

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Detective Sheahan Finds Charles Brown on His Way to River.

DEPRESSED OVER DIFFICULTIES

Young Packing House Laborer, After Domestic Troubles, Prevented from Ending His Life by Officer.

Depressed over domestic difficulties, Charles Brown, a young white man employed at the packing houses, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Chief of Detectives James Sheahan, who intercepted Brown on his way to the Missouri river, where he said he meant to end his life. Brown and his wife live near Twenty-fifth and K streets. A few days ago the woman had her husband arrested for mistreating her.

Brown was later released, but was very dependent over his wife and domestic difficulties. Yesterday he wrote a letter to his mother advising her of his intention to end his life. He told her of his troubles and of his desire to escape them. He explained that he would drown himself in the Missouri.

He left the house and later his wife discovered the letter to her mother-in-law. She read it and then called the police. Chief of Detectives James Sheahan immediately set out to search for Brown. He met him a few blocks from the river bank on N street. Brown admitted his intention and told Sheahan of his troubles. Sheahan locked him up until such time as he is able to control himself.

Stockmen Are Handicapped. Despite the daily assurances that everything is lovely and that there is no cause for dissatisfaction over the money market, stockmen from the state and many doing business here in South Omaha are beginning to wonder when conditions will change. Bankers out in the state are charging 10 per cent on renewals and will not lend any money except for running expenses and that at a high rate of interest, according to ranchmen coming here to market.

In South Omaha on the Live Stock exchange many of the dealers with money tied up have had to sit by without ready cash. The banks shut down on loans on cattle at the beginning of the war and they have not opened up to any noticeable extent to date.

Complaints are bitter among men who have done business with banks for years now that they must put up with the refusal of a loan from the same banks.

Said one man yesterday: "Before the demerits were in it was the high tariff which caused high prices and high interest. After the demerits got in it was the unsettled condition of business. Now it is the war. In between it is the scarcity of cattle."

Eighth Grade at Jungman. Petitions looking to the creation of an eighth grade in Jungman school and the retention of Miss Margaret O'Toole at the head of the school are being circulated by residents of the Jungman school district. The addition of a new grade will give the principal an addition in salary.

Miss O'Toole has been at the head of Jungman school for some years and is highly regarded by the patrons of the school. Besides her work at the head of the school she has won much praise for her quiet work among the poor and unfortunate of the district.

A year ago she was thanked for the keeping of a very small child whose mother was compelled to go to the packing house during the day. Another child would have had to stay home from school to take care of the infant. Miss O'Toole saw that the older child went to school and herself took care that the youngest did not want for food or warmth during school hours.

Hoctor Leads Raids. With one arm in a sling, due to an automobile accident a week ago, Mayor Thomas Hoctor last night led three raids along lower N street. The raids were commanded by Captain of Police John Zaloudek and it took several trips of the big patrol wagon to carry the "loads" to the jail. The places were "pulled" on the ground of disorderliness.

As soon as the word went out that the police were on the rampage the lid went down on the town. Of the three gambling joints alleged to have been doing business, all were dark except one. The word has trickled out that Mayor Hoctor means to keep disorderly houses out of town if nothing else.

Those taken in the raids last night were Harry Losses, George Mike, Pete Gock, F. J. Martin, John Steneck, Al Hinkley, F. J. Doun, Jessie Ryan, Marie Ryan, Alice Ryan, Nettie Davis, Mary Wolfe, Helen Wolfe, Erna Ireland, Dorothy Drum, Mattie Munson, May Chonowick, Maggie Dalley and Grace Crusen. The places raided were upstairs over 2407 N street and 224 North Twenty-fifth, in the alley.

Argue Over War. An academic argument between Serbs and Austrians at Thirtieth and R streets last night resulted in the wounding of Mike Lemish and Polish Memory. Lemish was cut over the head and surgeons, after dressing his injuries, ordered him to the South Omaha hospital. Polish Memory, with six other men, was locked up at the South Omaha police station. Memory had a knife wound across the left hand.

Captain John Zaloudek, who arrested the men, said that the fight was caused by a partisan dispute over the war. The Serbs and Austrians live in the same locality near Twenty-eighth and R streets in South Omaha.

Messenger Boy Paid For Not Doing as He Is Instructed to Do

To carry out instructions is generally considered the height of virtue in messenger service, yet John Hammer of Council Bluffs, a Western Union boy working for the Omaha office, made a big hit Friday when he did somewhat different than he had been told to do on an errand.

William Sproule, president of the Southern Pacific railroad and nationally known in railway circles, was passing through Omaha and there were some telegrams for him at Union Pacific headquarters. Young Hammer was sent to get them, with instructions to leave them at the Union depot telegraph office.

However, he managed to locate the resident at the depot, and delivered the messages to him personally. Instead of leaving them as directed. Pleased with the boy's enterprise, Mr. Sproule gave him a good sized bill and thanked him. When Johnnie returned to the office he was all smiles from his experience.

"Gee!" he exclaimed to the other boys, "that fella pulled out such a big roll, I don't think it could ever be counted. He slipped me a bill that nearly doubled my week's pay."

Now all the Western Union lads are hoping to run errands for railroad presidents.

Runaway Mules Are Stopped by Dresher

And now Al Dresher is hero of Auto Row.

Al has some mules to haul some of his dry cleaning wagons around town and he also has some automobiles. One of his autos gave forth a loud explosive noise like unto one of the German siege guns and a pair of the mules, standing in front of the plant on Farnam street, started to run.

Drivers and chauffeurs and policemen tried to stop the mules, but they had a mission on hand and did not propose to be headed off. Al Dresher started after them and after they had run down a traffic cop on Twenty-fourth and Farnam streets and rubbed against several autos and started several horses Dresher overtook them as they were headed in on a sidewalk. The crowd of huge proportions which gathered voted him a hero medal, but Al only smiled out his chest and went back to checking in suits.

The occasion being a social given by the National Association of Stationary Engineers' local lodge.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—A dispatch to the Daily Telegraph from Paris says: "An American army officer who observed the fighting on the line of the Rebas-Champenois last week declares that it was of a most desperate character. He estimates the German losses in this direction during the four days fighting that he saw 20,000, a large part of them being killed by the French in bayonet charges. Tightens Her Skin—Loses Her Wrinkles

"I want to tell you how easily I got rid of my wrinkles," writes Lucida Marsh. "While in London a friend, much envied because of her youthful looks, gave me a formula for a home-made preparation which has the effect of instantly tightening the skin, thus smoothing out wrinkles and furrows."

The principal ingredient is powdered saxolite, which can be had at drug stores here. An ounce of saxolite is dissolved in a half pint of water. After bathing my face in this but once the transformation was so marvelous I looked years younger. Even the deep crow feet were affected, and the annoying creases about my neck. It seems difficult to believe anything could produce such results. Several to whom I recommended the recipe have been similarly helped, one an elderly lady whose cheeks had become quite baggy."—Social Mirror.—Advertisement.
