

TODAY IS JEWISH NEW YEAR

Feast of Rosh Hashanah to Be Observed by Followers of Moses.

TO HOLD SERVICES LOCALLY

Ceremonies Pertinent to the Occasion Will Be Observed in the Omaha Temples and Synagogues.

The feast of Rosh Hashanah or New Year's day, which inaugurates the most solemn season of the Jewish religious year, begins this year on Sunday evening, September 20, and lasts till sundown Monday, the 21st.

The observance of this day as a holy season is commanded in two passages of the Five Books of Moses, namely Leviticus xxiii, 24 and Numbers xxix, 1. In neither passage is there any specific command as to how the day is to be observed beyond the injunctions to blow the trumpet, to hold a holy convocation and to engage in no servile occupation.

It is to be noted that this day is the first day of the seventh month or the day of the new moon of that month. The new moon was observed as a holy season by the Jews of old; the seventh month was a particularly holy month, as the seventh day was the holy day of the week; hence the new moon of the seventh month was invested with a significance of far higher import than the other new moon days of the year.

Called with Trumpet. The injunction to blow the trumpet on this day was to call the people to remembrance before the Lord. In the course of time, this ceremony of blowing the shofar became the central feature of the elaborate religious service conducted on the day.

Another idea which in time came to be associated with the day was that this day God weighed men's actions in the scale of justice. For this reason another designation of the day is Yom haDin, "The Day of Judgment."

Local Services. Services will be held in the various Jewish synagogues and temples this evening and tomorrow morning.

At Temple Israel Rabbim Cohn will speak on "Foundation of Peace" tonight at 8 o'clock and tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock on "The Perfect Triumph."

MANUFACTURERS TO INVITE WOMEN TO NEXT BANQUET

Judge McPherson Says Courts Will Decide Shrinkage

In a test suit brought in federal court the Omaha Grain exchange has won what it considers a pronounced victory over the railroads.

The suit brought by the Nebraska & Iowa Grain company was to test the right of the railroads to apply an arbitrary rule relative to the shrinkage of grain in transit.

Later the shrinkage clause was eliminated from the tariffs of some of the roads and continued by others. In the meantime to test the validity of the tariff the matter was taken to the Interstate Commerce commission and was sent back, that tribunal holding that it was a question for the courts to decide.

Then to settle the matter the Nebraska & Iowa Grain company brought its suit, being represented by Ed P. Smith, general attorney for the exchange. Testimony was offered and arguments heard by Judge McPherson some time ago when he was in Omaha.

Suffragist Scores Wives and Mothers Who Stay at Home

Miss Mildred Levy scored the "stay-at-homes," saying they were not as good wives and mothers as their more progressive sisters, when she made her first suffrage speech at an eighth ward suffrage meeting, held at the home of Mrs. T. Rubin Friday evening.

Local Services. Services will be held in the various Jewish synagogues and temples this evening and tomorrow morning.

The Busy Bees

MOST Busy Bees have been too busy lately to write for the Busy Bee page. Before school opened, they were eagerly awaiting the opening day and then the excitement of a new term occupied them.

Very many interesting tales of what happened on the first day of school, how it feels to be back in school again after the long summer vacation, what you are studying, and other stories, may be written.

This week, all the honors are carried off by the Blue Side. First prize was awarded to Clara Warren, second prize to Esther S'rrs and honorable mention to Edith Kenyon, who writes for this page quite frequently.

Little Stories by Little Folk

(First Prize) Charles Dickens. By Clara Warren, Aged 11 Years, Red Cloud, Neb. Blue Side.

Charles Dickens was born in Landport, Portsmouth, in 1812. He received but a scanty education and was for a while a mere drudge in a warehouse and afterward became a clerk in an attorney's office.

Under the rule that the railroads adopted and applied, their idea of shrinkage amounted to about $2 per car and during a year amounted to many thousands of dollars which members of the Grain exchange were forced to lose.

Boy Who Ran Away

By Esther S'rrs, Aged 11 Years, Bradshaw, Neb. Blue Side.

Once there was a little boy who was inclined to run away. One day he saw a little yellow dog over to some neighbors, so he went over there.

On his return from America he wrote American notes for general circulation and Martin Chuzzlewit, which dealt with his American experiences, which contained, perhaps, more of characteristic humor than any of his other works except "Pickwick Papers."

Brave Little Girl

By Edith Kenyon, 329 Cuming Street, Omaha, Neb. Blue Side.

Once upon a time a little family moved way out west, where the cowboys and Indians lived. At last the little family found a place where to live.
