School Notes The third grade has begun the character study of the Indians. Harriett Leach was absent from school last week because of illness. Latin tests were given to the sophomores and Juniors last Wednesday. The past week was observed as test week in the high school and seventh and eighth grades. The turning bars have been used more this year than in all of the years they have been on the school grounds. Last Thursday morning George Rieke and Beulah Pell spoke to the high school on the care and preservation of apples.

All of the pupils in the primary room have been very interested in the making of black cats and witches for Halloween decorations.

Mary Donnelly Kobb, who has been absent for some time because of illness, is improving and we hope to have her in school again soon.

The sixth grade has completed the study of the New England states and are now studying the middle Atlantic states. They make maps of the sections of the United States as they study them and thus become familiar with the map.

The Terman Group Test of Mental Ability which consists of ten parts, was given last week. The total time required for the test was twenty-seven minutes.

Miss Ellis took a group of her girls on a hike last Tuesday to see the wonderful color of leaves with which old Mother Nature is clothing her trees. The very enjoyable evening was finished by eating their apples on the picnic grounds. They are planning many more hikes and would be glad to have other girls accompany them if they care to.

Last Friday at 7:30 the freshmen and sophomores gathered at the school house and walked out to the home of Harriett Cheney, where the freshmen gave the sophomores a Halloween party. They were met at the gate by ghosts who led them around the house, down through the dimly lighted basement and upstairs where they were allowed to sit down and rest after the excitement of being in company with ghosts, witches and Jack O' Lanterns.

A number of amusing games were played. One of them was carrying potatoes on a knife from one end of the room to the other, and in this game the girls won. Other games tested our thinking power, while we noticed some depended on athletic ability. The games were all greatly enjoyed. After the games, Halloween cards were matched for partners to answer. We sophomores declare the freshmen a jolly group with which to play as well as work.

A MAN FOR CONGRESS The candidacy of ex-Governor John H. Morehead for congress appeals strongly to the voters of the First district on account of his successful administration of the state's affairs, his generally progressive tendencies and his standing as a man and citizen.

What the people of this city want is someone to represent them at Washington that will look at all questions from the viewpoint of the average man and woman who asks for nothing but a "square deal." They want someone who will vote to hold down public expenditures, oppose ship subsidy grabs, and refuse to take dictation from the higher-ups who get all their political inspiration from the Atlantic seaboard.

Mr. Morehead's record shows him to be just that kind of a man. When he was governor, he reduced state taxes, abolished the mileage book graft, consolidated departments so as to eliminate useless job-holders, and paid his own expense when traveling.

As one of the largest fruit growers in the middle west and the manager of farm properties on a large scale, Mr. Morehead is directly interested in productive industry and understands the difficulties under which agriculture and horticulture are now laboring.

He will oppose a sales tax or any other attempt to transfer the expense of government from the shoulders of the rich to those of the poor. He favors an exemption from income tax up to $5,000 on heads of families, with a higher rate on great incomes like that of Secretary Mellon, which is estimated at $50,000 a day.

Mr. Morehead has declared himself unequivocally as against any amendment of the Volstead prohibition enforcement law.—Lincoln Star.

Three years ago we all had automobiles—one in every home. Farms were being equipped with water and lighting systems. Many wore silk shirts and stockings. Prosperity was on all sides—in the farms—in the homes—in the stores—in the banks. Somebody has treated us like prosperity was a crime. The republican platform called for deflation. President Harding announced it as a policy. A republican senate demanded it. For two years we have had it. For two years nothing has been done to make times ease up. No effort has officially been made. Big corporations are said to be prospering. The Standard Oil, with its 400 per cent dividend, the Armours and other packers, but not a drop of prosperity is yet filtering down upon the western farmer and merchant. Our western banks are still calling for liquidation. And the remedy is to tell those in power you don't like it.—Gering Midwest.
