be covering on the river Ourcq, toward the southwest, the movement of the German right wing, and a small engagement resulted in an advantage to the French.

The town of Maubeuge, where it is reported British troops are assisting the French garrison, is said to be still resisting the German assault.

From Berlin by wire by way of Amsterdam comes the report that the Germans are attacking the forts at Nancy and that Emperor William and the general staff are watching the operations.

The British official war information bureau has issued a long general survey of the operations of the British army during the last week and in addition a list of British casualties, which shows a total of more than 15,000 up to September 1. The statement, which is based on a report from Field Marshal French, commander of the British forces at the front, speaks highly of the spirit of the British soldiers and their achievements. It declares that while the British losses are heavy they are not one-third of the losses inflicted by the British troops on the Germans. The statement closes with a call for more men.

Berlin reports that 3,000 British prisoners have reached Dohertitz.

A bombardment has begun of the fortifications at Cattaro, an Austro-Hungarian seaport, by the French fleet, and advices from Cetinje credit the Montenegrin troops with the defeat of the Austrians at Boljanitz, in Herzegovina.

France is calling out the 1915 recruits, and in this way will add 250,000 men to its forces within a few months.

The German reichstag, represented by members of all parties, has promised its full support to whatever measures the minister of marine deems necessary. Appropriations will be made for the replacement of the ships which have been lost and to carry out the program of construction already arranged.

A British steamer of the Wilson line, with hundreds of passengers aboard, has foundered in the North sea after striking a mine. Most of those aboard were saved.

Russian official announcements describe a strong offensive movement against the Austrians on September 4. The Forty-fifth Austrian regiment of infantry surrendered, 1,600 men being taken. German troops marching to the aid of the Austrians were attacked, but the result of these operations has not been made known publicly. A German official statement says the allied troops are in retreat about Paris and Verdun and that German troops are pursuing them. It adds that in the eastern theater of war the Austrians' attack on Lublin continues and that the Austrians are engaged in dispersing the Russians.

PARIS, Sept. 6.—The following official communication was issued tonight: "First—The allied armies have again come in contact on our left wing, under good conditions, with the right wing of the enemy on the banks of Grand Morin.

"Second—Fighting continues on the center and right in Lorraine and the Vosges. The situation remains unchanged.

"Third—Around Paris the engagement begun yesterday between the allied army and the flank of the advance guard of the German right has extended. We have advanced to the river Ourcq without great resistance.

"The situation appears good as a whole.

"Fourth—Maubeuge continues its heroic resistance."

LONDON, Sept. 6.—The operations of the British army in France last week are reviewed in a statement issued by the official war information bureau today. The statement reads:

"It now is possible to make another general survey in continuation of that issued on August 30, of the operations of the British army during the past week.

"No new main trial of strength has taken place. There have indeed, been battles in various parts of the immense front which in other wars would have been considered operations of the first magnitude. But in this war they are merely incidents of strategic withdrawals and contraction of the allied forces caused by the initial shock on the frontier and in Belgium and by the enormous strength which the Germans have thrown into the west (Continued on Page Two—Column One.)

Talk It Over Time

This is the season when husband and wife and family sit down to plan out the things they need.

It is talk it over time—the period when they are most interested in suggestions from manufacturer and merchant.

Naturally they turn to the advertising in their favorite paper—just as they turn to it for "war news."

It is the psychological moment for newspaper advertising—especially for goods that directly affect the home.

Merchants and manufacturers who present their case now through this newspaper will reap rewards in the very immediate future.
