comes as stage manager with the "Wronged From the First" company. He is Bud Burke, at one time stage manager for the old Boyd theater and once holder of the same job at the Grand Opera house.

Bud Burke, a "juvenile leader," was probably accorded the most vociferous welcome. Other features of the entertainment are: "The Eugene Trio," in athletic stunts; Corbett, Shepard and Donovan, a trio of singers; Tameo Kajiyama, a calligraphist who writes in almost any language in every conceivable way; the Kaufman brothers in blackface comedy; Olivia, "The Samoan Nymph," who acts like a seal in the water, and a troupe of trained seals perform with her.

Those who are playing at the Orpheum and who hail from Omaha will be given a round of entertainments this week. They are: Charles Withers, whose off-stage name is Garland Johnson; Miss Edith Spencer, Ralph Marthy and Robert Blaylock; and the Eugene trio of athletic performers.

The first showing of the Orpheum Weekly motion pictures of people in many countries attracted attention. The nature of these pictures, purely educational and at the same time filled with a great deal of human interest, leads Manager Byrne to believe that they will become popular with school children especially. This week pictures are shown of life in Hindustan, Mexico, Holland, Egypt and England.

"Orpheum Beauties" at the Gayety. Charles Robinson was always a winner in burlesque, and big audiences, including many men accompanied by their wives or sweethearts, were glad to welcome him back to the Gayety Sunday. He is not only unusually clever as a grotesque comedian, but also deserves generous recognition as a producer, for the entire show is produced and staged by him and is rich with numerous and handsome costumes and beautiful scenery. The large and pretty chorus, including nine lively "ponies" and as many show girls, has eighteen or twenty changes of costume, all stunning. Robinson's "Dream Song," containing local and war hits, and his duet with Lenora Butler, "I knew him when he was all right," had to be repeated almost to the limit to appease the audience. Sunny May Bernhardt is an attraction all by herself, with her cheery smile and happy disposition, to say nothing of her beauty, grace and melody in the role of the Prize Beauty. Jerry Fleming, a pretty little girl, presents a "tango love waltz" with Joe Peeney that is an artistic as well as popular feature. Feeney and Gus Knoll also score several times with their dancing duets in various characters. The "Famous City Comedy Four" in a specialty combine laughs and harmony so well that they received over half a dozen calls at the close of their stunt last night.

Vaudeville at the Empress. Webster's Melody Mads, accomplished musicians on most any kind of instruments, headline the bill at the Empress this week. The Melody Mads were check roll of synopacted melody Sunday and their offering is a particular bright spot in the list of acts. The six girls play in perfect harmony to Mr. Webster's leading and they play with a vim and exuberance that is often lacking in such concert acts. Martyn and Valerie are an acceptable song and dance team. Roche and Crawford are funny in a burlesque entitled "Catching a Dinkus" and George Wichman is a clay modeler.

Lawrence Hayden, One of the Hayden Brothers, Is Dead. Lawrence Hayden, for many years actively engaged in business in Nebraska, died at 1 o'clock Sunday morning in his apartment in the Genoa, the culmination of a general breakdown that occurred three years ago. However, until the last three months his condition had not been regarded critical. The funeral will be at St. Cecilia's Catholic church at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, with interment in Holy Sepulcher. Mr. Hayden was 59 years of age and is survived by his widow and one grown daughter, three brothers, Joseph and James of Omaha and William of Washington, D. C., and two sisters, Mrs. Thomas Flynn and Miss Sadie Hayden, both of Omaha.

For ten years Lawrence Hayden conducted the Grand Island branch of the Hayden Brothers' store. Some seven years ago he came to Omaha and took part in the affairs of the business of the Hayden brothers here. Six years ago he retired from business and went to Washington, D. C., to live. He remained there until one and one-half years ago, when he returned to Omaha, where he has since resided. It was while living in Washington that his health commenced to fail.

SCHOOL AND COLLEGE WORK

Dean Martin of Creighton Looks for Large Attendance. Students Draw for Hours and Teachers—Commerce High School Will Have New Teachers—Other Notes.

