Rain Calls Off Cub-Box Game and Rush Made for Coin.

COMISKY TO FANS' RESCUE

Orders Secretary to Refund to All Wanting to Redeem Rain Checks After the Officials Take Other Position.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—A cold, drizzling rain which started five minutes before game time today caused the postponement of the seventh game of the series for the city championship between the local clubs of the American and National leagues. The series remains tied at three and three.

A fairly large crowd had gathered, and when the umpire called off the game there was a mad rush for the ticket windows to have the rain checks redeemed. Several of the officials announced that because the games are in the hands of the National commission money would not be refunded, but that tickets for the seventh game could be used when the weather permitted.

When President Comiskey heard of this he promptly ordered his secretary to refund money to all who wished to redeem their rain checks. The work of refunding started with half a dozen of lines with several hundred persons each.

The game will be played on the American league grounds tomorrow, weather permitting.

CONGRESS TO END LONGEST SESSION

ing effect upon the future course of the nation in its foreign affairs.

As a rule the utmost co-operation between democratic leaders in congress and President Wilson marked the session, although one notable break occurred, some of which may have far-reaching effect in the party over repeal of the tolls provision of the Panama canal act.

This led to an alignment which placed the president and some of the party leaders on opposite sides. Among those who took issue with the chief executive were Speaker Clark, Majority Leader Underwood, Speaker Clark's defense of his opposition to repeal furnished one of the most spectacular climaxes in the history of the house.

The president appeared before joint sessions of the house and senate on five occasions. He delivered his general legislative message December 2. Subsequent messages were on anti-trust legislation, the Mexican situation, pleading for continuation of "watchful waiting," the tolls repeal bill and the necessity for a war revenue bill.

Most important of the laws enacted by the congress since December 1, 1913, were: Federal reserve act, creating twelve regional reserve banks, and federal reserve board of control and reforming the currency system.

Federal trade commission act, creating a commission of five members and absorbing the bureau of corporations to investigate organization, conduct and practices of industrial corporations; inquire into unfair competition and alleged violation of anti-trust acts; to aid the Department of Justice and the courts in the prosecution of business offenders; to make public information deemed to be of public interest relating to industrial conditions and to recommend remedial business legislation.

The Clayton anti-trust act, which provides for guilt of individuals connected with corporations convicted of violating the anti-trust laws, limits interlocking directorates, prohibits holding companies which will lessen competition, prevents exclusive and tying contracts, liberalizes laws relating to injunction and contempt and exempts from prosecution under anti-trust laws agricultural, horticultural, fraternal and labor organizations.

Act repealing provisions of the Panama canal law exempting from payment of tolls by American vessels engaged in coastwise shipping of the United States.

The Alaska railroad law providing for government construction and operation of 1,000 miles of railroad, with telegraph and telephone lines, from the lower Pacific coast to interior waters and mineral region of Alaska at a cost not to exceed $5,000,000.

Laws placing on a war footing the volunteer militia and naval militia of the states, subjecting them in time of war to the call of the signal corps of the army.

Law regulating cotton future sales on stock exchanges; providing a tax of 2 cents a pound on sales for future delivery unless actually delivered under conditions and grades established by the Department of Agriculture.

Overhauling much other important legislation were emergency measures demanded by the extraordinary conditions precipitated by the war in Europe. Such legislation, enacted or about to become law, included the following measures:

War revenue law imposing special internal revenue taxes to aggregate approximately annual revenue of $105,000,000 to offset estimated treasury deficit due to loss of customs receipts during the European war.

Amendment to Panama canal act admitting to American registry foreign-built ships of American ownership to engage in overseas and South American trade.

Emergency currency act, permitting banks of national currency associations to issue circulating notes up to 125 per cent of their unimpaired capital and surplus and making available to banks of the country more than $1,000,000,000 of emergency currency.

Law creating in the Treasury department a bureau of war risk insurance, appropriating $5,000,000 to insure ships of American registry against hazards of the European war.

Resolutions appropriating $2,750,000 for protection and transportation of American citizens stranded in European war zones and authorizing the American Red Cross society to charter a ship of foreign registry and fly the American flag.

Appropriation of $1,000,000 for extra expense of diplomatic and consular service in taking over embassies, legations and consular offices of warring nations in Europe.

Before these unforeseen conditions, which demanded decisive action to cope with the European situation, congress had on its hands for most of the session the threatening Mexican embargo, which came to a climax in the act of reprisal by the government in the seizure of Vera Cruz. Many times the situation was critical and actual warfare with Mexico was prevented only by the course of the administration and the cool heads in congress in preventing untoward oratorical outbreaks and unwise action. Legislation growing out of the Mexican controversy was limited to the following:

Resolution expressing congress' justification of employment by the president of armed forces of the United States to enforce demands for affronts and indignities against this nation and disclaiming any hostility to the Mexican people or any purpose to make war on Mexico.

Appropriation of $500,000 for transportation and care of interned Mexican soldiers and military refugees and $500,000 for relief and transportation to the United States of American citizens in Mexico.

Other legislation placed upon the statute books included scores of local improvement laws, many measures relating to land entries, and the following:

General appropriations for government expenses aggregating approximately $1,300,000,000.

