BE YE HOLY

Sanctify yourselves therefore, and be ye holy; for I am the Lord our God.—Leviticus xx, 7.

The lazy man is known by the excuses he makes.

A head crammed with wisdom is of no value unless there is an outlet.

Some folks make their joys more incidents and sorrows great events.

Isn't it a wonder the Massachusetts boy dressed as a girl didn't catch cold and die?

If you don't believe silence is golden a million will be spent to make a Chicago hotel quiet.

The British elections next month will at last disclose who it is that are the bitter enders.

Most brides expect to be kept in all the little luxuries to which they haven't been accustomed.

One senator says the new tariff is terrible. Lots of people think it is a great deal worse than that.

Some folks save a little money with the idea of buying something they think they cannot afford.

Senator Hitchcock finds people eager to learn the truth and many republicans greet him everywhere.

The disarmament program is very quiet. We can't hear anything for the cries of the Turk's child victims.

Charlie Chaplin has obtained an injunction against an imitator. Why didn't he do that two or three years ago when everybody in the family from the baby to grandpa was doing the Chaplin walk?

Rockefeller has bores showing every penny he ever earned. But there are still other reasons for the paper shortage.

A scientist says there were flappers in Egypt two thousand years ago. Probably Cleopatra's mama was one of them.

Whenever you see a motorist doing a bit of extra reckless driving, you can't help wondering if he isn't an ex-ambulance driver.

An aviator landed in a field and cows licked the castor oil off his machine. A boy thinks they wanted to stay at home from school.

Many republicans assure Charlie Bryan that they are for him. Candidates find sentiment turning to democrats all over the state.

Astronomers say the large magellanic cloud is 110,000 trillion miles from here. What a splendid place for our saxophonists to practice.

The former German crown prince says that the United States ought to give aid to Europe. That's funny—in 1917 he thought we ought not to.

Even if they did organize an aristocracy of brains we know a lot of trash who would go to studying and form a newly smart auxiliary inside of two years.

Henry I of Detroit has reduced his price $50 again and the University of Kansas believes that ought to solve the Christmas toy problem in many families.

Senator Hitchcock seems very enthusiastic with the prospects, not only for himself, but the entire democratic ticket. He says Bryan will win with hands down.

We are told that a dog bitten by a skunk became mad. It can hardly be blamed. It makes anybody mad to be bitten by a skunk. It would make a man positively peevish.

The Irish Free State has ratified the constitution which will convince these Irishmen who don't believe in agreeing to everything that the new government is hopelessly reactionary.

The advance notices seem to differ. One says Clemenceau will tell the United States the whole truth about Europe, while he is here, and another says he will only make six speeches.

Some folks save a little money with the idea of buying something they think they cannot afford.

Senator Hitchcock finds people eager to learn the truth and many republicans greet him everywhere.

The disarmament program is very quiet. We can't hear anything for the cries of the Turk's child victims.

Charlie Chaplin has obtained an injunction against an imitator. Why didn't he do that two or three years ago when everybody in the family from the baby to grandpa was doing the Chaplin walk?
