I have this day through a personal interview with the president ascertained that in his estimation the Red Cross, the government's authorized channel, will be the most effective medium which the Daughters of the American Revolution can best serve humanity. Funds should be sent directly to the treasurer general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Mrs. Joseph E. Ransdell, Memorial Continental Hall,

Washington, D. C., who will at once transmit these funds to that branch of the Red Cross where it is most needed, under the direction of the government authorities.

Among other things on display was a musket carried through the revolutionary war, the powder horn of General Nathaniel Green of revolutionary fame, many old blankets, hand woven, one of the date of 1776, and all sorts of interesting things loaned by the owners.

Suffs Want to Even Sit with the Men at the Lunch Counters

Along with the suffrage campaign has come a new set of restaurant manners that have upset the composure of more than one finicky proprietor. The women walk into restaurants, scorn the tables and hop up on a lunch counter stool and eat where the men are wont to bolt their meals.

Elevators at City Hall Make Many Lose Religious Patience

Operation of the elevators at the city hall has caused more than one good Christian to forget himself, but the latest development in the very poor service is amusing. The east side elevator refuses to go down if stopped and started back below the third floor. Hence someone ringing from the second floor must wait until the elevator goes to the fifth floor, gets a running start and shoots down.

On July 29 he was in Semlin, Hungary, where he saw the first shot fired in the present war, when the Austrians attacked Belgrade, Serbia. He was probably the only American in Semlin at that time. Finding his way blocked by the opening of hostilities, he began, by laborious stages, to get back to the United States.

He finally sailed from Genoa, Italy, and slept for eleven nights on a bench on the steerage deck of the vessel, the Principe di Udine, which had been chartered for $100,000 to bring home a company of stranded Americans. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, New York, was one of the passengers.

BRANDEIS STORES

Authentic Corset Styles

Attractiveness in clothes is more often dependent upon the correctness of the corset than upon the costliness of the costume. An ill-fitting and poorly constructed corset will mar the most exquisite gown. A great many women know this and are particular in the selection of their corset. They no longer buy according to size, but rather according to design and adaptability to their individual type of figure, and always keeping in mind the future, the fashionable woman selects the corset that is so constructed that it will not allow the possibility of slight defects to become prominent. There is certainly a secret behind the perfect figure and that secret lies in the

Bon Ton Front and Back Laced Corsets

A heavy corset is not necessary even for the fleshy woman, yet care must be taken that a corset for this type of woman shall be so designed that it's wearer will be benefited. This particular model is designed for medium and well developed figures, made of coutil with elastic gores at the bottom of skirt at sides and in the back, which makes this a most comfortable corset. $5.00

MODEL 883—Made of fine coutil for the average figures, medium height bust, with elastic gore set in, good straight lines in back, skirt is very long over thighs with wide elastic gore set in front of corset. $5.00

Other Models from $3.00 to $15.00. Royal Worcester Corsets from $1.00 to $3.00.