Appropriation of $30,000,000 for improvement of rivers and harbors at discretion of War department, passed as substitute for $3,000,000 specific appropriation bill, after prolonged filibuster.

Law granting public water supply to city of San Francisco from Hetch-Hetchy valley in Yosemite National park.

Act prohibiting importation of opium except for medicinal purposes under treasury regulations and placing prohibition tax of $300 a pound on opium manufactured in the United States for smoking purposes.

Act authorizing payment of money orders at any money order office in the country, although drawn on specified office.

Appropriation of $600,000 for treatment and eradication of hog cholera and dourine.

Law limiting labor to women in the District of Columbia to eight hours a day.

Agricultural extension act providing for co-operation between Department of Agriculture and state agricultural colleges in diffusion of information relating to agriculture and home economics, and providing for an ultimate annual appropriation of nearly $5,000,000.

An act ratifying the American diplomatic agencies in Argentina and Chile from legations to embassies.

A provision for election of United States senators under laws governing election of members of house of representatives in states where legislatures had not passed special election laws.

Act providing agricultural entry of phosphate, nitrate, potash and other mineral lands.

Act providing income tax of 1 per cent of the gross annual income of railroad corporations in Alaska.

Law establishing United States coast guard and consolidating the revenue cutter and life saving services, with increases in salary for employees.

Act reorganizing diplomatic and consular service of the country.

Act providing for government leasing of coal lands in Alaska and to prevent monopolization of natural resources of the territory.

Resolution creating commission to consider the subject of national aid for vocational education to report not later than June 1 next.

Foreign relations of the United States absorbed much attention of the congress irrespective of the wars in Mexico and Europe, and formed the basis for discussion by the president in his annual message and in frequent conferences with members of the foreign relations committee. This committee lost its chairman early in the session through the sudden death of Senator Augustus O. Bacon of Georgia. Senator William J. Stone of Missouri was chosen to succeed him as head of this important committee, which was busy throughout the session with the consideration of treaties and other foreign affairs.

General arbitration treaties with twelve foreign nations, upon recommendation of this committee, were ratified by the senate as follows:

Great Britain, Japan, Spain, Sweden, Portugal, Switzerland, Paraguay, Austria-Hungary, the Netherlands and Salvador.

Later in the session and in the midst of the European conflict, the Senate Relations committee ratified new treaties providing for peace commissions of investigation in international disputes not settled by ordinary diplomacy with twenty-three foreign nations as follows:

Norway, the Netherlands, Portugal, Switzerland, Denmark, Italy, Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua, Bolivia, Peru, Costa Rica, Venezuela, Honduras, Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Peru, Paraguay, Great Britain, France and Spain. Similar treaties negotiated and urged for ratification but held up in the Senate for further consideration are with China, Panama and San Domingo. A similar treaty has been negotiated with Russia to be sent to the Senate later.

Notwithstanding its achievements, the congress left much important work unfinished. Much of this legislation will be taken up for consideration in the winter session, though it will be impossible, in the opinion of administration leaders, to consider all of it before adjournment, March 4 next.

Government purchase of merchant vessels as part of the war emergency program, but postponed by agreement with the president until next session.

Revision of immigration laws, including an illiteracy test, passed by the house and approved by the senate committee, but never pressed in the senate.

Regulation of development of water power in navigable streams.

Bill providing for leasing of mines and other natural resources on public domain.

Investigation by Congress were less than has been undertaken in recent sessions. The special lobby investigating committee of the Senate, however, continued its existence and probed into alleged lobbying in connection with the passage of the Panama Canal Act, and the subsequent repeal of the tolls exemption provision. The committee has not yet made a final report. The House lobby committee reported a resolution of censure for Representative McDermott, of Illinois, who resigned his office. Investigation by the Interstate Commerce commission into the financial operation of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad company and the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway were instituted by resolutions of Congress. Investigations also were conducted by Senate and House committees into the West Virginia coal station strike, the Michigan copper strike and the Colorado coal strike. Inquiries leading to impeachment proceedings which eventually were dropped were conducted by the House Judiciary committee into the affairs of Judge Daniel Thew Wrenthall, of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia and Emory E. Spear, United States Circuit Judge for the Southern District of Georgia.

Regulation of railroad rates, and bonds by the Interstate Commerce commission undertaken as part of anti-trust program, but deferred.

Measure for regulation of stock exchanges and boards of trade, undertaken and reported by senate committee on banking and currency.

Bill for greater safety at sea and amelioration of condition of sailors, passed by both houses, considered in conference and recommitted to senate committee on commerce.

Measure for limitation of campaign contributions.

Constitutional amendment limiting service of a President of United States to a single term.

National aid in building of good roads, bills for which were reported this session.

Reorganization of the civil service.

Measure providing for government licensing of cotton warehouses, which passed the Senate, but was held upon the House, and other measures contemplated for relief of cotton situation in the south.

Two Senators, William O. Bradley, of Kentucky, (Rep.) and Augustus O. Bacon, of Georgia, (Dem.) died during the session. Three deaths occurred in the House membership—Representatives Irving S. Pepper, of Iowa; Robert G. Bremer, of New Jersey; and William Richardson, of Alabama, all Democrats.