That enrollment of Creighton university, with its five departments and the summer school, will reach 1,400 during the school year of 1914 is the prediction of Dean Paul L. Martin of the Creighton law school. Enrollment in the professional departments, which opened last week, is encouraging. The arts department will open Tuesday with an enrollment of about 300. Requirements have been raised in both the medical and dental departments this year. Entrance can be gained to the medical only after a year of college work, and to the dental with thirty high school points. No students are admitted on condition. A special botany course has been installed at the arts college. Dean Martin does not think the war will have any effect on the attendance at Creighton. Books ordered for the law library from London have arrived safely.

Three women are among the Creighton law students: Miss Genevieve Marsh, who is associated with her father at the industrial garage; Miss Bertha Shick, a local school teacher, and Mrs. Stella Wilton, journal clerk in the office of the clerk of the district court. Miss Marsh was the first woman law student at Creighton and was a member of the variety debating team during her freshman year.

Central High School Opening. For the last week Principal Reed of Central High school, assisted by other members of the faculty, has been working hard to get all the pupils arranged and everything in order for the opening Tuesday. A new method in arranging the pupils in classes was used this year with partial success. Pupils were called to school by classes starting with the seniors on Monday and ending with the entering freshmen on Friday. They were taken into one of the big study halls and were given a chance to draw a number. Those who drew low numbers voted the plan a complete success, but those who got the higher numbers were the dissatisfied ones. In this manner the following numbers of pupils were entered:

At Commerce High School. The High School of Commerce will open at 8:30 Tuesday morning, at which time program cards and locker keys will be given out. New rooms have been secured to accommodate the increase and new teachers have been employed. Those secured up to the present time are Fred Spinning, Miss Anna McCague, Carl McGinnis and Leroy Beck. Three more teachers are under consideration and will be selected early in the week.

Languages at the "Y." Special arrangements have been made for the teaching of modern languages at the Young Men's Christian association night school during the coming season. Classes are now being formed, and some new instructors have been employed. German will receive particular attention.

NEBRASKA WESLEYAN. Great Methodist School Shaping Up for Its Opening Week. Extensive repairs have been made on the heating plant at Nebraska Wesleyan university during the summer in an effort to make it more effective and economical. The department of physics has purchased a new screw cutting lathe to be used in the manufacture and repair of apparatus. All the science departments are having trouble in getting supplies in the nature of chemicals and glassware because of the war. Orders for imported goods placed last April have not yet been filled. Arrangements have been made to use city gas in the laboratories for the coming year. In the past the university has manufactured its own gas from gasoline but the plant has been outgrown.

Prof. E. Carroll Beach of the violin department has resigned to accept another position. His place will be taken by Prof. Kerns, a graduate of Oberlin. Mr. Kerns will also have charge of the Men's Glee club. Much athletic material of high grade is available this year according to Coach Kline. Plans are under way for the enlarging of the gymnasium so that it will be large enough for the scheduling of the strongest teams in this part of the country.

H. E. Coster, who has been assistant in chemistry for the last two years, will have charge of the department as instructor this year in the absence of Prof. Morrow, who is doing research work at the University of Minnesota. Registration for the first semester begins Monday September 14. From preliminary indications the attendance will be a record-breaker and plans are being made in all departments to handle the increased enrollment.

SOUTH DAKOTA UNIVERSITY. New Dean of College of Arts and Sciences Is Announced. Prof. Elmer K. Eyerly of Amherst, Mass., was elected dean of the college of arts and science and professor of economics and sociology at the University of South Dakota at a meeting of the regents of education held at Vermillion Tuesday, Prof. Eyerly is at present professor of economics and sociology at Massachusetts Agricultural college at Amherst, where he has had remarkable success both in his work and in his dealings with the student body. He has received scholastic degrees from Franklin and Marshall college and from Yale university. Later he spent several years in study in some of the leading universities of Germany. Returning to this country he took special work in his line at the University of Chicago.

Prof. Eyerly is intimately acquainted with educational problems of South Dakota, having served at one time as acting president of Redfield college and later holding a professorship at Yankton college. His last teaching experience in South Dakota was at the South Dakota State college from where after several successful years he was called east to the position he has occupied until recently at the Massachusetts Agricultural college.

NEWS of SCHOOLS and COLLEGES

UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA. Plans for Registration Week Are Now Well Laid. The activities of the University of Nebraska throughout all its departments Saturday were being directed toward the exhibit at the state fair. The exhibit will be unusually large and complete, and arrangements are being made to facilitate the passage of the crowd through the building.

Immediately after the exhibition at the fair will come the problem of registration, which has been much simplified in the last year or so from the standpoint of the students as well as those in charge. Freshman entrance credits have been filed in the registrar's office for a month. The number filed, some 600, is 300 in excess of the number received by the office at this time last year, indicating that the number of new students will be considerably larger this year than last. As a further means of simplifying the registration problem, the matter of individual advisers has been altered this year. Upper classmen are free to choose their own advisers, sophomores will be assigned to advisers unless they specify a preference, and freshmen will be partially free to choose. By next year the change will be so complete that all students can choose their own advisers, save where too many choose the same professor.

The new commandant of cadets, Lieutenant Sam A. Parker of the Thirtieth infantry, San Francisco, has not yet reported to the university, but is expected soon. He was a classmate of Lieutenant Bowman at West Point. Lieutenant Bowman, who has been assigned to service in the Philippines, has been spending a month in Colorado and will return to hand over the affairs of the military department to the new commandant at the opening of school.

Entrance examinations for students who are deficient in the necessary number of credits, or who wish to enter from schools not accredited to the university, will be held during registration week, commencing Tuesday, September 15. The examinations will be given in the following subjects: English, history, language, mathematics, sciences. All examinations are in charge of the department of high school inspection, room 203 Administration building.

Fremont College Notes. Prof. Phillips, Swihart, Schavland, Ray, Minnow, Keller and Glines returned from their vacation trips feeling much refreshed and happy to resume work. C. C. Gandy of the First National bank of Leavenworth, and H. H. Harlan, cashier of the bank at Petersburg, were guests at the college a few days ago and very much enjoyed seeing the old school and meeting old college friends. A number from long distances have returned. Among them were Miss Wilmetta Jones of North Battleford, Sask., Canada; the Misses Patch of Buffalo, Wyo.; Walter Harrison, Coltrich, E. D.; Miss Ora McDonald, Hamilton, S. D.; and Katherine Pilkington of Eastern Iowa.

The class in physical drill under the direction of Miss Mixer, was organized yesterday at 12:30. There was a large class enrolled and much enthusiasm manifested. The folk games especially adapted for primary and grade teachers will receive special emphasis. A large number of last year's students who completed various courses, and are to begin work Monday in their respective positions, found much pleasure in visiting the college a few days this week, and expressed delight at the outlook of the coming year.

The fall term of the college opened last Tuesday morning with a surprisingly good attendance. The office force was busy Monday morning resetting a large number of new students and many old ones returning to complete courses began a year or two ago. Registration began Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock sharp and by 11 o'clock each member of the faculty was in his respective place receiving the newly re-enrolled students for assignment of work. The year began with a most favorable outlook.

Beginning with the first day of vacation the work of the endowment campaign has been vigorously pushed by President Warren and his associates. More than half the amount necessary to claim the pledge of Mr. Hill for the com-plotted of a quarter of a million dollars has been raised. Unusual interest and sympathy has been shown by the people, especially the farmers of the county, in the development of the college, and the earnest determination on the part of the president to carry on this campaign has met with a very large measure of success even under present trying conditions.

PERU STATE NORMAL. Faculty Will Organize Extension Centers in Several Towns. Everything is in readiness for the opening of the fall semester of Peru State normal school September 14. Many repairs have been made on the buildings, while the heating and lighting plants have been thoroughly overhauled. The present indications are that the senior class will reach 225 this year, as compared with 185 last year, which was the largest senior class in the history of the school. The junior class will likewise have a large representation, possibly nearly equal to the graduating class.

The president and registrar are just completing arrangements under the authority granted by the state board of education at a recent meeting to organize extension centers in a number of the counties in southeast Nebraska. The purpose is to enable teachers in service to pursue academic, professional and industrial lines of work under the competent direction of faculty members of the State normal, meeting on Saturdays in convenient centers. This work has been carried on in a similar manner in a number of normal school districts in other states. Faculty members will direct this work without other remuneration than their regular salaries. The state board of education desires to extend the sphere of usefulness of the state normals as far as possible without increasing materially their cost of maintenance.

Miss Edith Fraser has recently accepted the position of supervisor of home economics at Peru. She takes the place of Miss Myrtle Ferguson, who accepted a similar position in the schools of Pocatello, Idaho.
